Roosevelt Tells Europe to Pay Debts

LEFF FIRED IN POLICE SHAKEUP

Targets.

More Strikes.

Precious Instinct.

Mexico's Green Shirts.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT reviewed the United States' "grand fleet" in New York harbor. Photographs show the president standing on the wide deck of the Indianapolis, with Mrs. Roosevelt, Mayor La Guardia, of New York; Mr. Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, and others. It was a fine sight. Ninety-one fine ships, with their big guns and their fighting crews, were assembled for review.

YOU DISLIKE to interject any "sour notes" into a patriotic celebration, but it is necessary to remind the people that those ninety-one fighting ships represent ninety-one easy TARGETS for the explosive bombs and gas bombs of an enemy air fleet.

A handful of American planes flying over our air fleet, less than one-third of one-tenth of the French air fleet in number, could, with good marksmanship, have sent the ninety-one floating targets to the bottom.

EUROPE KNOWS how little surface ships will amount to in the next big war.

The Illustrated London News prints a fine picture of the United States battleship West Virginia going at high speed, firing four of her eight 16-inch guns, and labels the picture accurately, 'A Big Target' for Bombing Airplanes."

EVENTS IN Toledo show that strikes can be unpleasant, following several years of depression. Wall street's belief that numerous strikes always mark the end of a depression and the beginning of new prosperity is partially but not completely reinsuring.

Newspaper headlines announce an impending textile strike that may bring out 400,000 workers. This would be a strike against the government order reducing textile production 25 per cent, which would mean 25 per cent less employment for workers.

The other big strike, anticipated, is a strike of steel workers. Newspaper headings say, "Only the President can prevent these strikes." Just how he can prevent them is not explained.

POLICE OF Alameda, Cal., stood 200 yards from a parked automobile, containing many sticks of dynamite, a considerable quantity of nitro-glycerine and one maniac. From this comparatively safe distance they watched the maniac, hour after hour, while he thought over his plan for blowing up his automobile and killing himself.

The madman, Frank Bennett, war veteran out of work, had no desire to injure others. Policeman William Priest persuaded him to drive his car out of the city into a marshland, far from any residence. In his hand, the unfortunate madman held a switch that, if released, would cause the dynamite and nitroglycerine to explode. He showed the policeman how ingeniously the explosion was arranged. Today's newspapers will tell you what happened.

MEANWHILE, YOU feel grateful to nature and providence that made the instinct of self-preservation the strongest of all emotions in primitive man.

Without that instinct of self-preservation many disagreeable things would happen.

EXPLOSION OF a dynamite bomb that wrecked a store in Mexico City, wounding many, five probably fatally, is attributed to a Mexican organization called "the nationalists." Among those fatally injured was Henry Lister, Jewish owner of the store bombed.

Members of this new Mexican organization, following European fascism, and wearing a special shirt, green and white, declare their intention to "drive all Jews, chinese and other foreigners' from Mexico and to check the spread of American influence."

A majority of the Mexican people, with more than 80 per cent Indian blood, object most strongly to full-blooded Spaniards. They have long sought to drive out the Chinese. The anti-semitic movement is of recent birth.

LATE YESTERDAY the five little daughters of the Canadian mother, Olivia Dionne, born all at once, had been baptized and named by the parish priest and were all doing well. The doctor thinks they will live. They are fed a mixture of milk, corn syrup and water through an eye-dropper. Mothers will be interested to know that the process is so slow that when the last of the quintuplets has been fed the first is again hungry.

If human American mothers had five children as a regular thing, instead of one child, the population of the United States before the end of this century would be greater than the present total population of the world.

IN CONNECTION with the death of the famous Japanese admiral Togo, and the many honors conferred upon him, you read with interest this line:

"Several years ago he was granted the unprecedented privilege of carrying a cane when visiting the imperial court."

What that privilege probably violated a rule as old as the long line of Mikados. In ancient days no man might bring any kind of weapon near the person of an important ruler. A cane might conceivably be considered a dangerous weapon. It could contain a hidden sword or dagger.

THE CHICAGO price of wheat went above one dollar, for the first time since last summer. Prospect of war between Russia and Japan might be some-

AMERICANS WANT CASH, MESSAGE WARNS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—President Roosevelt told Congress and the world today that it was American dollars, wrung from American taxpayers, that furnished the "vital means" for the successful conclusion of the World War, and the American people expect to be repaid.

Mr. Roosevelt's long-awaited debt message went to Capitol Hill at a time when the debtors, who owe the United States some twelve billions of dollars, apparently are preparing again to default on their obligations, due June 15.

The President proposed no new legislation. He merely reported to the Congress the status of the various debtors, reiterated this country's willingness to discuss new settlements with any applicant, and concluded with a rather pointed admonition to the defaulters to the effect that the American people expect to be repaid.

And, furthermore, he said that the American attitude on the debts as a whole is likely to be influenced by the manner in which the defaulters spend their money for nationalistic and unproductive purposes.

REBUKE SEEN

This was interpreted as a direct rebuke to those countries like France, which are in default, and continue to spend huge sums on armament.

The American people, the President said, do not want to put impossible burdens on any debtor country, "but are nevertheless in a just position to ask that substantial sacrifices be made to meet these debts."

After recounting the various defaults, either in whole, like France, or in part, like Great Britain, and remarking that little Finland is

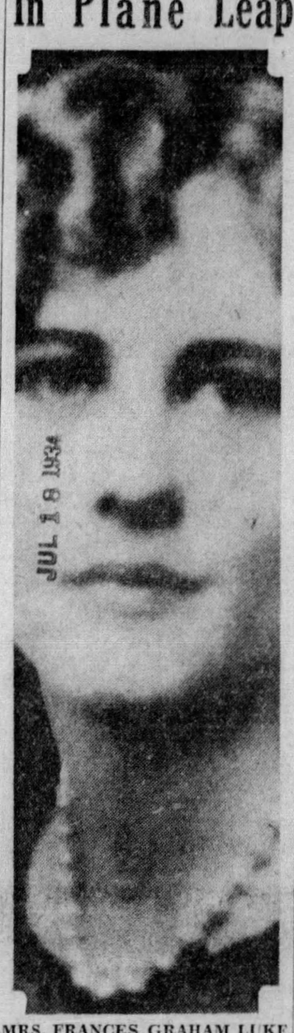
Rich Socialite's Husband Dies In Plane Leap



MRS. FRANCES GRAHAM LUKE

CCC MEN JOIN HUNT FOR BODY

To a mother and her two little daughters waiting in a country mansion on Coraopolis Heights came word this afternoon that the crushed body of husband and father, who leaped 1,500 feet to his death from an airplane yesterday, had been found 15 miles from Richmond, Va.

Believed deranged by brooding over ill health, Alexander M. Luke, 30, of Charleston, S. C., scion of a wealthy and prominent family, jumped from the plane piloted by Beverly Howard.

Luke's wife, the former Frances Kilbourne Graham, daughter of Charles J. Graham, special representative of the Pressed Steel Car Company, was reported prostrated at her father's home, Wilharken Farm, today.

At her side were her two daughters, Jean, 5, and Nancy, 3. They had returned here to live with her parents about a year ago, it was said.

PIRATES, CARDS OPEN SERIES

FORBES FIELD, June 1.—The slumping Pirates returned to their home lot today and opened a four-game series with the league-leading Cardinals of St. Louis. The five-game losing streak of the Gibson Clan had pushed the team back into a tie for fourth place with the Boston Braves.

Ralph Birkofer warmed up to face the Redbirds in the opening tilt. Manager Frisch had Jerome Dean and Southpaw Jim Mooney primed for mound action.

The two clubs will stage the first doubleheader of the season on this lot tomorrow afternoon. The series will close on Sunday with a single game.

STEEL STRIKE MOVE HELD 'OUTLAW'

Johnson Refuses Aid And Roosevelt Plans New Conference

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Union leaders who are threatening a holiday in the steel industry are acting outside of the national recovery provisions and will receive no support from the administration, it was declared today by Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson.

Johnson explained that the steel leaders had failed to lay the proper groundwork in their demands for representation and collective bargaining in that their petition had been presented to the Iron and Steel Institute and not to individual employers. Apropos the distinction, Gen. Johnson declared:

"To invoke the penal and injunctive provisions for violation of Section 7-A of the National Recovery Act, a proper groundwork must be laid, showing freely chosen representation or tender of representation or bargaining and refusal of such tender. In my opinion, this groundwork has not as yet been laid in the steel controversy."

Johnson said that should union

GREEN'S STAND ON STEEL

International News Service.

CHICAGO, June 1.—The threatened general strike in the steel industry will be averted if employers recede from their stand against collective bargaining, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said here today. He added:

"Collective bargaining is authorized under Section 7A of the NRA. Workers have been denied the right to hold secret elections among themselves to determine who shall represent them in bargaining with the employers.

"If the employers do not recede from this stand, I am apprehensive that it will bring on a strike involving directly over 100,000 workers, and indirectly many thousands more."

Due to the several crises at hand in the labor world, Green was to confer with a committee of Chicago labor leaders, meet a delegation of steel workers from Gary, Ind., and address the convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. He is to leave for Washington tonight to participate in efforts to avoid the threatened strike of 100,000 textile workers in the East and South.

VOTE CHEAT DENIED BY MULLEN

Another Defendant in Election Fraud Trial Takes Stand

Martin Mullen, short-mild-mannered Republican district chairman of the Tenth Ward, took the stand in Federal Court this afternoon to deny that he conspired to steal votes for the losing Republican ticket in the 1932 general election.

Under a severe strain, his wife and one of his 10 children having died in the last two months, the defendant effectively concealed whatever stress he felt.

He denied charges brought out by James P. Bailey, the discharged city assessor, who was the government's star witness against not only Mullen, but State Senator James J. Coyne and the five other defendants.

ADMITS CALLER

He admitted that Pat O'Malley drove up to his home in Carnegie street about midnight election night, but denied that he had told O'Malley there were two members of the election board he couldn't "handle," that he had promised to hold up any returns.

He sought to bolster the defense contention that Bailey had threatened to wreck the Coyne political machine and testified that he and Bailey hadn't been on speaking terms for four years.

He insisted that O'Malley had asked only for the district's returns.

The government's contention has been that when O'Malley sought out Mullen he was carrying out the orders of Senator Coyne to steal the election.

O'MALLEY ON STAND

Mullen was followed to the stand by John (Joe) O'Malley, who verified in part Mullen's story. O'Malley, the witness, is a first cousin of "Pat" O'Malley, the dedenfant.

Before Mullen took the stand Prosecutor James I. Marsh ran smack into two witnesses whom he accused of changing stories they had previously told in the government's investigation of vote cheating.

Simpson Replaced As Steel Code Chief

WASHINGTON, June 1. — (INS.)—Charles Edward Adams, New York industrialist, today was appointed to replace Deputy Administrator Kenneth Simpson in the NRA set-up.

Simpson, whose resignation took effect today, was active in the formulation and administration of codes for the steel, coal, automobile, mining and metal industries. He is a former resident of Beaver Falls, Pa.

Traffic Aide Fined For Auto Violation

Cornelius Lyons, 32, of 5641 Penn avenue, who said he was an employe of the Better Traffic Committee, was fined $10 by Magistrate Charles F. Papale today in East End Traffic Court after police testified he was driving without his license cards.

Lyons was arrested last night by Patrolman Hiram McAbee on West Liberty avenue near Sawmill Run road.

Politics Out, Slackers To Go, Slogan in Bell Reform

Named four months ago as a reward for campaign services in behalf of Mayor McNair, Leff was unceremoniously cast aside, presumably with the approval of the Mayor.

Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, budget adviser and counsellor extraordinary to the Mayor, sat in at a conference of Director Bell and Police Supt. Ben R. Marshall at which the discharge of Leff was decided upon.

MAYOR APPROVES

Asked his opinion as to Leff's discharged, the Mayor identified court as the "That's Bell's job. ... of Bell. He is trying to improve the service and no doubt he is making a success."

Other changes announced up Marshall were:

Traffic Inspector Jacob son sey, advanced to Assistant perintendent of Police, to s ceed Charles.

MORE CHANGES DUE

Supt. Marshall announced he would take a rest for the benefit of his health and would leave his new assistant, Dorsey, in charge pending his return. Marshall said:

STATE PROVIDES RUM DELIVERY

HARRISBURG, June 1.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania today announced a delivery system from its state liquor stores. The Liquor Control Board said:

"The service will be in private hands. It will not be operated by the state. Persons or firms wishing to conduct a delivery service will be required to obtain from the board a permit to transport liquor for hire, which costs $100 and requires a $10,000 bond.

"In addition, they must register with the board each of their employes who will take orders from hotels, restaurants and clubs and private individuals and fill them at the stores.

"Delivery agents will act in all cases as the agents of the purchasers. The commonwealth will not be responsible for safe delivery of the liquor or for the charge which the agent makes for the service."

The board will give a 16 2-3 per cent discount to agents on orders of $20 and more bought for licensees (clubs, hotels and restaurants. The statement said:

"Every registered agent may add to the purchase price of the liquor a service fee for his services in purchasing and delivering the liquor, and collect the same, in addition to the purchase price, from the licensee or other person whom he represents."

MAIL ROBBERS GET $17,000

International News Service.

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa., June 1. —Five masked gunmen early today held up a postoffice mail messenger at the Reading Railroad station here and escaped with a registered pouch of mail, believed to have contained more than $17,000.

The money, sent here every Friday morning, was addressed to Conshohocken's manufacturing concerns and was to have been used to meet payrolls.

A second mail pouch, containing parcel post packages, also was taken by the highwaymen. It was thrown from the bandits' car a short distance from the scene of the daring daylight crime, practically empty.

Alexis Greets Father Of Barbara at Pier

International News Service.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., June 1. — ...iving here aboard the liner Brem... this afternoon, Franklyn L. Hutton vigorously denied there was any possibility of a divorce between his daughter, Barbara, and Prince Alexis Mdivani.

The Prince met his father-in-law aboard ship. He shook Hutton's hand vigorously and then kissed and embraced Mrs. Hutton.

Said Hutton, as he entered the Prince's automobile for a drive to London:

Hutton appeared sincerely glad to see Alexis and questioned him at once about the rumors that the prince and his heiress wife had become estranged on the world tour that followed their wedding in Paris.

Hutton said:

"The first time I heard of this divorce talk was when I was crossing aboard the Bremen. I was bombarded with radiograms and radio telephone calls, but I could only truthfully say that I was completely in the dark and had no knowledge of any di... vorce."

Quintuplets Fight Death in Night Vigil

Victory Chances One In 500, Doctor Says; Signed for Fair

By CHARLES E. BLAKE
International News Service.

CALLANDER, Ont., June 1.—The quintuplet baby daughters of the Dionne family here were definitely enrolled today for personal appearances at Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition.

While Dr. A. R. Dafoe, wise old backwoods physician, was successfully combating a sudden illness that attacked the five infants in the early hours today, their father, 31-year-old Oliva Dionne, was signing the contract.

It is a contract contingent on the survival of all five of the babies. No other set of quintuplets known to medical history has ever lived beyond the first hour.

With the money he hopes to recieve, Dionne plans to pay off the $3,000 mortgage on his farm, and provide better clothing, food and care for his five new babies and five other children. The family is poverty stricken.

Neither Dionne nor Father Daniel Routhier, the parish priest who is acting as the Dionnes' temporal as well as spiritual adviser, would reveal the amount of the contract.

During the night death hovered over the quintuplets and emergency treatment was necessary to carry the five babies through.

Late last evening Miss Yvonne LeRoux, who has cared for the children since their birth early Monday morning, reported to Dr. Dafoe that the babies showed signs of digestive illness and were becoming restless.

Dr. Dafoe went to the Dionne farm house and prescribed for the babies. Early today Nurse LeRoux reported that the condition of all five was improving.

In a space of less than 36 hours three of the children have shown distressing signs, but early today both Miss LeRoux and Dr. Dafoe reported the babies were showing signs of improvement.

Three of the babies are still in the incubator rushed here from Chicago. Dafoe said that if the specially constructed hot water incubator had not arrived at the log cabin home of the quintuplets when it did late Tuesday night, at least one of the children would have died.

Dawn of Third Day Finds Infants 'Restless'

CHICAGO, June 1.—(AP.)—Rufus C. Dawes, president of a Century of Progress, said today that the World's Fair would have no objection to the exhibition of the Dionne quintuplets at a fair concession "under conditions that would not be dangerous to the health of the babies."

VOTE WITNESSES CHANGED TESTIMONY, U. S. CHARGES

TRIAL RECORDS SUBPENAED BY PROSECUTION

RECORDS SCANNED

On cross-examination Marsh hurled his charges at Joseph Dudak, minority clerk of the board, and Michael Wallace, minority inspector.

Wallace testified for the defense today that he did not see Pat O'Malley, one of the defendants, in the polling place at any time on election night.

Marsh countered:

"Do you recall an interview with E. J. Connelly, agent for the Department of Justice, in which you stated, 'Pat O'Malley was around the polling place on at least one occasion.'"

DENIAL HADE

Wallace said he couldn't recall that, and denied the statement.

Marsh cross-examined:

"Do you remember being asked before the grand jury what you were doing in the interval from 11 to 4 and you answered, 'Nothing?'"

Dudak said he didn't remember that.

Then he testified that he saw Martin Mullen once in the polling place.

Much will depend on how O'Malley defends himself when prosecutors James I. Marsh and Louis E. Graham take him in hand for cross-examination, for it was against O'Malley that the [illegible] aimed most of its fire. [illegible] ll be the fifth of [illegible] defendants to take the stand, State Senator James J. Coyne, his brother, Tom Coyne, and Walter Butler already having testified. The other two, Frank [illegible]lloran and Assemblyman P. J. [illegible]ney have not yet been called.

ALLEY LINKED

government witnesses, O'Malley election night, was located the Republican headquarters William Penn Hotel, where [illegible]osecutors contend Senator directed the vote-stealing piracy; in front of Martin [illegible]en's home in the Tenth Ward. [illegible]e James P. Bailey, government star witness, testified O'Malley broached the plot to him.

[illegible] was located in the polling [illegible] of the Tenth Ward's Fourth District, after the polls were closed, and, finally, at Penn and Main streets, where the government contends the conspiracy culminated with a curbstone meeting of Coyne lieutenants, including the Senator.

He will have to explain away, too, Bailey's testimony that he said Senator Coyne sent him out to the Tenth, and this quotation which Bailey attributed to him:

"Mullen said he'd tie up the count in the Fourth District (presumably of the Tenth Ward) [illegible] Coyne is over in the Fourth Fifteenth taking care of [illegible]s."

[illegible]day the defense of the [illegible] who spent an hour on [illegible]nd Wednesday, and [illegible]is and Butler was completed.

KERS TESTIFY

[illegible]ublican workers paraded to [illegible]and in an effort to support [illegible]ry told by Coyne. All agreed [illegible]w no signs of a vote-stealing conspiracy in Room 899-E, of [illegible]am Penn Hotel, on election [illegible]t. The door was open, [illegible]ere continually coming [illegible] out, they testified.

This batch of witnesses included Roy T. Clunk, assistant district attorney; John Kane, Republican chairman of the Eighth Ward; Squire John Kenna and Frank Mihm, of the Eighth Ward; James Laffey, of the Fourteenth Ward; Terry McDermott, of Munhall; Jess Boyle, organization publicity man, and Thomas Flaherty, who was steward at the city [illegible]pital at Mayview in 1932.

These were the organization workers who rushed to the Senator's defense. The Senator turned to Harrisburg and the state organization for character witnesses.

Among those who testified to the Senator's reputation were Charles A. Waters, State Treasurer; Frank E. Baldwin, State Auditor General; Senator Harry B. Scott, Republican nominee for Lieutenant Governor; M. Harvey Taylor, Republican nominee for Secretary of Internal Affairs.

Other character witnesses were Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar, former State Senator William S. Rial, of [illegible]reensburg; Father David Hearty, of St. Agnes' Catholic [illegible]urch; the Rev. William E. Howe, retired Presbyterian minister, [illegible]e Fourth Ward; Andrew B. [illegible]sident of the Potter [illegible]ust Company; Edward [illegible] manufacturer; Attorney Houlden, James [illegible]stown, who [illegible] farm in [illegible] Keil, of McCandless Township, and Dr. C. A. Duffy, of Oakland.

GENERAL DENIAL

The Senator's defense was a general denial of the government's charges. He recited his movements on that election day, on which he and Congressman M. J. Muldowney were elected. His explanation of his presence at Penn avenue and Main street at 4 a. m., on the day after election, was that, en route to his farm, he happened to see some of his workers standing there and stopped to talk election.

Attorney John Duggan, Jr., counsel for Tom Coyne and Walter Butler, concerned himself principally with efforts to counteract the testimony of Charles McCoy, judge of election in the Fourth Ward's Eleventh District.

TESTIMONY ASSAILED

It was McCoy who testified that after the polls were closed (and the Democratic landslide was indicated), Tom Coyne and Butler came to the polling place. Butler suggested switching straight Democratic ballots into votes for Republican candidates and, when McCoy refused, Tom Coyne criticized:

"You're a helluva judge."

Butler and Coyne denied this. Butler said they were driving in Coyne's car when he suddenly remembered that he, previously a judge of election, had promised to help McCoy with the returns, that they had stopped at his—not Coyne's—suggestion, that they merely talked for a few minutes about the election and departed. Coyne denied the quotation hung on him and said he merely suggested:

The government contends that Tom Coyne went to see McCoy just after a visit to the William Penn Hotel to see the Senator.

Weather Conditions

Pressure is relatively high over the Atlantic Coast states, and over the plains states, while lows are centered over Wisconsin (Green Bay, 29.64), and over Wyoming and Utah, where the lowest pressure reported is 29.6 inches. The skies are clear over much the greater portion of the country this morning, and the rainfall for the last 24 hours was light and scattered. There was some rain in the Rocky Mountain states and eastward over the Dakotas, but the amounts were too small to benefit the drought-stricken areas. High maximum temperatures occurred yesterday in the Middle-West, ranging from 98 to over 100 degrees over a large area, but the temperature dropped during the night to moderately cool.

River Conditions

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is 0.5 foot; lock No. 7 (Mon.), 10.7; Pittsburgh, 9.9; Dam No. 4, 9.0; No. 6, 7.2; No. 10, 8.5, and ..o. 12, 6.9. The dams are up.

MERCURY AIMS AT NEW MARK

With the mercury soaring toward the 90's this afternoon, Pittsburgh was headed toward a new heat record for the year.

While the temperature had reached 88 at 2 p. m., the weather bureau expected it to continue upward to about 92 before it halted.

The highest yesterday was 89, the hottest so far this year.

No relief is in sight for another day or so, according to weather bureau officials. Tomorrow may be even hotter than today.

ENGINEER HELD IN EXTORTION

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—(AP.)—Frank E. Sutton, 48-year-old mining engineer, was under arrest here today on a federal grand jury indictment in connection with an alleged extortion plot directed against Fred S. Markham, Altadena financier.

The indictment, returned secretly a week ago, charged violation of the Lindbergh kidnaping law, and was based on a letter delivered to Markham more than a year ago and demanding $22,000 in cash on threat of injury to him or his family.

Sutton was arrested last night, but announcement of his arrest was withheld until early today by federal agents.

Sutton denied any part in the plot and expressed amazement at the charges. He was examined for several hours and later taken to the county jail. His arraignment was set for today.

Detailed Testimony in Coyne Vote Tria

Martin Mullen, first witness of the afternoon session, was the fourth of the seven defendants to take the stand. Attorney Mead Mulvihill questioned him.

Mullen testified he was a Republican watcher at the disputed election. He said he had been Republican chairman of his district for 13 years—since he was 23.

Mulvihill asked him what went on around midnight outside his home when he and the two O'Connors—Mike and Maurice—were talking.

Q.—While you were talking there did anybody come up?

A.—Yes. Pat O'Malley in a machine, about 11:30.

Q.—Did you have any conversation with him?

A.—Yes. I said, "How're you doing, Pat?" and he said, "All right, how are you?" Then he asked about the returns and I said I hadn't been at the polls since they counted the presidential electors. Then he asked me about the wife and kids. He knew my wife before I did, before she was married. I asked him to come in the house and he said no—something about bed, and he drove away. He was there five or 10 minutes.

Q.—Was there any mention of James Bailey?

A.—No.

Q.—Before November 8, 1932, had you and Bailey been friendly?

A.—No.

Q.—Were you on speaking terms?

A.—Not for four years.

Q.—After O'Malley left what did you do?

A.—I told McClaren (his nephew by marriage) to go over and get the returns and we'd call up Charlie Martin's office and give them to him . . . I called up and Fullen answered.

Q.—Then what did you do?

A.—Then the O'Connors went home. That was about 1 o'clock. I went into the house and pretty soon Joe O'Malley and Tom Moran came in. They're old friends. They stayed till about 2, and we listened to the radio returns on the presidential vote. I was tired, then, was up all day on the election, so I went to bed.

Q.—Did you see James Bailey that night?

A.—Not after 9:30.

Q.—Did you ever say to Pat O'Malley (as charged by James Bailey) there were two members of the election board you couldn't handle?

A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you make any statements about holding up the returns?

Attorney John Duggan, Jr., called Walter Butler, one of the defendants, to the stand. He is a small man, his blonde hair mixed with gray. He is soft spoken.

Q. Where did you meet Tom Coyne election night?

A. I came out of Thompson's restaurant and saw him across the street and went over.

Q.—What was said?

A.—I think Coyne said he was going to drive Fink down street.

Q.—You went with him?

A.—Yes, I wanted to go down and get some returns.

Q.—You stopped at the polling place?

A.—Yes, and Mr. McCoy saw me and come towards me.

Q.—What did you say to Mr. McCoy?

A.—Well, he asked me first, "How's things on the outside?" I told him it looked like Roosevelt was running away with things. I said that I heard Senator Coyne was running ahead but that Muldowney wasn't, or in effect that.

Q.—Did you ask McCoy to change any ballots?

A.—I did not. When I told him it seems the Democrats were running away with things he said a lot of Democrats voted in here, too.

Q.—Did you ask him at any time to make any changes in the ballots cast?

A.—No.

Q.—Did Tom Coyne say anything?

A.—Tom had previously said he was in a hurry to get home, and he said: "Come on, let's get the hell out of here."

Q.—When you first talked with Coyne where was he?

A.—In front of the Oakland Real Estate office.

Q.—Who was there with him?

A.—A fellow I later found out was named Fink.

Q.—Did you have any conversation with Tom Coyne or suggest any change in the ballots?

A.—I did not.

Q.—I ask you whether you saw Tom Coyne election day other than when you have said you met him?

A.—No.

Q.—How long before that day had you seen Senator James J. Coyne?

A.—About two weeks.

Q.—How long Pat O'Malley?

A.—Six months.

Q.—Did you enter any agreement with anyone to have ballots changed?

A.—I did not.

Q.—Were you in the William Penn Hotel election day?

A.—No.

Q. How long before?

A. I hadn't been in the hotel for two years.

Prosecutor Louis E. Graham cross-examined.

Q. When had you made arrangements with Mr. McCoy to get returns?

A. About 11 o'clock that night.

Q. You know the polls closed at 7?

A. Yes.

Q. Where were you to see him?

A. At the polls.

Q. You saw Tom Coyne as you came out of Thompson's?

A. Yes.

Q. Where is it located from the Oakland Real Estate?

A. Across the street.

Q. What time was it?

A. It was sometime around 12:15.

Louis Schwartz, Senator Coyne's partner in the Oakland Real Estate Company, testified that returns were gathered at the real estate office on election night and that Tom Coyne was in and out.

Fire Capt. John S. Rogina, questioned by Attorney Mead Mulvihill, denied the testimony of James Bailey. He said he was not in front of Martin Mullen's home when Pat O'Malley was supposed to have been there.

John Mullen, judge of election in the Fourth District of the Tenth Ward, was placed on the stand to discredit the testimony of Nellie Llewellyn, the board's clerk, who had testified that the vote count was not started until after 1 a. m.

John Mullen, the judge of elections in the Tenth Ward's Fourth District, was recalled as the first witness today and identified himself as a cousin of Martin Mullen, the defendant. Prosecutor Marsh cross-examined.

Q.—How did you proceed with the vote count?

A.—We took the head of the ticket first, after we counted the straight ballots.

Q.—Where was Nellie Llewellyn?

A.—I wouldn't say. She was there somewhere.

Q.—Was a man named Stutz there?

A.—I believe he was.

Q.—Did he have any connection with the board?

A.—No.

Q.—Was a man named John Mullen there?

A.—I couldn't recall.

Q.—Is he a cousin of Martin Mullen?

Attorney Mulvihill objected.

Q.—Did Nellie Llewellyn leave the polling place at any time?

A.—She left once or twice for 5 or 10 minutes.

Q.—At what time did she leave?

A.—I just couldn't recall.

A.—I called out each vote.

Q.—Who watched you?

A.—Nobody . . . the other four were tallying on scratch paper.

Q.—Who else was in the polling place when you were counting the ballots?

Q.—Who was there at 1:30 a. m. when you finished?

A.—I just don't recall . . . people were coming in and going out.

(Nellie Llewellyn had testified she saw O'Malley there during the evening.)

Attorney Mulvihill then called Joseph Dudak, who told the jury he had served as minority clerk on the board of the Fourth District, Tenth Ward.

Dudak testified that after the polls closed, the board cleared the table and began the segregation of ballots and the count.

Q.—Do you know Patrick O'Malley?

A.—I didn't then, but I have met him since.

Q.—Did you see him around the polls any time during the day or night, with particular reference to about 8 o'clock?

A.—No, I didn't see him at all.

Prosecutor Jai[illegible] cross-examined.

Q.—Do you rememb[illegible] asked before the grand jury, "What were you doing in the interval from 11 to 4?" and you answered "Nothing?"

A.—I do not remember that.

Q.—Was John Mullen (not the board member) there?

A.—I don't know . . . there were a group of people there, 50—25 or 50.

Q.—Didn't you or anyone on the board inquire whether they had any right to be there?

Q.—Was Martin Mullen there?

A.—I believe so . . . he left about 9:30. I didn't see him later.

Q.—Do you remember testifying before the grand jury that Martin Mullen would come and go at intervals . . . did you so testify?

A.—I don't recall.

Q.—Did you see Pat O'Malley there?

A.—I don't recall.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that Pat O'Malley was there about 2 in the morning?

A.—I didn't see him.

Michael Wallace, minority inspector of the board, was called.

Q.—Did you see O'Malley there about 8 o'clock?

A.—I didn't see him.

Marsh cross-examined:

Q.—Did you see him after[illegible]

A.—I didn't see him at all.

Q.—Now you said you didn see O'Malley. Do you recall an interview with E. J. Connelly, an agent for the Department of Justice, in which you stated, "Pat O'Malley w[illegible] around the polling place on at least one occasion?"

A.—I don't recall that.

Q.—Do you deny the statement?

A.—Yes, sir.

Alderman Arthur McConnell was called. He was a Democratic watcher at the Fourth District, Tenth Ward.

Q.—How long were you at the polls?

A.—I left when the polls closed and came back and stayed until 9:30, then left until 10:30. I came back in about 10 minutes and stayed until 12:[illegible] or 1.

Q.—Do you know Pat O'Malley?

A.—To see him.

Q.—Was he at the polls while you were there?

A.—No.

Q.—While you were at the polls was there any interruption in the work?

A.—No.

Q.—Did the board stop at any time between 11 and 1?

A.—I couldn't say.

Under cross-examination, McConnell said he might have left finally between 12 and 12:30, but no earlier.

Henry Tierney, also a Democratic watcher, testified that he did not see Patrick O'Malley at the polls, but that Martin Mullen was there for a short time.

Joseph Kiley, election constable, testified he stayed at the pol[illegible] until after 2 a. m., but did not see O'Malley. He saw Martin Mullen, who was there. A large group of watchers also was there.

Marsh asked:

Q.—What time did Mullen leave?

A.—About 9:30.

Q.—Did he come back?

A.—No.

Q.—Why are you so sure he didn't return, when there were others in the room you cannot recall?

A.—Anyone coming in had to knock, for the door was locked, and I'd remembered if he came back.

Q.—Did Nell Llewellyn leave?

A.—Yes, some time after 9:30.

Q.—Did she knock when she returned?

A.—Yes.

William Stutz, of Carnegie street, was called.

Mulvehill asked:

Q.—Do you know Nellie Llewellyn?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you ask Nellie Llewellyn to leave the polling place?

A.—No.

Marsh on cross-examination said:

Q.—What did you say to Nell Llewellyn?

A—I said "Hello."

Mrs. Margaret Brown, of Dresden way, was called to offset the testimony of James Bailey that Fire Capt. John Regina was with Martin Mullen about the time O'Malley arrived.

Mrs. Brown testified that [illegible] had a bite to eat with Regina and his wife in the Regina home shortly before midnight, that they then said they were going to bed.

Maurice O'Connor, who also was a government witness, denied Timothy Bailey's testimony. O'Connor said he did not see or talk with Bailey election night, let alone ask him where his brother Jim, was.

Then came Thomas McClarence, 23-year-old nephew of Martin Mullen's wife, who died two weeks ago. His testimony was designed to blast the story of James Bailey who had told of O'Malley propositioning him, across the street from the Mullen home, to stuff votes.

Q.—Did you see Pat O'Malley?

A.—Yes. O'Malley came along in a machine and said, "Is Marty there?" He asked Mullen for the returns and Marty said they only had presidential returns. O'Malley then drove away . . . No, I didn't see James Bailey . . .

Marsh cross-examined:

Q.—What kind of a car did O'Malley drive?

A.—I don't know, but it was a pretty nice one.

Q.—After O'Malley left what did you do?

A.—I went over to the polling place (as directed by Martin Mullen) and got the returns.

Q.—Were the O'Connor brothers (Maurice and Mike) still there when you came back with the returns?

A.—Yes.

Marsh then hammered away 10 minutes trying to find a weak spot in the young witness' story.

POLICE SHAKEUP OUSTS LEFF

bottom before we are through. Every division will be included in our plans. The slackers will have to get out."

Ouster of Leff was foreshadowed yesterday when Director Bell called at his office and was understood to have given an ultimatum that better work on the part of 35 city detectives and a dozen precinct detectives must be forthcoming or drastic action would be taken.

A former captain of detectives, Leff retired many years ago to become head of the Merchants' Mutual Protective Association.

POLICE LEADER

He organized an association of police veterans and waged a bitter fight against the late Mayor Charles H. Kline and his successor, John S. Herron. Leff was credited with leading many former policemen into McNair's camp.

Charles was a protege of former Councilman James M. Malone. The latter also threw his strength to McNair at the general election.

Wheeler, who will take Leff's place, began his police career as a patrolman.

From 1918 to 1920 he served with the American Expeditionary Forces overseas.

In 1923 he was made a sergeant at the Penn Avenue Station. Two years ago he became sergeant of the homicide squad. His former boss, Frank R. Boyd, will continue as captain of detectives.

Today's appointees were sworn in by Director Bell and took over their posts immediately.

KIDNAPED GIRL CLUE FOUND

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 1.—(AP.)—A girl who looks like a child kidnaped from h[illegible] home in Rupert seven years ago has been found in Texas, state [illegible] said today.

Dorothy Evelyn [illegible] then aged 6, disappeared fr[illegible] her home in Rupert in Octobe[illegible] 1927, and a nation-wide search was begun for her and for William Mavin Roman, charged with abducing her.

CIVIL SERVICE BODY LAUDED

Mayor McNair's Civil Service Commission was defended by Councilman Walter R. Demmler, Democrat, today in a speech before the Henry George Club in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

Comparing the present Civil Service Commission with the one under the last city administration, Demmler said conditions now are much improved, with meritorous employes benefitting more than ever before.

In describing how the situation used to be, Demmler said:

"Men were sent to the city pools as life guards last year, even though they were unable to swim."

"The record does not justify retaining Finley on the board."

Demmler urged that Pittsburgh should be paid its annual $300,000 license fee before any payments are made to bondholders of the street railway companies.

Washington State Open to Nudists

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 1.—(AP.)—Nudist colonies can flourish in Washington without fear of state regulatory laws, Browder Brown, Assistant Attorney General, held yesterday.

In a letter replying to a request from J. W. Morland, dean of the law school, Valparaiso (Ind.) University, Brown said the Washington Legislature never has enacted any laws regulating nudists or nudist colonies. Morland sought a digest of Washington nudist laws.

ARMS PARLEY ADJOURNS

International News Service.

GENEVA, June 1.—Admittedly facing the gravest crisis since it assembled more than two years ago, the Geneva disarmament conference adjourned this afternoon until next Wednesday.

In the interval a desperate effort will be made to save the conference from collapse.

The conference faces "the gravest moment since it assembled in 1932," Arthur Henderson, presiding, told the general commission of the conference.

Henderson said:

"The situation cannot be remedied by speeches. The diverdence of opinions is too wide. We need time to reflect and I hope by Monday, when I will call the bureau (the conference steering committee) together, it will be possible to find a road along which we may travel."

Henderson's declaration was considered a hasty move to prevent Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, from virtually wrecking the conference this afternoon by denouncing the Franco-Soviet negotiations for a pact of mutual assistance.

Box Invented to Safeguard Ballots

Device Aimed at Vote 'Steals' Offered To County

A ballot box which the inventor guarantees against tampering and stuffing will soon be offered to the County Commissioners.

Equipped with a device that clamps the ballot seal firmly over the voting slot and a lock that registers a number every time it is opened, the box is constructed to defy attempts at vote fixing.

INDORSED BY BUREAU

Darkins said members of the Election Bureau have indorsed his invention and will recommend it to the Commissioners.

He asserted, also, that the box will be used at the next elections in Westmoreland, Lawrence, Butler and Washington counties.

Adoption of Darkins' idea would eliminate the possibilities of stuffing the box after removing the seal, which, under the present system, is affixed to the lid with wax. An arrangement on his ballot container holds the seal to the lid in a steel clamp.

MADE OF STEEL

It can be released only by unlocking the box and this is immediately indicated by a change in the lock number. Since a ballot box needs to be opened only twice for an election, once to clear out old ballots and at the end of the day for the count, a third opening would testify to tampering.

Vote officials, through records of all lock numbers, could check on every precinct. A blow torch would be needed to gain access to the locked box, since it is made of steel, and all parts and hinges are welded to it.

BOMB ON WHEELS' ABANDONED, VET DEMANDS JOB

HUNGER CRAZED, NOT INSANE, HE SAYS

Prosecutor Insists on Treatment, but Bennett Pleads for Work

ALAMEDA, Cal., June 1.—(AP.)—Frank Bennett, unemployed mechanic who for almost 24 hours kept police at bay as he sat "supreme" on a load of powerful explosives, denied today that he is insane. The 38-year-old war veteran said:

"I hope nobody believes that I am nutty. I was frantic and desperate because my family was starving—half crazy, maybe, but not insane."

Bennett, a World War aviator who suffered a basal fracture of his skull several years ago, was examined by Dr. O. D. Hamlin, county physician, who said he discovered the "cycle" which he said caused Bennett to have periods of mental depression.

"I know I am a sick man and can't be trusted at large."

So said Bennett at the county hospital, where he was removed from jail after abandoning a hunger strike.

TREATED AS 'SICK'

District Attorney Earl Warren informed Bennett he planned to treat him as a sick man, after Bennet reiterated his statement he had not planned to harm anyone else in his weird suicide plot so his destitute family could obtain his insurance.

Bennett said he served as an electrician in the Aviation Corps in the World War and said he also served under Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler in Nicaragua, and also acted as interpreter for Butler for four years.

Inspector Al Sturzinger, one of the police officers who persuaded Bennett to surrender yesterday, will sign an affidavit, and then an insanity charge probably will be preferred, Warren announced, explaining this would be followed by a trial to determine Bennett's sanity.

RECALLS JOB PLEDGE

Bennett recalled the police promise of a job and $2,000 which led him to step from his explosive-laden automobile without carrying out his threat to spring an electric detonating switch. He said:

"I took the police at their word when they promised me work and aid for my family. I hope they don't go back on that."

ACCEPTS OFFER

Bennett only scowled and shook his head. Jackson suggested:

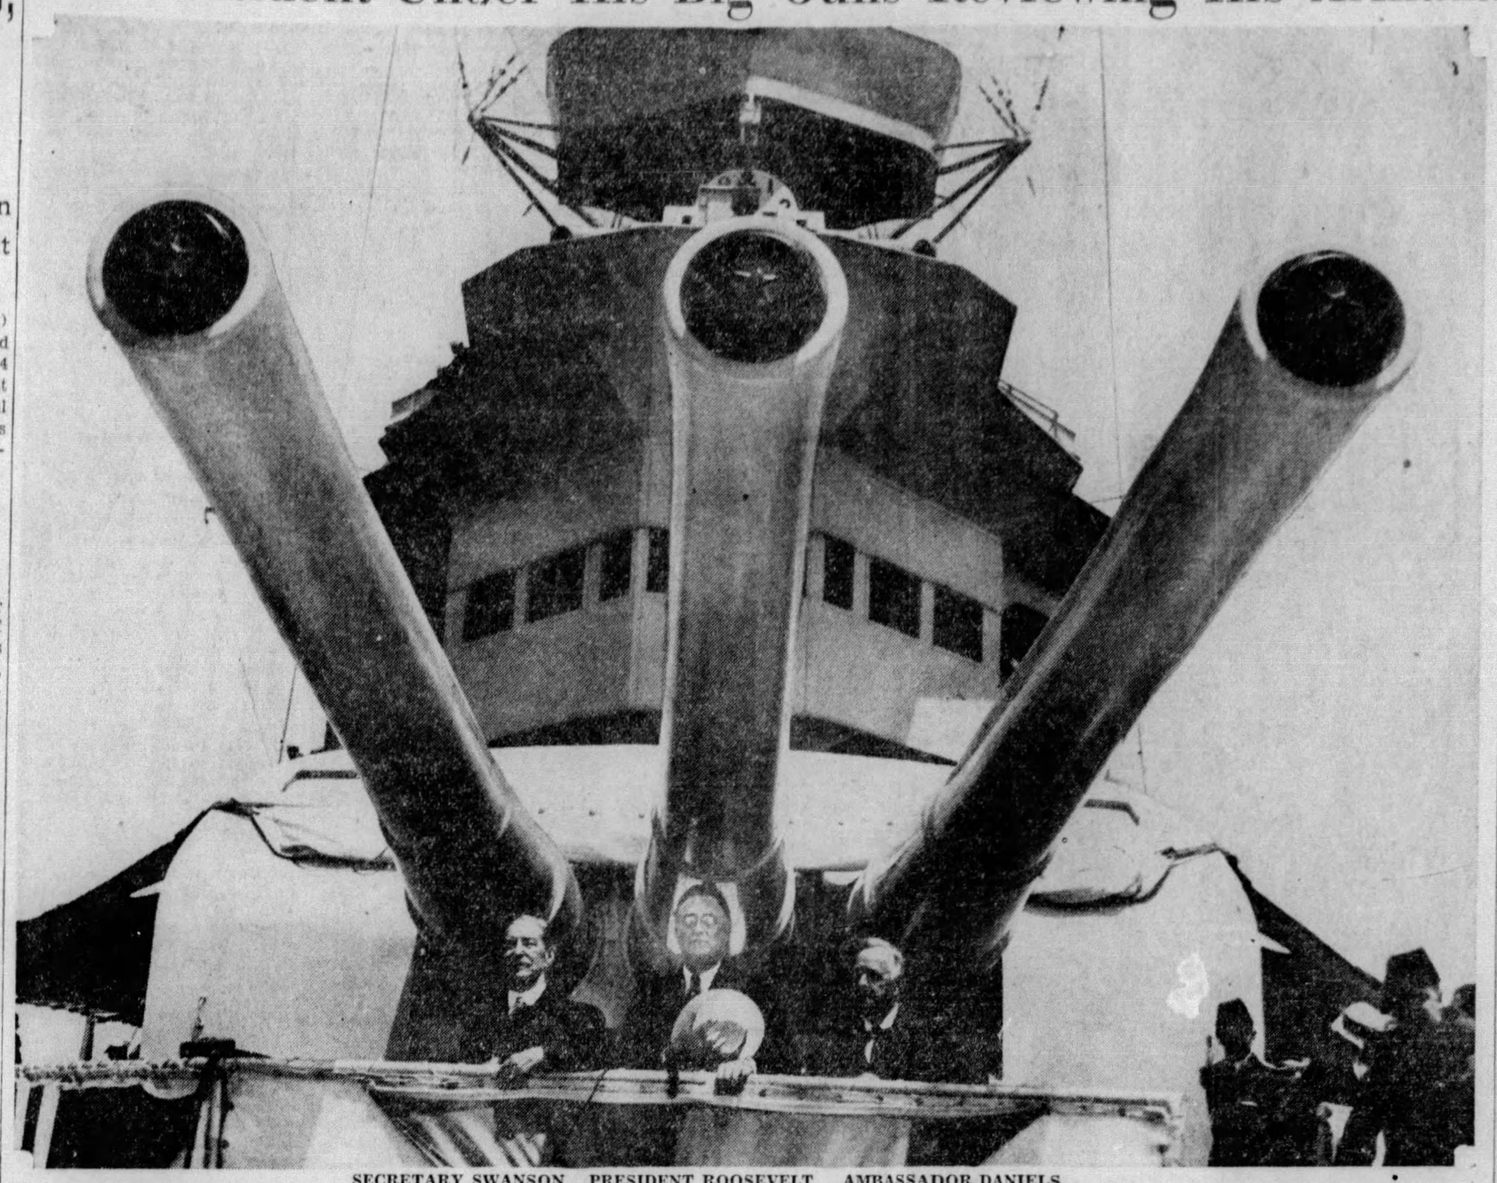
"Let's get in my car and go for a ride. If you do, we will see that you get $2,000, a job, and we'll put your family up in a fine hotel. Will you do that?"

After considering the offer for a few minutes, Bennett suddenly nodded and stepped into the arms of the two officers. He told them how to disconnect the detonating switch.

Later Bennett said he had surrendered because the police convinced him "there is a chance for life and a job. I've been in the bread line for a year and I couldn't stand it any longer."

Bennett said he came to Alameda from Detroit five years ago to work in an automobile assembling plant, but had been out of work for three years.

The President Under His Big Guns Reviewing His Armada



SECRETARY SWANSON PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AMBASSADOR DANIELS

ROOSEVELT AT GRADUATION

International News Service.

GROTON, Mass., June 1.—President Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived here by motor from Worcester, Mass., today and saw his son, John, graduate from the Groton School, of which he himself is an alumnus.

He was accompanied by his wife, his mother and his eldest son, James.

On his trip here, the President was closely guarded by state and local police and federal operatives as a result of an anonymous tip an attempt would be made to dynamite a viaduct. Authorities branded the tip a hoax.

At noon the President was the guest of the school rector, the Rev. Endicott Peabody, at lunch. Dr. Peabody taught Mr. Roosevelt years ago when the President was a student at Groton and greeted his old pupil affectionately at the entrance of the grounds today.

Tomorrow, the Executive will speak at Groton, and tomorrow night, at midnight, will leave for his Hyde Park (N. Y.) home to spend Sunday.

Sunday night the Presidential special will pull out of Hyde Park for the return trip to Washington.

Astor May Marry At Newport in July

NEWPORT, R. I., June 1.—(INS.)—John Jacob Astor III and Ellen Tuck French may be married in Trinity Church here the first week in July.

This was indicated today by Mrs. Livingston French, mother of the bride-elect. Astor declared he preferred to have information concerning the wedding come from Miss French.

LaGuardia Gives Fleet 'Key' to All New York

Bands in Greeting; Big Town 'Navy Conscious'

NEW YORK, June 1.—(AP.)—New York City, "Navy conscious" after witnessing yesterday's unprecedented display of American sea power, turned out its brass bands, its dignitaries and platoons of New York's "finest," and extended the city's official welcome today to the United States fleet.

Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia tendered a figurative key to the metropolis to Admiral David F. Sellers, commander-in-chief of the fleet, and his flag officers at City Hall. The Mayor told Admiral Sellers:

"This is the official welcome, but I am sure that you, your officers, and men, received a spontaneous and genuine welcome from the people—one million of them—who lined the shores yesterday."

Admiral Sellers voiced his appreciation for the city's "magnificent welcome," and gave way to Josephus Daniels, ambassador to Mexico and wartime Secretary of the Navy.

Obviously moved by yesterday's events in which he reviewed the great fighting armada at the side of President Roosevelt, Daniels said:

"I was a happy man when the President of the United States, who stood with me at the close of the war here, asked me to come back to New York to stand once more at his side.

"'You are my boss,' I told him. 'And you were my chief,' he told me.'"

The naval officers, in full dress uniform, were driven in open cars from the Battery up Broadway to City Hall. The streets were lined with thousands of workers from the financial district.

Meanwhile New York's citizenry, taking full advantage of the Navy's invitation to look over its "battle wagons," continued to swarm along Riverside Drive and the fleet anchorages in the Hudson River.

ESCAPES JAIL IN SWISSVALE

An alleged small-time bank looter escaped through a window in the Swissvale Police Station last night and was being sought throughout this district today.

The fugitive is Claire Rambler, 23, of Lawrence street, Swissvale. He is said by the Swissvale authorities to have admitted entering a bank in Bolivar, Westmoreland County, obtaining a small sum of money, stamps and two revolvers. He is also wanted, police say, on charges of breaking and entering in Swissvale and in Crafton a robbery charge.

In his escape Rambler is believed to have opened an unlocked window, climbed onto the roof of the rear part of the police station and jumped to a porch roof adjoining. He was described as 5 feet 10 inches tall, weight 169 pounds. He was wearing an overall jacket and no hat.

KILLER SPARED DEATH CHAIR

He was to have been executed at 11 o'clock last night for the murder of Louis Holt, a railroad foreman. He had insisted that Holt fired first and that the slaying was in self-defense.

At 8 o'clock last night, with electric death only three hours away, the principal keeper at Sing Sing Prison went to the death cell. He found Leone, 54, and father of four children, standing expressionless; a man about to die.

The principal keeper said:

"Charlie, you get your break. The Governor's office has just telephoned. The Governor said to discontinue all preparations for your execution. He said, Charlie, that your sentence had been commuted to life imprisonment."

The condemned man's expression underwent no change. He stood emotionless in the center of his cell, dully running his hand over the shaved circle of his head where, but for Gov. Lehman, an electropode would have been fastened at 11 o'clock to send him to death.

Wife Slayer Meets Doom Blaming Self

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., June 1.—(AP.)—Nathan Brooks, Houston Negro, was electrocuted shortly after midnight for the slaying of his wife. The Negro calmly walked to the chair saying:

"I brought it all on myself."

RADIO PIANIST, SINGER TO WED

Voices that are heard on radio broadcasts from Station WCAE will team up on "I do" tomorrow when Gene Llewellyn becomes the bride of Howard Price. Miss Llewellyn is WCAE staff pianist and vocalist, and Price is a member of the Pittsburghers quartet.

The informal wedding will be in the First Presbyterian Church at 1:45 p. m. with the Rev. Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney officiating. Miss Llewellyn is a daughter of Mrs. Anna Llewellyn, William Penn highway, Wilkinsburg, and Price is a son of Mrs. Blodwyn Price, of Scranton.

ANTI-SPITTING SNOOPING ON

County police disguised as loafers in civilian clothes were on sentinel duty in the Court House today looking for unwary expectorators for violations of the health laws.

Six weeks ago, County Commissioner C. M. Barr ordered all cuspidors removed from the Court House corridors as an aid to cleanliness and attractiveness.

At the same time, he issued a ban against "spitting" on the floors, so today Capt. W. E. Rucker, of the county police, detailed a squad to patrol the corridors in search of violators, against whom informations will be filed for violating health laws.

HUSBAND LAZY, TEACHER SAYS IN DIVORCE

Told Wife He'd Let Her Drown, Court Informed

Mrs. Erma R. Miller, former school teacher of 1807 Power street, McKeesport, testified in her divorce action today against Alfred D. Miller, that her husband told her:

"If you and my mother were drowning, I would save my mother because I could get another wife."

The wife testified before Visiting Judge Alfred E. Swoyer that her husband was lazy and quit his job soon after their marriage, December 29, 1929.

He was unable to pay their honeymoon bills at the Willard Hotel, Washington, and caused her embarrassment, she said. He also insisted that she keep the baby from crying and that she devote 24 hours a day to caring for the child, she charged.

Miller made a general denial of his wife's charges. She alleges cruelty and indignities.

OUIJA SLAYING TOLD TO COURT

ST. JOHN, Ariz., June 1.—(AP.)—A daughter's story of how she killed her father through the asserted influence of her mother when a Ouija board and a deck of cards decreed death, was placed in Superior Court records today.

The testimony of 15-year-old Mattie Turley was given at the trial of her mother, Dorothea Irene Turley, accused of "intent to murder" in the shooting of her husband, Ernest J. Turley, who was wounded fatally by his daughter at their ranch home.

The girl said the mother wanted a divorce but the father opposed it, so "mother decided she'd have to kill him." A Ouija board was brought out, the child said, and the mother told her Ouija had chosen her to do the killing. The daughter said her mother also turned up the ace of spades from a deck of cards and told her it meant death for "daddy."

Several times the girl said she "lost her nerve" but finally shot. Turley died more than a month later.

GIRL ADVENTIST FOR PETTING

LINCOLN, Neb., June 1.—(AP.)—"Petting" has its moments, young people of the Seventh Day Adventist Church agreed here today, although they were on record unanimously against the practice in general.

The 850 young men and women from nine Midwestern states voted a resolution last night against petting, after a discussion led by the Rev. A. W. Peterson, of Washington.

Continuing the discussion today, Miss Ellen Swayze, of St. Paul, Minn., objected to what she called a "misunderstanding" as a result of the blanket resolution. She said:

"I think there is a time when it is proper, especially between engaged people, that a more than verbal expression of affection be manifest. How is a girl going to know that a man loves her if he only tells her so from across the room?"

This brought laughter and applause and Mr. Peterson agreed that "there is time when such action as Miss Swayze suggests is proper."

TWO SISTERS TO MARRY BROTHERS

Double Ceremony Set For Tomorrow in Wexford Church

Two brothers and two sisters, engaged two months, waited until today to take out their licenses to wed.

The two brothers from Wexford and their two sweethearts from Gibsonia presented the Marriage License Bureau in the City-County Building with one of the most unusual events in its history.

Walter W. Schmidt, 33, engineer, obtained a license to marry Grace I. Rushnock, 27. Louis J. Schmidt, 23, a coal miner, obtained one to marry Blanch E. Rushnock, 22.

Said the younger Schmidt:

"We waited two months for this. But you're wrong if you think we are also going to live together. We're afraid we might fight."

The older Schmidt put in:

"But we're taking our honeymoon together."

It was Miss Grace Rushnock's turn:

Miss Blanche Rushnock got the last word:

"Our two sisters have a hand in the wedding—it's a real family affair. One sister, Mrs. H. T. Bloom, will be matron of honor and a younger sister, Dorothy, will be maid of honor."

DUNN TERMED 'OTHER MAN'

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—(AP.)—James Dunn, actor, was identified yesterday in court as the "certain motion picture star of wealth and social position" who James A. Carnal, husband of Patricia Lee, screen actress, alleged was responsible for breaking up his home.

Inquired the husband's attorney:

"Did you have a conversation with Mrs. Carnal around Christmas time of last year?"

The witness replied:

"Yes. I asked her if she was going to marry James Dunn, and she said she intended to."

Miss Lee charged her husband deserted her after quitting his job and selling their furniture. From the witness stand the attractive blonde actress confirmed "going around with" a "certain actor," but said it had taken place after Carnal had left her to shift for herself.

Dunn was unavailable for comment in connection with the mention of his name.

DILLINGER PAL SURROUNDED

International News Service.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Federal agents surrounded a North Side hotel here today following a report that John Hamilton, first lieutenant of John Dillinger, and a woman member of the gang, were stopping there.

The information, police said, came from a woman who notified Lieut. Michael Loftus.

City police, however, remained away from the vicinity of the hotel when informed that federal agents had laid a trap for the desperado and his girl friend and expected to make arrests today.

At the same time government sleuths were investigating the possibility that the hotel may be a hideout for members of the gang.

PHILLIPS GETS THIRD SCOUT TROPHY

For distinguished service to boyhood, John M. Phillips, of Pittsburgh, was awarded a silver buffalo medal by the National Boy Scout Council meeting in Buffalo last night.

Phillips was awarded the silver beaver for distinguished service by the Allegheny County Council in 1921.

For some time he has possessed the silver wolf, presented to him by Lord Baden Powell, of England.

World Needs Faith, Baker Tells Scouts

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 1.—(AP.)—Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, last night told the Boy Scouts of America, in convention here, that the loss of faith of persons who survived the World War "was a greater calamity than the death of 10,000,000 soldiers." He said:

"This loss of faith, has resulted in the establishment of dictatorship in many of the world's countries whose inhabitants have voted for the dictatorships not because they wanted them but because they were desperate for any measures which they thought might save them from ruin."

The former war secretary said the most important thing an adult can become interested in is adult education and a love for the youth of the country, "on whose shoulders virtually will fall the responsibility of either bringing the world out of the depression or continuing what already has been done against depression."

Mr. Baker was one of seven Americans awarded the silver buffalo, highest honor scouting gives, for "distinguished service to youth."

Others who received the award were Col. Theodore Roosevelt, also a speaker last night; Paul Percy Harris, of Chicago, founder of Rotary; John M. Phillips, of Pittsburgh, leader in conservation movements for 20 years; Charles E. Cotting, of Boston; Judge Frederic Kernochan, chief judge of the Court of Special Sessions, New York City, and George Albert Smith, of Salt Lake City, Utah.

ARRESTS LOOM OVER GARBAGE

City Council has demanded prosecution of drivers of garbage and rubbish wagons who pick up commercial rubbish or other material which the city is not supposed to collect.

Instances of such collections were recited to Council yesterday by independent rubbish collectors who have been making a survey.

They also called B. B. Sklar, former voting machine expert, who inspects weights of garbage and rubbish handled by the Allegheny Garbage Company, who declared that drivers "steal" loads from stores in order to build up the tonnage for which they are paid. Sklar said:

"When you tell them not to do it, they laugh at you."

JILTED SUITOR SHOOTS MODEL

PHILADELPHIA, June 1—(AP.)—Miss Barbara Kerr, 35, pretty brunette dress model, lay critically wounded in a hospital today while police awaited arrival of her guardian, Mrs. F. E. Gable, of Baltimore, for clues to identify the rejected suitor who shot the young woman in her Philadelphia apartment.

Miss Kerr has a bullet wound in the head, another in the chest and a third in the abdomen. The wife of the janitor of the apartment building, attracted by screams, found her in the doorway of her suite.

At the hospital, Miss Kerr told police she was shot by a suitor from New York. They had been friends until six months ago, she said, but at that time she broke off the relationship.

Driver Sues County Over Bridge Crash

Earl D. McKelvey, of Braddock, a truck driver employed by the Vacuum Oil Company, Inc., has brought suit against Allegheny County for $10,000 damages for injuries he received when the Rankin Bridge collapsed, December 6, 1933. He was on the span at the time, his truck being precipitated to the B. & O. tracks. The oil company sued for $1,000 for the value of the truck.

Husband, 17, Jailed In Non-Support

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 1.—A 17-year-old husband is in jail here on a non-support charge. He is Wesley Twyford, of Arnold.

Twyford said he met Miss Christine Poulton, of New Kensington, one week, danced with her a week later, proposed marriage and being accepted eloped to Wellsburg, W. Va., the next day and were married.

WCAE Broadcast To Link Friends With Byrd, Aides

MRS. VERNON D. BOYD

Admiral Byrd and his crew in Little America next Sunday night will be greeted personally by relatives and friends in Pittsburgh during a musical program specially arranged by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, a long-time friend of the Admiral, and Mrs. Vernon D. (Buck) Boyd, of Pitcairn, wife of the chief mechanic with the party, and their little son, Frank, 2½ years, and also Louis Kaufman, will address the members of the party, personally.

In addition, a musical salute prepared by Clifford Marshall, director of the WCAE staff orchestra, and Ernst Lavish, head of the WCAE Troubadour, will send Byrd's party the latest melodic favorites.

Vocalists to be heard in the Sun-Telegraph's program are the Pittsburghers, and Mariam Young, soprano, and Russ Smith.

Frederick A. Weston, general manager of WCAE, will introduce Dr. Bowman, the Boyds and Kaufman. The salutations by the last (Kaufman) will distinguish him as the first person to salute Byrd at both of the frozen ends of the world. Kaufman for many months handled the "Far North" broadcasts.

The Sun-Telegraph program will be transmitted from the studios of WCAE over the coast-to-coast red network of the National Broadcasting Company and over General Electric Company's shortwave station, W2XAF, Schenectady.

International Club Fetes Consular Group

leaders call a holiday during the middle of June, as threatened, he would propose to President Roosevelt the creation of a labor board for the steel industry similar to that appointed to settle the recent automobile controversy.

ROOSEVELT CONFERENCE

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt was arranging to recall big steel industrialists and labor leaders to a White House conference when he returns from his brief holiday trip next week.

Although he signed a revised code for the industry, to become effective June 11, and promised to see the workers are allowed to hold government-supervised elections in each steel plant to name delegates to represent them in collective bargaining with their employers, a large faction among the workers insists the President summon the steel industrialists and union leaders to a parley so their rights to bargain collectively can be definitely guaranteed.

COURT RULING FEARED

The workers in this group fear the action of the Delaware federal judge in refusing to enjoin the Weirton Steel Company for denying the government the right to supervise elections of its employes, as authorized by the recovery act, might arouse the rest of the industry and make the President's pledge ineffective.

Labor leaders returned to the Pittsburgh area determined to force the Recovery Administration and the National Labor Board to guarantee workers' rights.

The seriousness of the situation in the steel industry was evinced during the past two days when Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson and Senator Robert F. Wagner (Dem.), of New York, chairman of the National Labor Board, sat in continual conferences with leaders in the steel "holiday" movement, scheduled for the middle of June.

MEETING SET MONDAY

That Wagner and Johnson failed in their attempts to pacify steel worker representatives was indicated when both announced that they had arranged for further conferences with labor leaders for Monday. This is the day Mr. Roosevelt is expected back at his desk.

Michael F. Tighe, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, is back in Pittsburgh after two unsatisfactory meetings with Johnson, while three representatives of the "young element" of the industry are arranging mass meetings at Youngstown, Uniontown and the Pittsburgh area, in an effort to force Tighe to exhibit enthusiasm for the threatened "holiday."

PROBLEM FOR TIGHE

Tighe, heretofore classed as a conservative, has been jockeyed into a position by his younger lieutenants, where he must cast his lot with the present handling of the steel industry dispute on the part of the NRA and the National Labor Board, or "go along" with his lieutenants who are thirsting to lead approximately 200,000 steel workers into an actual strike.

Chief of Tighe's lieutenants who are clamoring for an immediate showdown with the NRA's handling of the steel situation is Earl Forbeck, prime leader in the proposed mass meetings at Uniontown, Youngstown and the Pittsburgh district.

Forbeck, and W. J. Spang, another district president, are leaders of the so-called "rank and file committee" of the workers' group. They demand that guarantees be accorded the workers for the right of collective bargaining and the election of representatives.

Wagner Bill Assailed By Steel Institute As Breeder of Strife

NEW YORK, June 1.—(AP.)—A statement vigorously assailing the revised Wagner labor bill now before Congress as a measure which would intensify and increase industrial strife was issued yesterday by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

The statement follows:

Notwithstanding modifications, the revised Wagner bill embodies most of the objectional features of the original bill. Despite statements to the contrary by proponents of the bill, it retains the un-American principles that were the subject of vigorous protests by employes and employers alike before the Senate Labor Committee.

Although the revised bill purports to be a measure to promote industrial peace, the practical result of its passage would be exactly the opposite. Its enactment would set the stage for a conflict which not only will retard national recovery, but will injure employes and employers for all time.

The provisions of the bill would tend to strangle employe representation plans now in effect, under which millions of industrial workers are enjoying the benefits of an effective and modern form of collective bargaining.

CLOSED SHOP

The bill would tend to impose the closed shop through requiring employers to deal with labor organizations now representing a small minority class (less than 10 per cent) of the industrial workers of the nation, thus giving these unions a recognition and membership through legislation which they have been unable to win by voluntary appeal. It is based upon the vicious theory that there must be conflict and strife between employers and employes. Its provisions would drive a wedge between them.

The unfairness of the bill to employes and its bias in favor of the professional labor unions is plainly shown in the provisions of the measure which declare certain acts to be unfair labor practices.

While properly forbidding any coercion or intimidation by an employer of his employes, it contains nothing that would prevent labor organizations from exercising any manner of coercion or intimidation against employers. It is a well known fact that union organizers frequently adopt ruthless and sometimes brutal forms of intimidation to win members to unions and to induce workers to strike.

The net result of the bill would be to create a labor union monopoly, with great injury to millions of employes, to employers and to the public.

BASIC QUESTIONS

No attempt is made to extend the function of the proposed adjustment board to basic questions of hours of labor, wages and working conditions. It is designed only to further the advancement of labor organizations and the imposition of the closed shop. Such legislation will not solve any labor difficulties, but only perpetuate industrial warfare.

The very existence of such a board will tend to promote agitation on the part of professional strike fomenters.

The board is given virtually unrestricted jurisdiction to determine the manner in which representatives for collective bargaining shall be chosen. The result of this will be national control of local labor relations which will deprive employes of the freedom of proceeding on their own volition and in their own manner in the selection of their representatives. This is contrary to the long-established and recognized principle that individuals should be free to negotiate engagements for their employment, and is bound to produce discord among the employes themselves and between them and their employers.

Under one provision of the bill, if a union is not strong enough to dominate the plant, it will be possible for the plant to be so subdivided as to give union recognition to a part of it, however small, thus giving a foothold to union labor where the employe might be predominately in favor of the open shop.

CONTRIBUTION CURB

The bill forbids contributions by an employer toward the expense of operating the representation plan of his employes. It is apparent that such provision is a blow aimed against employe representation plans, many of which have been in operation for years. Such plans make for industrial harmony, which is for the good of the employers as well as their employes, and there is no sound reason for making it unlawful for the employers to help defray the expense of operating them.

In notable contrast to this provision, the proposed bill places no restraint upon the amount of dues to be collected by the union labor organizations or upon the use of their funds. Moreover, the proposed bill requires no accounting to the employes for dues paid by them, the aggregate of which, even with a comparatively small labor union membership is known to be large.

It is time the American people were told the truth about the motives back of the industrial troubles that organized labor is now threatening. The threatened disturbances cannot be explained away on the ground that they are merely manifestations of business recovery. Their real causes are to be found in the determination of national labor leaders to exploit section (7A) of the Recovery Act for their selfish ends at any cost in total disregard of the welfare of workers or of the whole nation.

Lake Tugmen Quit Work as Protest

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 1.—(AP.)—For the second time within two weeks lake vessels moved in and out of Buffalo Harbor under their own power today as tugmen quit their jobs.

The tugmen emphasized that their action was not a strike but merely a protest over failure of arbitration proceedings in Cleveland to give them an 8-hour day and a return to the 1929 wage scale. The walkout included captains, engineers and all tug hands.

LABOR, HOUSING BILLS SNARL CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP.)—Unless President Roosevelt drops the Wagner labor bill and the housing program, the present session of Congress must be prolonged two or three weeks, congressional leaders asserted today.

The Chief Executive wants Congress to adjourn by June 9, and is also represented as wanting the Wagner and housing bills approved. Democratic chiefs generally took the view today that this could not be accomplished. Many believed he would let the bills go, for to enact either would require long debate and considerable dispute.

All "must" legislation except the $1,322,000,000 public works and deficiency appropriation bill has passed the House. A revolt has been growing against the President's wishes that the money in this measure not be earmarked for specific purposes.

Meanwhile, the Senate made another effort to dispose of the tariff bill today. Democratic leaders held out the threat of a late Saturday afternoon or night session in an effort to get a final vote on the bill before nightfall.

With the tariff out of the way, the Senate will be ready to concentrate next week on the House-approved silver bill, passage of which is assured, the deficiency appropriation measure and conference reports. These present the most serious hazard to prospects for adjournment next week.

SENATE VOTES STOCK BILL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The Senate wrote its final chapter in the stock market bill fight today by adopting the conference report on the measure.

In so doing, the Senate indorsed the House proposal of a fixed margin requirement of 45 per cent, but supported the Senate's stand for a separate commission of five members to regulate the stock exchanges.

Action on the report probably will be taken by the House tomorrow.

Candle at Crucifix Fatal to Woman

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 1.—(AP.)—The candle that Mrs. Mary Cavasino, 85 lighted beneath a crucifix at her home brought her death. The flame of the candle was too near a lace curtain. It blazed up. The fire spread to the woman's dress and she died of burns.

JOHNSON CALLS MILLS 'NATION WRECKER'

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP.)—Hugh S. Johnson says Ogden Mills is the "mouthpiece of a crew of nation wreckers."

Attacking Mills last night for saying that NRA was trying to regiment industry, Johnson answered that every code in existence was proposed by industry itself.

In a speech to the National Catholic Alumni Federation and a radio audience, he said of Mills:

"He was the mouthpiece of a crew that didn't reorganize or reconstruct or regiment American industry—all they did to it was ruin it.

"They deserve credit for supreme accomplishment. No such wreckage was ever accomplished since Rome leveled the walls of Carthage and strewed the wreck with salt—and only four short years ago, on their theory of do nothing about it, 14,000,000 people went out of employment, tens of thousands of small enterprises died up, and the worst season that ever visited these shores came upon us."

McLeod Group Victor In Battle to Force Vote on Payoff Bill

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The spectacular victory of supporters of the McLeod bill in their fight for a House vote today catapulted legislation to aid depositors in closed banks into the front rank of Congressional issues.

As the result of completion of a petition signed by 145 members—one-third of the House—sponsors of the McLeod bill are entitled to bring it to the floor for action.

They were prepared to fight to block adjournment to keep the fruits of their hard-won victory.

Representative Clarence McLeod (Rep.), of Michigan, leader in the battle for his measure to reimburse depositors in banks which closed during the depression period 100 per cent through liquidation of assets over a long period, said the measure would be called up June 11.

The one hundred and forty-fifth and final signer was Representative Ransley (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, a member of the Rules Committee, which has buried the bill since April 23.

In the face of defeat after a fight to prevent completion of the petition, House leaders refused to say whether they would resort to parliamentary maneuvers to prevent the vote.

While backers of the McLeod bill prepared for the final test, a Senate-House conference committee considered the Steagall amendment to the bank guaranty bill which would provide the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation with $1,000,000,000 to release assets in closed banks.

The McLeod bill will be called up under a motion to discharge the Rules Committee from further consideration of a rule on the bill. Favorable action would throw the measure open for amendment, and it would be the principal business before the House until disposed of.

The original McLeod bill provided for the RFC taking over assets of closed national and Federal Reserve member banks, depositors to be reimbursed 100 per cent. McLeod contended the RFC could liquidate assets over a period of years with virtually no loss.

McLeod expressed dissatisfaction over Speaker Rainey's ruling that the signature of the late Representative Brumm (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, was valid. He declared:

"This may develop into a trick to defeat us. A dead man is a non-entity in such matters and the Speaker should have permitted Representative McLean (Rep.), of New Jersey, to sign the petition to make up for Mr. Brumm's signature."

PAYOFF PARLEY ATTENDANCE URGED

Attendance of supporters of the McLeod bank payoff plan at a meeting in Washington Saturday and Sunday was urged today by Attorney I. Leonard Aronson, chairman of the Depositors' League Committee of the Pittsburgh area.

Aronson said he plans to attend the meeting sponsored by the National Depositors' Committee in the Raleigh Hotel at Washington, D. C., when action to obtain passage of the McLeod bill will be pressed.

Charles P. Bloome is acting chairman of the committee and A Mitchell Palmer, former United States attorney general, is counsel.

Aronson said:

"Individual depositors and groups interested in the legislation should attend the national conference in Washington so that their wishes may be more fully impressed on Congress. We hope there will be a goodly representation from Pittsburgh."

STEEL WORKERS FLAY REDS

A warning against "Communism and all such isms" has been issued by the international officers of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers here.

The statement said:

"We warn our members to shun these vipers who are trying to poison the minds of our membership. The very presence of Communism contaminates the atmosphere of pure trades unionism. Keep away from it is not only our advice but our command."

The statement, issued yesterday, was signed by all the members of the international executive board, including Michael F. Tighe, president, and Louis Leonard, secretary-treasurer.

It declared that the association "is an American institution, loyal to the core to its government and its traditions."

It asserted that the Communists have endeavored to destroy the morale of the membership of the association's newly-instituted lodges. The statement concluded:

"Under no circumstances will the Amalgamated Association disgrace itself by consorting or permitting its members to consort with this disloyal mongrel group."

RETURN BOARD HERE SETS RECORD

The County Return Board adjourned yesterday after completing its work of counting votes in the most complicated of local primaries in the record time of 10 days.

In the fall primary, 12 to 14 days were required for the count, including overtime, which would make the period equal about 19 days put in by the present board.

Other boards in the past have taken over 30 days to complete the count. In no instance in recent history has there been such a large and unwieldly list of candidates.

Elections Director John M. Henry and the County Commissioners were in charge of the work. Henry thanks the board as well as Commissioner C. M. Barr for its efficiency.

Barr urged members of the board to work for better election laws, stating that Pennsylvania was burdened by an ox-cart system of election legislation.

Grotto to Be Host To Grand Monarch

Grand Monarch Joseph B. Seiber, of Akron, O., will visit Islam Grotto, Pittsburgh, Friday, June 8. Seiber is just completing a year's tour of all Grottos of the Mystic Order Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm. Monarch Fred C. Hopton, of Islam Grotto, and his officers have planned a reception, entertainment and dance at the Grotto Temple, North Side. J. Clifford Franz is general chairman and Col. William R. Dunlap, vice chairman.

Calles' Son Hurt In Plane Crash

TAMPICO, Mexico, June 1.—(AP.)—Dispatches from Villa Juarez said today that Alfred Calles, son of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, former President and "iron man of Mexico," was injured in an airplane crash yesterday.

A woman flying with young Calles also was hurt, the dispatches stated.

Republican committeemen of the Twenty-eighth Ward last night elected Alderman William B. Samuels chairman. He succeeds E. Boyd Birch, who was not a candidate for re-election.

CAMPAIGN COST ESTIMATED AT $750,000

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service.

HARRISBURG, June 1.—Pennsylvania's 1934 primary election today appeared to have cost the unprecedented array of candidates about three-quarters of a million dollars.

It was the least expensive of any comparable campaign in the last decade, according to officials of the State Elections Bureau.

Expense accounts of the major candidates and their state committees as submitted to the Elections Bureau totaled more than $500,000.

The several hundred county and city committees for the various candidates, whose reports were filed locally, were believed to have spent another $250,000.

COST IN MILLIONS

The 1930 primary election expenditures hovered around the $1,000,000 mark and the cost of the 1926 primary was set down at more than $3,000,000.

The State Elections Bureau was deluged with expense accounts yesterday, the last day for filing, and George D. Thorn, the veteran chief, said it would be several days before they could be segregated.

A recapitulation of the expense accounts of the committees promoting the campaigns of the major state-wide candidates, which in almost every case include contributions from the candidates themselves, follows:

Lieutenant Governor candidates: Harry B. Scott, none; David E. Kaufman, $13,111; Grover C. Talbot, $3,302; Edwin R. Cox, $1,059; Thomas Kennedy, none, and Senator Henry L. Snyder, none.

OUTLAY FOR MORRIS

The joint campaign committee of Roland S. Morris, independent Democratic senatorial candidate, and Judge Charles D. Copeland, his running mate for Governor, spent $19,682.

To this total of $483,802 must be added the $65,007 spent by the Pennsylvania Protective Union, which campaigned for the Reed-Schnader-Scott-Taylor-Trexler ticket. Contributions to the Protective Union's fund included $2,500 each from Andrew W., Richard K. and W. L. Mellon; $4,750 from Joseph R. Grundy; $1,000 each from E. T. Weir, A. W. Robertson, Helen Clay Frick, E. R. Crawford, F. E. Baldwin, H. B. Scott, M. Harvey Taylor; $4,000 from Joseph Bromley, Jr., and $2,500 each from Childs Frick and John McGarvey.

The Reed for Senator committee in Allegheny County reported expenditures of $27,047, none of which was contributed by the state committee. The Dauphin and Philadelphia County Pinchot-for-Senator committee spent a total of $12,109 in addition to the amounts contributed to them by the state organization, which amounts are reflected in the state committee expense accounts.

New Castle Boy Slain During Hunt

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 1.—(AP.)—Thirteen-year-old Dale Reese, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Reese, of Plain Grove, was accidentally shot to death while hunting chipmunks with his brother, Wayne, 11.

The small rifle which the boys carried discharged and the bullet pierced Dale's head. He died in an ambulance en route to a hospital.

Bathing Suit Garb Starts Nudist Rumor

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., June 1.—(AP.)—A report that a nudist colony had been established at Woodyard, a small community near here, caused Deputy Sheriff J. T. Quigley to start an investigation today.

Going to the place described in a letter he received, Deputy Quigley found a woman working in her garden and about her house, attired only in a bathing suit.

Man Sent to Jail To Aid Paint Job

OCEAN CITY, N. J., June 1.—(AP.)—So that Vito Gurracino could paint his house, his neighbor, Adam Schenck, 58, was sent to jail.

A section of the house extends over Schenck's property and he threatened to shoot Guarracino if he trespassed. So a magistrate sent Schenck to jail for three hours—and Guarracino painted.

Pennsy Employes Regain Lost Day

More than 300 Pennsylvania Railroad employes in the Pittsburgh district were restored to a six-day week today. They have been working five days a week with a lay-off on Saturday mornings. Restoration of the Saturday employment, principally to office employes and those in supervisory positions, will gain two full days' pay a month to each employe.

'LEGGERS' FORCE CODE PLEAS BY RUM DEALERS

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Widespread demand for a code to govern the retail liquor business has reached the Federal Alcohol Control Administration.

Faced with damaging competition from bootleggers, the retailers believe this problem might be met or at least mitigated by a code.

Leading retailers today saw the possibility of placing competition on an equitable basis, elimination of unethical practices and other developments that would put the business on a sounder basis.

The FACA is understood to be favorable to the plan and will cooperate if formal action is taken by the retailers.

The code authority probably also would have jurisdiction over the state liquor monopolies which exist in Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio, Iowa, Michigan, Oregon and Montana. Reports indicated the monopolies under present regulations are not entirely a success in some states. Several are heavily indebted to the liquor manufacturers.

Retailers reported the bootleg menace has been increasing steadily. High federal and state taxes have caused the liquor to remain relatively expensive while the scarcity of bonded aged whisky has forced the cost of this product to prohibitive levels for the ordinary citizen.

Owing to the virtual disappearance of old liquor stocks, there is no prospect for an improvement in such types for four or five more years. The manufacturers are now producing in sufficient quantities to put some liquor in bond for aging purposes.

JEWISH RELIEF DRIVE TO OPEN

Leo Lehman, general chairman of the local United Jewish Appeal for German Relief, today announced that the campaign will be launched at a luncheon and conference in the Y. M. & W. H. A. Sunday.

Mr. McDonaldl

Representatives from 90 communities in the tri-state area will attend the meeting, at which the speakers will be the Rev. Dr. Solomon B. Freehof, rabbi-elect of Rodef Shalom Temple, and James G. McDonald, League of Nations refugee high commissioner.

The drive in this district is part of a national campaign aimed at raising $3,000,000 to be used for the rehabilitation and readjustment of Jews in Germany. The funds will provide direct relief, transportation costs for refugees, educational expenses and business loans.

Junior Patrol

Don't wish for the good old days, fellows!

We know some people who seem to think that the world was a very fine place to live in when the Romans ruled it.

Or that it would have been a lot of fun to have lived during the Middle Ages, when the knights fought battles for fair ladies.

And still other people always talk about the "good old days" when they were children—say about 1880.

Bad as things are now, fellows, with so many people poor and having a hard time to get along, it seems likely that we are living while the world is better than it ever was before.

Bad as things are now, fellows, with so many people poor and having a hard time to get along, it seems likely that we are living while the world is better than it ever was before.

Many books tell you about Roman glory. They speak of the great banquets of the emperors and the wild beast shows almost everybody in Rome went to see in the big arenas.

And you read about the wonderful pageants the people saw. And what a beautiful land and city Italy was. But you don't hear so much about the other side of the picture.

Rome, when Julius Ceasar was growing up, for instance, was a very dirty city. Many of the houses were merely shacks. There are only a few good looking buildings and temples.

Worst of all, a great many of the people were slaves. The slaves did the work so cheaply that the ordinary people couldn't make any money.

And so many of them just loafed around the town.

The government was bad too. Soldiers and assassins killed people in broad daylight and threw their bodies to the dogs. And there were so many killings at times that people fled from the city.

Most of the people lived in misery. Only a few had money so that they could enjoy life.

Now that school is over for so many of our Junior Patrol members we are wondering what plans their Patrol Captains have made for the summer. Write and tell us, fellows!

Pittsburgh Heiress' Cowboy to Wed Again

Dashing Range Rider Picks Cowgirl This Time

TUCSON, Ariz., June 1.—Paul Showalter, dashing caballero who married Carolyn Crittenden, Pittsburgh heiress, in a whirlwind desert courtship two years ago only to divorce her a month later, is engaged to wed again.

This time, though, the handsome, guitar-playing range rider has foregone the ranks of wealth and chosen for his bride-to-be a cowgirl of the wide open spaces. She is Mazel Stoddard, of Sonoita, picturesque cow town 20 miles south of here. Although the two have already obtained a marriage license, their wedding date has not yet been set.

Showalter was a riding instructor at a fashionable hotel when he met Miss Crittenden. Full yellow Arizona moons and the fragrance of budding cacti on the desert provided a theatrical setting for their few days of courtship. After their wedding, she went to reside with him in his little adobe home on the mesquite lands but, according to the divorce papers filed a few weeks later, she wasn't content to live on his salary.

"I couldn't keep my head up if I allowed her to support me," he told the judge at the time of the divorce action. He refused to accept any money settlement.

The divorce was granted quietly. Both said they admired each other but were unable to adapt their ways.

After his marriage to Miss Stoddard, who can rope a calf as good as any professional buckaroo and who has spent her life in the saddle, he plans to continue his work as a hammersmith in copper and silver and as an amateur sketcher of western scenes.

Pittsburgh Boys Speakers at Kiski

Two youths from the Pittsburgh district, William F. Ewing and Charles Homer Bair, will deliver orations at the commencement exercises to be held at Kiskiminetas Springs School tomorrow.

FLOOD SCRIBES HOLD REUNION

Dr. J. D. Milligan, of Michigan, was elected president of the Johnstown Flood Correspondents' Association at the forty-fifth annual reunion last night at the home of C. W. Houston in the King Edwards Apartment.

Seven members were present. Of the 300 members when the association was formed 45 years ago, 15 are still living.

Other officers named were: Vice presidents, Gen. A. J. Logan and C. W. Houston; secretary, Fred Heintz, and executive committee, E. H. Heinrichs, Dr. A. R. Cratty and Frank Layman.

FATHER'S NOTES BARE TRAGEDY

SPOKANE, Wash., June 1.—(AP.)—Notes picturing Arthur E. Hooker's two-day struggle for courage to kill his wife, two daughters and himself were in the hands of police today.

Messages left to friends told of the agony Hooker, 54-year-old newspaper employe, suffered in seeing his daughter, Marjorie, 14, gradually overcome by paralysis, leading to the shooting Wednesday night of Marjorie and her sister, Virginia, 11, his wife, and himself.

In a note dated May 28, the "28" was crossed out and "30" written in, indicating to Coroner T. C. Barnhart that Hooker for two days wavered over his intended act.

Hooker was former business office manager of the Spokane Daily Chronicle and at the time of his death was in the classified advertising department. He is survived by his mother at Pullman and a brother, William, representative of the Chicago Publishers' Association.

TUMBLES INTO LAW'S LAP

If he hadn't been hiding from railroad detectives, he wouldn't have crawled under a woodpile at 1021 East Ohio street.

If he hadn't crawled under the woodpile, he wouldn't have fallen into a 40-foot pit.

If he hadn't fallen into the 40-foot pit, he wouldn't have broken his leg.

If he hadn't broken his leg, he wouldn't have had to wait for the fire department to hoist him out.

Falls Down Steps, Man Badly Hurt

William Flaherty, 50, of 2 Brightridge street, North Side, was in Allegheny General Hospital today with injuries suffered when he fell down the Meadville street steps, near the Fineview Ball Park, late yesterday. Physicians said his condition was serious.

START SERVICE TO CHICAGO

A new plane passenger service to Chicago, being inaugurated today by Transcontinental and Western Air Express, makes the World Fair city available to Pittsburghers in two hours and 50 minutes.

Planes will leave daily from the County Airport at 2:15 p. m. and 7:45 p. m. standard time. Return flights are scheduled from Chicago at 11:15 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

TWA also announced today the beginning of a new non-stop service between Pittsburgh and New York. A plane leaving for the eastern metropolis may now be boarded at the airport at 8:10 p. m. daily.

MYSTERY DEATH SUSPECT WAITS SENTENCE

International News Service.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., June 1.—Throwing himself upon the mercy of the court, Edward Adamski, one of the two men accused of having perpetrated the startling murder of Bradway Brown, young and wealthy Philadelphia printing company executive, had changed his plea today from not guilty to one of no defense.

The plea was changed in Burlington County Court and, on the motion of an attorney appointed to defend him, sentencing of Adamski was deferred for two weeks.

Adamski was scheduled to go on trial next Monday together with Adam Scewczak who is accused by police of having fired the bullets which brought death to Brown in his Cinnaminson Township home in January, 1933, during an attempted holdup. With Adamski having pleaded nolo contendre, Scewczak is the only defendant now slated to go on trial next week.

A third suspect connected with the slaying is not expected to be brought to trial, but will probably be used as a state's witness in the Scewczak trial. He is Solomon Lutz, former Philadelphia barber, accused of having loaned his automobile to the other two men on the night of the murder.

Their Teeth the Best

DOROTHY CLARK BERNETA HEBERLE CONSTANCE SMITH
PRIZE-WINNING TEETH-BRUSHERS STUDYING TECHNIQUE

All own that dental rarity — a near-perfect set of teeth.

The children are Constance Smith, Berneta Heberle, Dorothy Clark, Charles Fair, Henry Kersey and James Frape. For a month they brushed their teeth faithfully and had the dentist do the small bit of "fixing" needed.

They won their prizes — free trips to a movie—for having the best cared for teeth. Twenty-seven other pupils won "honorable mentions."

ANTI-AMERICAN RIOTING STIRS CUBANS

HAVANA, June 1.—(AP.)—The Cuban government held its army in readiness today to combat further disorders as a series of anti-American outbreaks showed no sign of abatement.

Grave concern was felt by authorities, their responsibility increased when President Roosevelt signed the treaty dismissing the United States' 33-year-old privilege to intervene—the Platt amendment.

Col. Fulgencio Batista, commander-in-chief of the army, ordered all soldiers at the Matanzas garrison to be held in barracks. Similar instructions were given the Havana police force.

Attached to rocks, notes reading "Down with Jefferson Caffery, United States Ambassador," were thrown through the windows of the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American steamship lines last night. They were signed "The Communist Party of Cuba."

This incident followed on the heels of an apparently incendiary fire which destroyed a large paper mill, owned partly by Americans and insured by an American company. Owners said the loss would not exceed $600,000. An attack was made on Caffery's life Sunday, the second, he said, within three weeks.

RICHEST INDIAN BURIAL BALKED

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—(AP.)—Death spurred anew today the legal complications which filled the last 14 years of the life of Jackson Barnett, world's richest Indian.

An order from the federal government preventing burial of the 92-year-old Creek oil millionaire by his widow, Anna Laura Lowe Barnett, and a petition by Hubert Howard Barnett, 27, of Long Beach, Cal., who identified himself as a nephew, asking for letters of administration of the $4,000,000 estate came within 48 hours of the death.

A few hours before funeral services were read over the body of the aged Indian, John Collier, commissioner of Indian affairs in Washington, telegraphed instructions to John Dady, superintendent of the Indian mission agency at Riverside, Cal., to prevent any burial. Collier said Oklahoma relatives had demanded the Indian's body.

PRODUCE MEN FINED BY U. S.

Two wholesale produce concerns of Pittsburgh and officials were fined in Federal Court yesterday when pleas of no defense were entered to informations charging violation of the federal Produce Act by failing to make full accounting to shippers of produce in interstate commerce, consigned for sale on commission.

The Depp-Badali Produce Company was fined $1 and four officers, George W. Depp, president; I. Badali, vice president; Leo Tripoli, treasurer, and F. Corso, secretary, were each fined $100. The Albert M. Travis Company, Inc., was fined $1 and William B. Salem and Thomas V. McKeever, president and secretary, respectively, were fined $100 each.

In addition to the fines, each of the defendants were placed upon probations for one year.

'ARMY' SHIELD SALE SET

Sale of red shields, Saturday, June 9, will bring to a close the county-wide appeal of the Salvation Army for $108,500 for the maintenance of 20 major activities of the army in the county.

F. F. Schauer, executive chairman of the campaign, in a plea to the public said the several hundred men and women participating in the campaign were doing their utmost to reach everyone in their territories. He asked those missed in the solicitation to send their contributions direct to the army headquarters, 425 Boulevard of the Allies.

License Period Ends For Garbage Firms

That Wall street firm, which stopped the salary of a veteran employe (a telegrapher) the day he had to go to a tubercular camp, are herewith given some of our choicest scallions . . . He worked for the house 10 years, and they refused to contribute to a fund raised for the chap . . . The staff threw a beefsteak party in his honor, paying $2.50 each, and got enough money, about $166, to pay the stricken man's fare to Arizona.

Izzy Elinsonisms: Right now the girls are spending a lot of time deciding which bathing suit it will be that won't cover them this season . . . I'm glad it was in California the kidnapers were sentenced to life. They'll live longer in that climate . . . The real reason they're not making a movie of Dillinger's career is that the public is getting tired of pictures with hundreds of girls . . . Slogan for the Back-to-the-Farm Movement: If you can't land work—work the land! . . . With all those taxes—it seems that the government wants us to put up everything but our hands . . . Of all the silly songs—"A Thousand Good Nights" . . . Imagine going to see your girl with flowers in one hand—and an adding machine in the other!

I like Ray Shannon's quip . . . He tells how tough it was for a vaudeville act known as "Pickard and His Seal" . . . They had been idle for months . . . One day their agent gave Pickard and the seal a thought . . . He said to his stenog: "Moitle, take a letter. Dear Pickard and Seal." Then, on second thought, the agent said: "Moitle, how long have they been laid off?"

The stenog looked over the books. "Three months," she said . . . "Okay," he said, "start the letter 'Dear Pickard.'"

Things I Can Do Without: Toothpicks stuck in sandwiches to hold them together . . . Suede shoes for men . . . Paper napkins . . . Mounted deer heads . . . Removable eyelashes . . . People who say that they are the "best of friends" after they've scallion'd each other plenty in court . . . People who have ideas and offer to give you half the gross receipts if you help put it over . . . Newspaper stories about the number of Smiths and Cohens in the new phone directory . . . limp lettuce . . . Most adagio dancers . . . Rudy Vallee's constant search (according to his interviewers) for his Dream Girl . . . People who bring around their plays and want you to read them . . . Women who leave wet lipstick rouge on cups and spoons . . . Tapioca . . . Striped bands in colors on straw hats . . . Guys who borrow your car and always return it with the gas tank empty.

I'm afraid I can't indorse the revival of Amateur Nights in the Broadway area . . . The first of them was amusing enough, but it included a number of obvious heartaches for the hook-getters . . . The prize winner, a youngster with a good pair of pipes, however, won a job in a show! . . . Those who came in ninth, tenth and twentieth may be comforted in knowing that Jimmy Savo, the star of the Casino de Paree, started his career at an amateur night—as did Fannie Brice, who was in the audience . . . The one real tug at the heart, though, was hearing a lady, who vocal'd well, being cat-called and shouted down . . . She once was a prima donna with "Blossom Time!"

THEATERS » Comment on New Shows »

Pittsburgh Artists on Broadway

By GEORGE SEIBEL

NEW YORK, June 1.—Two well-known Pittsburghers have Broadway engagements at present in real hits. Fay Templeton is in "Roberta" and Mabel Kroman is in "Jig Saw." Another Pittsburgher, Theodore Viehman, was responsible for staging "Every Thursday," after which he flitted to Chicago to put on Shakespeare in tabloid form at the reconstructed Globe Theater in the Century of Progress.

Mr. Seibel

No other Pittsburghers are now on the horizon, but there have never been so few actors along the Rialto. Those that are not in Hollywood are at Sea Cliff, or Long Beach, or Woodmere, or Hurleyville, or one of the other 157 playhouses on shore and farm. The mermaids and trolls are getting everything from "Are You a Mason?" to "Death Takes a Holiday."

There's an atmosphere of somnolence and dolce far niente at the Players and the Lambs, punctuated by the occasional click of billiard balls or the sibilance of a cocktail shaker. But seven or eight big hits of the season are still playing to good crowds, and will probably be seen in Pittsburgh early in the fall.

WITH MABEL KROMAN

If "Jig Saw" comes, it will be with Mabel Kroman. This former stock favorite was cast in one play after another that died a-borning. Now in the Dawn Powell comedy she has a small but very amusing scene in curl papers. She is in the best of health and humor, and particularly glad to be in a Theater Guild cast. Who wouldn't be?

The comedy has another angle of interest for Pittsburghers. It is by the wife of Joseph Gousha, a former Pittsburgh newspaperman.

Dawn Powell, best known as a novelist, has written a Noel Coward sort of play which might be described as eight characters drifting among epigrams. Noel has not done this sort of thing any better himself. Ernest Truex and Spring Byington furnish most of the witty and wicked chit-chat—and it's all brisk and bright and brittle. Even Mabel Kroman is gay and frivolous, believe it or not?

GEORGE SHARP'S PLANS

George Sharp—that's her husband—is also very busy. First of all, he has taken over the management of Lenore Ulric, who spent six weeks in Hollywood looking over scenarios that did not click. Now a new play for her has been landed, and rehearsals are expected to begin shortly. As Lenore Ulric is up on a farm, my guess is that the new play is a drama based upon the exciting career of Maud Muller among the new-mown hay.

Meanwhile George Sharp is launching still another venture, with Philip Ryder. It is a play by Aimee Torriani and Wheeler Dryden, provisionally called "Hollywood Vagabonds."

Yes, Pittsburghers are doing their bit to keep the bright lights flickering along the Great White Way.

Indian Tale In Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Ramon Novarro and Lupe Velez are the stars in the Fulton, where the change of bill yesterday brought the screen version of the Oliver La Farge novel, "Laughing Boy," that won the Pulitzer prize in 1929, as the feature of the program.

It is chiefly distinguished by the acting of Miss Velez, in the role of an Indian girl who has learned too much that is bad from the whites and not enough that is good. Her characterization of a Navajo maid, educated in a reservation school, who wears the native dress on ceremonial occasions and the typical flashy apparel of a low class white girl when she wants to impress the cowboys, is excellent. She is a temptress who lures a young Indian, but is not sufficiently Indian herself to endure tribal routine, such as blanket weaving, when she becomes his wife, and she rises to all the moods, from that of enchantress to that of martyr to jealousy, with nice artistic discrimination.

It is too bad the same cannot be said about Novarro, who, in the title role of Laughing Boy, seems to be extremely simple, even for an Indian, but lends to the part little or no illusion. Perhaps the reason is that there are too many real Indians in the picture, and one can see no resemblance.

The story is that of a youth who comes a long distance to participate in a sing-dance of his people. Slim Girl (Lupe) sights him and decides upon a conquest. He is a high-minded chap, and senses something bad in her, so he repulses the girl. Eventually she wins him, but reservation life palls. She wants a place of her own—a house with beds and chairs, so she goes to town and gets money for them from admirers. When her husband discovers her in one such tryst there is a tragic finale.

A Hearst Metrotone News, a Terrytune and comedy complete the bill.

Pittsburgh Co-ed On Paper's Staff

Bellevue School Tax Rate Slashed

The board of directors of the Bellevue school district has set the tax rate for 1934 at 11¾ mills and $5 per capita, a reduction of ½ mill. The board also decided to continue the installment system whereby taxes may be paid over a five-month period.

City Employe Quits After 38 Years

William A. Atkinson, clerk in the office of the City Clerk, has retired after 38 years of service to the city. He will receive a pension. He was presented yesterday with a handbag, the gift of fellow employes.

Reunited

Irene Dunne is co-starred with Richard Dix in "Stingaree," story of a singer and an outlaw in Stanley. They were the unforgetable stars of "Cimarron."

Morning Programs For Children

The special Saturday morning matinees for children, sponsored by women's organizations will be held in three theaters tomorrow morning — Enright, South Hills and Schenley. The Enright program will include Clyde Beatty in "The Big Cage," Our Gang and "Popeye" comedies, and a stage presentation by dancing school pupils. The bills in the South Hills and Schenley theaters will be identical. There will be "Tarzan and His Mate" as the feature, supplemented by cartoon comedies.

Olden Times In Studio Recalled

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, June 1.—Hello! A gang of the movie village news snoopers were sittin' around the barber shop at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Jim Adamson, the head razor-and-scissor-man for the last 10 years, got to talking. (You know how barbers like to chatter, or don't you?)

Well, anyway, Jim was unreeling a lot of film town history—those fond yesterdays, those echos of the past.

Some jottings of Jim's musings: When Geraldine Farrar and Lou Tellegen sat in the barber chairs and rehearsed their scenes—for hours and hours. Bill Hart used to wander in with Willard Mack and John Gilbert . . . They made up a "barber shop quartett," including Geraldine, who insisted that Hart's voice was the worst in the world, but she sang with him . . .

Tom Moore, Pauline Frederick and Jean Hhersholt hung around and listened . . . Helene Chadwick was the haughty star in those days . . . Will Rogers once tried his rope act and jokes in the barber shop—and nearly wrecked the place with both . . .

Roy Stewart, Alma Rubens and Norman Kerry used to match pennies together to see who would pay for haircuts, manicures and shaves . . . Nobody paid any attention to Joan Crawford when she came on the lot . . . and Jim said something about cutting Garbo's hair.

* * *

Odds and ends (or beginnings—if you like) . . . Charles Laughton, winner of the 1933 Academy award for the best acting of the year, refused to permit any ceremony with the presentation of the bronze statuette . . . Lola Lane is burning the midnight oil by writing a book, "Lines and Rhymes" . . . Howard Hughes, the movie producer is still cashing in on the discarded air scenes from "Hell's Angels." Nat Levine, independent producer, has purchased first rights to all this waste material—about 2,000,000 feet of celluloid . . . Paul Gould, who warbled with Paul Ash and Roger Wolf Kahn, landed a Warner ticket and is to be groomed for featured roles along with vocal chord stuff.

Three Men

Melodrama Better of Two Films in Warner

By KARL KRUG

It is my opinion that the talking pictures, taking them by and large, are showing considerable improvement. Consider, for instance, "Upper World," which came into the Warner yesterday as the latest literary contribution of that learned gentleman, Mr. Ben Hecht, to the cinema.

It is Mr. Hecht's happy habit, most of the time, to endow his tales with speed and zip, and while certain of the credit for the fast pace with which "Upper World" moves may belong to Ben Markson, who adapted the screen play, and to Roy Del Ruth, the director, here is a trite plot, carrying the familiar "triangle" twist, that makes a photoplay full of suspense and interest.

"Upper World" tells of a multi-millionaire railroad builder, played nicely by Warren William, who, neglected by his society-loving wife, takes on a side affair with a Broadway burlesque actress. From light comedy-drama, "Upper World" veers sharply to melodrama, and I think I am betraying no secret when I say that Mr. Hecht writes best when he is writing melodrama.

Good casting is another of "Upper World's" strong points. Miss Ginger Rogers has a "natural" as Lilly, the burlesque girl; Miss Mary Astor has the appearance and reserve for such a delineation as the wife of the rail magnate, and to Andy Devine has gone a good comedy role in that of the chauffeur. One of the best bits in months is that assigned Sidney Toler, who gives a superb characterization as a traffic cop "broken" by the power of the railroad king.

For the comedy and Durante advocates, the Schnozzlao is cutting his customary antics on the Warner screen in a sometimes rowdy satire known as "Strictly Dynamite." As bookings go in making up double feature programs it'll do. While the comedy element predominates in this one, there are moments of drama and romance that contribute to the general entertainment value of the vehicle.

The cast should mean much at the boxoffice. In addition to Durante, there are such names as Lupe Velez, Norman Foster, William Gargah, Marian Nixon, the Mills Brothers, Eugene Pallette, Minna Gombell, Irene Franklin and Sterling Holloway, with the last-named turning in one of his neatest performances to date.

"Strictly Dynamite" is, for the most part, a flamboyant satire on the radio broadcasting business, with a trusting little wife and her mate going through the usual trials and tribulations brought about by an unexpected success and the presence of Senorita Velez.

Durante has gags, both good and bad, and there are exceptionally good performances by both Mr. Foster and Mr. Gargan.

All In A Day

By MARK HELLINGER

Old-Fashioned

WHEN HE came up from the West Side subway, Ben could see Laura at the window of their apartment. She was always there, in the morning when he left for work, at night when he came home. There were few pleasures in Laura's life. That was one of them, looking out the window.

Ben's wife had been an invalid for many years. Ever since the birth of their daughter. At first she had been bitter and unhappy about it. Now, after 20 years, she was resigned. Ben and Marion, the apartment, and the street outside the window were her whole world.

The neighbors said that Ben was a good husband. Because he rushed home from the factory as quickly as he could. Because he spent hours at Laura's side reading to her. Because he dressed and undressed her carefully and worked hard to pay the wages of the woman who cared for Laura during the day. It would have surprised Ben to hear them say that. He had never considered the things he did for his wife in the light of a sacrifice.

Ben had hoped that when Marion finished high school she would stay at home with her mother. But Marion was young and pretty. She wanted to work. She wanted pretty clothes and pleasures. That was all right. Her father understood.

It was only at certain times that Ben was actually unhappy. That was when Laura wasn't feeling well. Sometimes, during the hot, sticky weather, she was pale and listless. Then he spent long hours at her bedside.

"How about it, doc?" he queried anxiously. "Does she seem any better?"

"No, Mr. Wilson." The doctor hesitated. "I know things have been hard for you. But I know, too, you want me to be frank with you. So I'll tell you. Your wife is in entirely the wrong climate. The right surroundings would do wonders for her."

The two men talked for many minutes. At the end of that time, Ben nodded.

"If it'll help Laura," he promised, "I'll manage it somehow. There isn't anything I want in the world except for her to be well. Yes, doc, if you think she'd be better off somewhere else, I'll see that she goes."

Laura went away. She protested and wept a little, but Ben was firm. It was for her own good, he argued. And he'd write. And soon, before she knew it, she'd be back and feeling fine.

He talked like that to Laura. But after she had gone he was too miserable to do anything but sit and stare at his hands. Marion tried, unsuccessfully, to cheer him.

"Pa," she spoke uncertainly, "look, I was thinking. Now that Ma's gone away, it'd be a waste of money for you to keep up this apartment. The expense for all these rooms is silly. Besides, there's a girl at work who wants me to share an apartment with her. You could get a nice room somewhere, and we'd see each other all the time. It would be cheaper, Pa."

Her father merely nodded. He was too unhappy to argue. It might be a good idea at that. They were laying people off at the factory, and he needed every cent he had for Laura.

Ben was different from that day on. The weeks went by and there was no noticeable improvement in Laura's health. He had seen Marion only once or twice since her mother went away, and he was wretched in his new surroundings. The nights were long and lonely.

It was only natural that his work should suffer. So it was only to be expected that when the layoff came, Ben was among the first to be let go.

The search for another job was practically hopeless. Who wanted a man over 50, or any other man right then, for that matter? Yet Ben tried doggedly, and all the while his savings were diminishing rapidly. A few dollars for his own needs. And the rest for Laura and her medical care.

On the day that he was down to his last five dollars he went dejectedly back to his room. There was nothing left now; nowhere to turn.

There was his insurance policy. He could sell it—but such a course would be wrong, too. He wanted to be sure that if anything happened to him, there would be enough money to take care of Laura.

If anything happened to him! He repeated the line to himself several times. If, for instance, he were to stumble accidentally in front of a truck. If that happened, there would be enough money from the insurance to pay Laura's expenses for the rest of her life.

Ben didn't hesitate long. After all those years it had become a habit to fail to think of himself when Laura was concerned. He was smiling when he went out. He knew that if there were any way of Laura's knowing, she would understand.

He was only sorry that he couldn't say goodbye to Marion.

Had he seen Marion at the moment, Ben would have received something of a shock. For the girl was wearing costly clothes, and two bracelets on her left arm were beautiful. With her sat a man who stroked her hand every now and then in a possessive gesture.

The girl shook her head.

"No," she replied. I know I ought to. I really miss him, and I'd like to help him out. But I wouldn't want him to have any suspicion about—well, about us. He'd probably raise a rumpus."

She smiled.

"After all," she went on, "he's not quite in our world, dear. You could hardly expect him to understand. He's old-fashioned. How could he know what it's like to really love someone?"

Court Hears Attack On Gold Devaluation

ALBANY, N. Y., June 1.—(AP.)—The Court of Appeals today took under consideration arguments attacking and defending constitutionality of the congressional resolution involving devaluation of the gold dollar.

Counsel for Norman C. Norman, holder of a $1,000 bond of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, argued yesterday that the resolution was unconstitutional because it takes the plaintiff's property "without just compensation and deprives him of the equal protection of the laws."

Examiner Named in Fox Chapel Dispute

Attorney John S. Robb has been appointed by Judge W. Heber Dithrich as examiner in the Fox Chapel incorporation controversy. He will take testimony of the taxpayers of the fashionable country home district, who have asked that a borough be formed, and will listen to the exceptions filed by the commissioners and school directors of O'Hara and Indiana townships, and will report his findings back to Quarter Sessions Court.

Throws Rail Switch To Get Train Ride

MORGANTOWN, N. C., June 1.—James Williams, 22-year-old hobo, threw open a railway switch, lighting a red stop signal. Then he went to sleep.

An inspector, searching for the cause of the signal, found the youth snoozing, the switch lock by his side. Williams said:

Motor Pierces Plane, Killing Army Flier

Kid Glove Thieves Loot Store Safe

Thieves who used kid gloves as a precaution against leaving their fingerprints, broke open a safe in the office of the Armor-Krause Company, automobile accessories, 5489 Penn avenue, last night and escaped with $100, police were notified. The gloves and a sledge hammer were left behind.

MAN ACCUSES SON-IN-LAW

Sentenced to jail for 30 days following an alleged attack upon his father-in-law, George H. House, of Braddock, Patrick Sullivan faced another hearing today on an assault and battery charge preferred by House.

Sullivan was arrested and House, a Justice of the Peace, required hospital treatment, police said, after an altercation in the latter's home at 26 Moody street, Braddock.

At a hearing before Burgess Fred Seim, Sullivan was ordered to pay $10 and costs. Refusing, he was sentenced to jail. Squire House then filed the additional charge against his before Squire Francis V. Sabino in Rankin.

Thousands are now finding a new enjoyment in drinking White Horse Scotch. They follow the example of the real connoisseur—the Scotsman.

First, pour out your White Horse, and add an equal portion of water or other mixer. Then roll it round in your glass, anticipatingly. Now, inhale deeply of an aroma so pleasing that it almost baffles description. Sip, slowly, very slowly. Roll it round your tongue—let your palate appreciate the delicate flavor of peat and heather—the very essence of Real Old Scotch. Note how smoothly it "swallows"—how pleasantly it "sets"—how quickly it helps you to throw off cares.

When you drink White Horse this way, you will appreciate to the full its distinctive qualities. Insist on White Horse—enjoy it today.

SCHISM FACES SOCIALISTS

DETROIT, June 1.—(AP.)—An acrimonious schismatic fight loomed today over the Socialist national convention at a time considered by many leaders to be a critical moment in the party's history.

The fight centers on the opposition to the "old guard"—the faction of the right wing led for many years by the late Morris Hillquit.

The opponents, it was learned authoritatively today, already have marked up one victory against the "old guard." At a session of the national executive committee, the "old guard" leaders made an unsuccessful effort to invoke the unit rule in state delegations—and lost.

The New York delegation is the largest in the convention and is presumably controlled by some of the party leaders who were allied with Hillquit, including Louis Waldman and Algergon Lee.

With the unit rule in effect, these leaders would have been in a strong position to dictate formation of the Socialist party's program for the next two years.

War of Languages Ends in Belgium

BRUSSELS, June 1.—(AP.)—The long political battle in Belgium over the Flemish and French languages apparently had ended today—with the Flemings at last satisfied. A law has been approved granting Flemish equal rights in courts with the French tongue.

Flemish leaders had threatened separation and amalgamation with Holland unless their language was recognized.

Bandits Raid Town, 4 Officials Killed

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, June 1.—(AP.)—The municipal president, two other local officials and the chief of police of Santa Cruz Juarez were killed by a group of bandits, who attacked the town, dispatches arriving today reported.

The state governor has requested the secretary of war to provide a guard for the remaining officials.

Forest Fire Menace Halts Maine Fishing

AUGUSTA, Me., June 1.—(AP.)—All streams in Maine were closed to fishing today by Gov. Louis J. Brann because of a "serious forest fire menace existing in all parts of our state."

His proclamation also prohibited smoking or the building of fires in the woods.

1,400 CHILDREN LOST AT FAIR

CHICAGO, June 1.—(AP.)—It was children's day yesterday at the World's Fair, and a good time was enjoyed by all—1,400 not included.

These tired, bewildered and distressed youngsters spent much of the day in the lost and found bureau, having become separated from their parents and escorts in the crowd.

Early today all had been properly placed except 65. These, many of them not knowing their addresses, were waiting at the police station to be called for.

English Pens Ban Yankee Thrillers

LONDON, June 1.—(INS.)—Steps will be taken to keep American murder stories out of English prisons, it was decided today, after the question had been raised in the House of Commons.

The discovery that a man awaiting the walk to the scaffold had been passing his time reading a story called "The Hanging Judge" led to the decision to censor the reading matter.

BEATING FATAL, GIRL ACCUSED

International News Service.

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., June 1.—The brutal beating administered to pretty Miss Fannie Kurz, 21, and her boy friend, Milton J. Brown, 24, in a "lovers' lane" 11 days ago, was instigated by a girl.

While Miss Kurz died from her injuries last week without emerging from her coma, Brown regained consciousness today and is understood to have named two men and a girl, the men beating him and Miss Kurz at the girl's direction.

Since the attack was committed in a federal battlefield park, federal agents are handling the case. They would not divulge Brown's detailed story.

Robin Ignores Park Fire Gong

YOSEMITE, Cal., June 1.—(AP.)—A nesting robin today calmly disregarded a fire gong long enough to awaken a colony of 1,400 persons in Yosemite National Park. The bird's nest is built on the main signal. A crew of workers watched the robin's reactions as the alarm was tested.

CHICAGO FAIR BIG FEATURE :-: Whiteman Guest At Middie Frolic :-: ON AIR TONIGHT

7 Headliners Top Hour's Program

Standing ace high from the point of variety and talent rating, WCAE's 10:30 offering tonight is recommended without reservation.

The program spans the continent, darting from New York to Hollywood to Chicago for its pickups, and brings to the fans a full hour of radio's best, namely, Fred Waring, Jack Benny, Ted Weems, Phil Baker, Anson Weeks, James Melton and Clara, Lu 'n' Em.

Billed "Keep Chicago Ahead," the show is designed to boost the 1934 edition of the "Century of Progress" which opened Saturday.

Nice thing about it is that the fans who hie homeward each Friday night intent on listening to Benny's microphonic cavortings won't be disappointed—a rather singular occurrence in view of radio's tendency for suddenly shunting a "special" into the ether in place of an established and regularly followed feature.

* * *

ENTER: THE MIDDIES

Almost neck to neck with the Chicago show on tonight's radio listing is NBC's broadcast from the United States fleet ball, a heretofore ultra-private function never before held outside of the Annapolis walls.

Tonight, from the elaborate Waldorf-Astoria in New York, the affair will be given its aerial baptism, affording a real musical tidbit for lovers of the dance and a symphony of color for the imaginative.

Rhythms will be provided by Emil Coleman, Howard Lanin and Enric Madriguera, with Paul Whiteman taking the air during the proceedings as guest conductor.

In addition, through the famed parabolas first used at the Democratic national convention in Chicago in 1932, the sounds of festivity will be picked up for transmission in conjunction with descriptions of the scene. KDKA carries from 11:35 until midnight.

WORD OF DEFENSE

Ever and anon radio editors are being criticized for lavishness as to space in the cases of certain radio stars, even though the reason for such magnanimity must be apparent even to the most biased —that the performers in question are without doubt at the top of their profession.

One such star is the Friday night WCAE singer, Jessica Dragonette. Discounting all intervening and attributive factors, Dragonette has maintained an almost unequalled prestige in radio. Through sheer ability and appeal she has stayed at the top.

The same is true of Rudy Vallee. Anyone who, in the face of constant haranguing and heckling, stays in the front as Vallee has done, has something and rates every good break he gets.

Anyone can rise to stardom to the tune of unmitigated press-agentry. But it takes ability, personality and perennial hardiness to stay there.

Novel Talent Of Europe For U. S.

By AIRCASTER

A talent roundup throughout Europe, particularly in England, in which the ace actors, the top-line musical shows, the best of the variety performers and finally, but not least, those famous English dance bands, will be brought in regular series to the ears of American audiences, is planned by the sponsor currently paying off Irving Berlin.

As predicted here recently, it is the first time an American broadcaster has reached out, commercially, across the seas for performing talent, and it will be the first series in which short-wave will be utilized for the relays.

The manner in which commercial patrons regard the English and German comedians is attested by the fact that only one funny fellow has been approached to take part in the Sunday night shows, which will come, as usual, via WJZ. He is Harry Lauder.

Atmospherics constitute the only menace to this ambitious plan, and in instances where they interfere with the clarity of the trans-ocean broadcast, the patron will stage an impromptu local show, with Al Goodwin, band maestro, standing by.

The divertissement from Europe is slated to begin in five weeks. Irving Berlin fades this Sunday and Will Rogers will be recalled for four weeks. The first of the shows from Europe will indulge in foreign musical material, and will bring, perhaps, Douglas Fairbanks within hearing. If all goes well, the next presentation will bring the voice of Beatrice Lillie. Then the schedule calls for Harry Lauder, to be followed by Gertrude Lawrence, and then the famous bands, including that of Jack Hylton.

Their WCAE program Wednesday afternoon, with Judge Richardson, Clarence Crux and George Grimm as speakers, and music by the Post Drum and Bugle Corps, was a dandy.

Lloyd Huntley, of Isle o' Blues fame, plays a one-night stand at the Hotel Schenley tonight as music-maker for the Wilkinsburg Interfraternity ball. Thirty minutes of the Huntley rhythms will be broadcast by WWSW at 10:30.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

When Mrs. Chauncey Lobinger, president of the Board of Managers of the Lawrenceville Neighborhood House was speaking yesterday on the Globe Trotter period in connection with the thirtieth anniversary celebration of the founding of the Neighborhood House, she ventured the opinion that Henry Ford purchased the wrong home as the birthplace of Stephen Collins Foster.

Mrs. Lobinger has been identified with Lawrenceville and the welfare of its residents over a long period of time and her opinion bears weight.

The first sunburn lotion prescribed for Globe Trotters was sent in by Mrs. Harry McCullough, 2304 Los Angeles avenue, Beechview, who says linseed oil and lime water mixed in equal proportions applied to the affected area takes out the heat and heals the burn."

I want to add the names of Mrs. May Boyer Clepper, of Gazella street, and Mrs. A. Bollen, Jr., of West View, and her son, Robert, as those who concurred with William H. McCaffery, the magician, in choosing the color "red" and the number "seven" during the magic broadcast of last Saturday.

It was with real pleasure that we broadcast a story of the escape from the Johnstown flood by Mrs. Margaret Williams, now of Pittsburgh, who 45 years ago yesterday maintained a precarious hold on the side of her house as it was swirled madly by the raging waters of the Conemaugh River.

F. E. Semko, of Jacobs Creek, Pa., reports that on Tuesday night, May 29, after a small rain shower, a rainbow appeared in the sky.

Although it appeared at 9:45 p. m., standard time, it glowed with the same colors as a daylight rainbow.

WCAE Artists Will Entertain

An hour of continuous entertainments by WCAE artists is broadcast tonight starting at 6:45, with the special arrangements of the So-and-So's.

At 7 o'clock, Jeanne Claskey, soprano, is accompanied by the station's String Trio, and at 7:30, Raymond Griffin, who chants "Mandalay" with the best of them, is to be heard as a soloist.

A special network program at 10:30 airs the spirit of Chicago, and includes art s usually heard on the programs which are canceled for the occasion.

TAX LEAGUERS SIFT VOTE OUTCOME

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., June 1.—Representatives of the Pennsylvania State Tax Justice League were to gather here today to hear reports from every county on how candidates friendly to the league's legislative program weathered the primary election. The representatives will make a check on the number of candidates pledged to support the league's program who are still in the race for the state offices.

Four Pittsburgh representatives were expected to attend, the delegates being I. Leonard Aronson, C. V. Shoup, Dr. E. E. Mattox and James G. Jenkins, all directors of the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers League.

The representatives in session here are expected to map out a program of activity for the summer and leading up to the general election this fall.

A feature of the meeting is to be the presentation of a resolution for consideration of the state officials, which would ask for legislative repeal of all laws which permit elected county, city, borough, township and school officials to hold conventions at the expense of the taxpayers.

The resolution will be presented by Mr. Aronson. Last week the board of directors of the local league approved the resolution.

Mr. Aronson contends that many of the meetings of township and other elected officials are nothing more than gatherings for the purpost of strengthening their organization against any reforms suggested by taxpayers.

Police Seek Looters Of Bellevue Home

Bellevue police today were searching for thieves who last night entered the home of Presley Lloyd, at 169 Kendall avenue, Bellevue, and stole $11. The theft was committed while Lloyd and his family were in the yard back of their house watching a ball game on a nearby field.

Mayor Tries Leap, Falls From Truck

KINGMAN, Kan., June 1.—(AP.)—Mayor Will Murphy has decided to let his firemen do the firefighting hereafter.

He was in a hospital today with a broken hip because he tried to make a fireman's leap for the fire engine as it darted out of the station. He missed and fell.

PITTSBURGHER CREATES 'VOTE-BY-MAIL' SYSTEM

Submits Proposal For Roosevelt's Consideration

Returning from Gettysburg and New York after voicing again the aims and ideals of government truly representative of the people, President Roosevelt will find on his desk today the plan of a Pittsburgher to safeguard the keystone of government by the people—the ballot.

Alonzo P. Ingram, creator of a system permitting voting by mail, said today he had mailed just before Memorial Day, for study by the President, a complete outline of his plan and a set of the three pieces comprising his vote-by-mail system.

While he waits for the President's reply, Ingram is moving to acquaint Pittsburgh with the details of his plan. He will describe them in a brief radio talk over the Aircaster period at 6:30 p. m. tonight as the guest of the Sun-Telegraph.

In his letter to President Roosevelt Ingram said:

"True government by the people rests upon integrity of the ballot. Today only 30 per cent of the people vote, 70 per cent do not. Twenty per cent of the people, therefore, can rule—and do. Political machines are built and sustained on this fact. My plan for a secret ballot to be sent by mail to a central elections bureau will encourage voters to cast their ballots and can be so protected that no 'influence' can affect it. It will bring out heavier voting in uncontrolled districts and thus wrench loose the grip of the 'machine.' It will return government to the people who support it."

ALONZO P. INGRAM AND HIS VOTE-BY-MAIL FORMS

Instead of standing in line for hours to cast a ballot which may be nullified by political interference with the election, the voter under the Vote-by-Mail plan would have ample time to study the qualifications of candidates, would fill out the ballot in his home, and then mail it. A card attached to the ballot bearing his signature would be checked against his signature card at the elections bureau so that no one else could vote for him. The card then torn off, the ballot would become a secret ballot, deposited in the proper slot for his ward and precinct, to be counted after all votes were cast. The total vote would be checked against the number eligible to vote, eliminating "padding."

AIRLINES SEEK FAIR TRAVEL

CHICAGO, June 1.—(AP.)—The airlines have joined with the railroads and bus companies in a bid for World's Fair passenger business.

Air service will be approximately trebled today, when the new schedules of eight transport companies go into effect.

Company officials said, however, that the additional service would be maintained after the Century of Progress exposition ends, should business warrant it.

Woman, 74, Unhurt As Truck Hits House

Mrs. Mary Revak, 74, escaped unhurt when a five-ton truck, loaded with sand, crashed into her apartment at 210 South First street, Duquesne, late yesterday. The debris demolished a rocking chair which Mrs. Revak had just left a minute before to get a drink of water. Damage to the building, a three-story brick, was estimated at $100.

Woman Seeks Custody of Children

Mrs. Nellie Dittner, of New York, has filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus here, seeking custody of three children now with her former husband, Leon Cremielewski. The petition charges that Cremielewski took the children from Mrs. Martha Trzecial, of 226 Forty-fourth street, her mother, following their divorce. Each has since remarried.

Poured Ether Upon Pillow, Wife Charges

Mrs. Carolyn Forcey, of 3065 Earlsmere avenue, Dormont, testifying in her suit for divorce from Harold Forcey, told Judge Thomas M. Marshall yesterday that once ether was poured on her pillow. She said she was revived by her mother.

Mrs. Forcey also testified that after she began locking herself in her room when her husband went on a rampage he even started carrying a crowbar.

Carry Home the Papers and you've done your daily dozen

IT BEATS all how our Pittsburgh papers have expanded. One day you stagger home under 54 pages, only to run into 80 the next. As one lady said, "they've got less to write about this spring than they had last [she meant the Roosevelt Revolution was just getting under way last April and May] but they take longer to tell about it." The dear lady is a bit wrong there, because a large part of the increased size of the papers represents increased prospects for business, as sensed by Pittsburgh's astute business men. In other words, Pittsburgh is getting on her feet again—and the old Smoke that we used to disdain so haughtily when visitors pointed it out to us, gets in your eyes in the good old way again. Which brings us to the subject we're fondest of—and that is

STRIKE THREAT PERILS RELIEF WORK HERE

Field Workers, Junior Supervisors Ask Pay Raise

Demands for an increase in wages for relief workers, backed by the threat of a strike which would tie up all relief work in the county, are being prepared today by the Associated Relief Workers of Allegheny County.

The organization, which now includes 200 field workers and junior supervisors of the Relief Work Division, will forward the demands to George P. Mills, county director, and Eric H. Biddle, state relief head.

According to Kurt Anderson, president of the workers' organization who made the announcement, the relief workers' chances of getting an increase in pay are constantly diminishing.

Although the number of families on relief is growing smaller each week, Anderson said the proposed cash dole and proposed rent relief lessened the hopes of the workers.

A temporary allocation of $414,000 for the Work Division for June was announced today by James L. Stuart, director.

This amount, unless increased later, would carry the present payroll only two weeks, but the local officials have a small "carry over" fund from last month, he said.

SPROUL WIDOW WILLS $500,000

Mrs. Elizabeth Howe Sproul, widow of Frank Penrose Sproul, prominent Pittsburgh attorney, left her $500,000 estate to relatives and friends, her will filed for probate today revealed.

Mrs. Sproul, who was living in Boston at the time of her death, bequeathed one-third of the estate to Willa Zug, one-third to Margaret H. Forsythe and one-third in trust for her stepdaughter, Mrs. Harriet Sproul Bolton, of Cannes, France.

A cousin, Mary D. Howe, and the Rev. Elwood Worcester, of Boston, each receive $5,000. Winfield K. Shiras and the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company were named executors.

CIVIL SERVICE UNDER FIRE

Abolition of the Civil Service Commission, because it works against the principle of "to the victor belongs the spoils," has been demanded by Mrs. Anna Maloney, who has announced herself as representative of the Fourth Ward Democrats in a message to City Council.

In a statement read to Council yesterday, Mrs. Maloney charged the Civil Service Commission with not only working against the spoils system but with being "political spoilsmen" in their own right.

She endorsed Mrs. Edwin D. Miller for an executive position in the Welfare Department.

HURT IN CRASH, MAN DIES

Nathan Lefkowitz, 29, of 4259 Saline street, died in Pittsburgh Hospital late yesterday of internal injuries suffered when his auto collided with a car driven by Harry D. Harris, Crafton, son of the late Senator John P. Harris, at Shady and Wilkins avenue. Harris was ordered to post bond for a Coroner's inquest.

George Sullivan, 10, of 2528 Spring way, was taken to St. Francis Hospital with a leg injury late yesterday after being struck by an auto driven by H. C. Robb, 48, of Upper Darby, Pa., at Penn avenue near Twenty-fifth street, police reported.

Robb was arrested on a reckless driving charge, police said.

GRISWOLD VOWS CITY PARK RULE REFORM

New Superintendent Taking Office Today Outlines Program

The administration of a new superintendent of parks, Ralph E. Griswold, whose appointment by Public Works Director Leslie M. Johnston takes effect today, promises new interest in Pittsburgh's parks.

Pittsburghers who have been accustomed to see the park flower beds blossom with geraniums, flags, coleus and cannas, or with tulips in the spring, may expect to see perennials like peonies, iris, phlox and hardy chrysanthemums take their places.

CITES SMALLER COSTS

The maintenance of perennials, Griswold points out, costs less and provides continual bloom throughout the summer.

The famous 'mum shows—traditional fall events in city conservatories—though curtailed, will have new interest.

Much of the work and money needed to raise these costly displays, Griswold says, can be used better in other ways, and educational flower shows can be substituted.

He points out that flower shows, in which they could participate, would be of great benefit to amateur gardeners and flower growers. The city schools will also be asked to co-operate.

OUTLINES PLAN

Discussing his plans for a forward-looking program to develop a comprehensive parks system, Griswold said:

"My whole program, as far as personnel and budget permits, will be to put the parks into a condition to merit the pride and respect of the city. Pittsburgh is well provided with parks in area, but they are not distributed ideally.

"Most of all, we need more neighborhood parks, like West End Park. There are at least a dozen undeveloped city-owned properties for which we have been making park studies."

Griswold cited the North Side Commons, known as West and East parks, as notorious examples of parks so neglected that they no longer function as parks.

Their restoration, he believes, can be accomplished as part of a maintainance program for all the parks.

SMASHED PANE HOLDS 2 MEN

Investigating a broken window in the Meisel Tire Store, Second avenue and Market street, early today, police reported they found Jerry Kirsh, 21, of 253 Anthony street, Mt. Oliver, in the street near the building. Hiding behind a barrel in the basement, according to police, Charles Jerome, 21, of 256 Anthony street, was found. Both men were held on charges of breaking and entering.

The store was robbed of a quantity of tires recently, police said. The two men said they had been drinking, according to police, and could not explain their presence at the store.

Snipers Bullets Give Salute to New Ambassador

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Havana reciprocated by giving our Ambassador a salute of 21 guns. All of them snipers. Do we have to train our diplomats in broken-field running?

The repeal of the Platt postscript to the overloaded Constitution breaks the apron strings. America's only duty in Cuban politics will be to welcome the fleeing presidents.

From now on the Pearl of the Antilles is a one-button necklace. It is absolutely free and independent. We wish them joys of a republic with two political parties and room for only one.

Mr. Locust Sitting for His Portrait

Officially Known as Periodical Cicada Experts Say

Periodical cicada having made its appearance, you may as well know it isn't to be called the 17-year locust.

This is for the information of those residents of Bellevue and Avalon who viewed with alarm periodical cicada's appearance among the shrubbery and garden stuff of those vicinities.

The information may be pasted in your hat for reference 17 years hence when the brood of the present day periodical cicada visits you again.

Periodical cicada is not to be referred to as a locust. The species now on the wing in Allegheny County produces a brood every 17 years, but that still doesn't make it a 17-year locust. Agricultural and entomological experts are authority for this.

County Farm Agent Henry R. Eby advised that affected areas refrain from too much viewing with alarm, because he said the insect is not a serious menace to vegetation.

MEET BROOD NO. 8

If alarm is not abated herewith, and some would like to know what can be done about periodical cicada, be it known there is no spray or dust which may be applied to trees to prevent periodical cicada from layong eggs thereon.

The choice of an agg-laying place, it seems, is what makes periodical cicada a menace. The egg deposits sometimes injure trees.

There is a simple method by which this damage may be averted. Young trees may be covered with mosquito netting or other cheap cloth during the period when the adult locusts are flying.

The entomologists have a lot of data on periodacal cicada. For instance, Avalon and Bellevue are being visited because Brood Eight has just matured. You haven't seen Brood Eight in these parts since 1917.

BOOKED FOR 1936

They even look into the insect's future and tell you that Brood Nine will show up next year, but not in Pennsylvania. The next brood of any importance to appear in this state will be Brood Ten. It is booked for 1936.

Brood Ten will be particularly numerous. It will be mixed with periodical cicada of the 13-year variety, so 1936 will be a get-together year for both.

Did you know that periodical cicada gets sunburned? It is a fact. After remaining 13 or 17 years in the soil (they get there by dropping from trees after they are hatched), periodical cicada climbs up on something handy and waits for the sun. The insect is white when it crawls up, but soon turns brown.

FOOD FOR CROWS

There is a great deal more information compiled about periodical cicada. For instance, young fruit trees should not be pruned heavily the winter or spring before the appearance of the adult cicada. After the locusts have disappeared, the weakened twigs may be pruned off and burned.

Oh, yes, if you have a pet skunk or wasp, they will help you keep periodical cicada in bounds. They, along with raccoons, crows, starlings and blackbirds, dine on the insect.

POLICE PROBERS SET HEARING

The first public hearing of the Police Research Commission will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the City Council chamber, according to an announcement by Dr. Elmer D. Graper, chairman of the commission.

Former Public Safety Director Ralph E. Smith and Supt. of Police Ben R. Marshall have been asked to appear and are expected to be the first witnesses.

Another witness asked to testify is the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, crusading North Side pastor, who brought state police some months ago to raid North Side vice resorts.

The police probers expect to have ministers, social workers and other civic leaders testify at future hearings.

The Mayor's office has been asked to send a representative to tomorrow's hearing.

Attorney Dennis J. Mulvihill has been appointed counsel to the commission and Meyer A. Sanders, secretary.

M'Bride Urges Driver Ban for One Drink

SOMERSET, Pa., June 1.—(AP.)—Dry Crusader F. Scott McBride says automobile licenses should be refused to anyone who drinks intoxicating liquor.

COUNCIL TOLD CLEANUP DRIVE ISN'T JOKE

Club Women Sponsors Inform Officials They Mean Business

A campaign for a cleaner and more healthful city, sponsored by club women of Pittsburgh, is being pushed by officials of four city departments.

A special committee has been formed to seek elimination of waste paper and rubbish from the streets. This group, headed by George W. Schusler, superintendent of the Bureau of Sanitation, is scheduled to meet today with Fire Chief John Heinz, who will lend the co-operation of his bureau.

The departments of Public Works, Health, Safety and Law are enlisted in the campaign, which was started a short time ago by a committee from the Congress of Clubs, headed by Miss Mary P. Lang, sister of former Public Works Director Edward G. Lang.

'MEANS BUSINESS'

Miss Lang appeared in Council yesterday with her committee to tell Council that existing city ordinances against throwing rubbish in the streets should be enforced.

She said:

"I want to impress on Council and the heads of the departments that we mean business."

Mrs. George W. Hiett, speaking as an individual, complained of conditions in the neighborhood of Crawford street, Third Ward.

Councilman William A. Magee demanded from Health Director Ray P. Moyer what had been done about following up complaints made in his department.

Moyer replied that the condition was one which, in his opinion, should be corrected by education.

NOT ANY WORSE

Mrs. Hiett declared that for years she had gone from one city department to another with complaints without result.

Councilman John H. Huston, evidently looking to the defense of the present administration, asked if the present directors were any worse than the previous ones, and Mrs. Hiett replied they were no worse.

Councilman Magee took up the cudgels in behalf of Dr. C. J. Vaux, health directotr under his administration, but Mrs. Hiett said complacently:

"Oh, yes, they investigated. But rarely anything was accomplished."

MRS. HALLER HEARD

Others who addressed Council were Mrs. O. J. Haller, president of the Congress of Clubs, and Miss H. Marie Dermitt, secretary of the Civic Club of Allegheny County.

Assistant City Solicitor Conrad Checco is looking up ordinances regulating the passing out of handbills and is to report today.

Police will be asked to co-operate with sanitary inspectors and employes in the Bureau of Highways and Sewers in reporting violations of law as regards throwing rubbish on the streets and compelling the proper covering of garbage wagons.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 1.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Our Governor, Jimmy Rolph, is very, very ill. Writers who rose in such glee to denounce him for doing nothing but speaking from his heart, and not from political tact, they broke his heart, now let them before commenting further, speak of some of the fine human qualities he possessed. Few men ever in public life will leave more real friends. Our country's structure is built on "let the law take its course," but there has been more the matter with our laws, our courts, and our justice, than there was with Jimmy Rolph. Editorial writers were against you, Jimmy (for they have to write for their public), but gosh, it must do your old heart good to know how many mothers were for you. Yours,

WILL.

KANE, MAGEE CLASH ANEW AT HEARING

Parade of Witnesses Charge Ousters To Politics

The struggle for jobs continues more intensely than ever at City Hall.

On one side, the Democratic organization is fighting for every position that harassed directors can give them within civil service rulings.

On the other hand, the entrenched Republican majority in Council is battling to keep on the payroll those who were on it under the old administration.

Council yesterday heard charges of "politics" made by more than a score of dismissed employes, and representatives of the Democratic bloc indicated that politics was no strange factor at City Hall and that there might well be more of it, so far as they are concerned.

MAGEE, KANE CLASH

Councilman William A. Magee, principal defender of the Republican payroll, became involved in another argument with John J. Kane.

When Magee told several of the complaining employes that he thought they were doing a public service by coming in and telling the public about the practices of the new administration, Kane replied:

"If a better plan had been carried out in your administration I'd agree, but there was as much politics carried on under your administration as in any other. Some of your directors were politicians, or I've never seen any."

Magee shot back:

"That assertion cannot be sustained. Let the people that served under my administration answer it."

ORDER RESTORED

Chairman P. J. McArdle once had to remind the audience that they were not attending a factional hearing, but one dealing with public business.

Magee declared that there has never been an administration where the records will show that 241 were dismissed within the first four months.

"If I was in that Mayor's office, it would be 2,000 instead of 200."

Kane said:

"I don't know how many people have been discharged. I haven't got anybody on the payroll."

He added that as a matter of principle he felt the power of appointment rested in the Mayor and directors.

Howard J. Neely, former chief clerk in the Bureau of Highways and Sewers, furnished the liveliest testimony in the parade of the dismissed.

'OUSTERS' ON PARADE

"If this were a business organization there wouldn't be a chance in the world to fire you, but this is political—you understand that."

Neely, under cross examination by the Democratic councilmen, said that he had dismissed city employes in the past for reasons which he himself did not know.

Among those who followed Neely was Charles Matthews, former employe in the city stables. Councilman Kane declared that after Matthews told him that he was originally appointed through former Councilman W. Y. English he informed Matthews there was no chance.

Attorney Benjamin L. Steinberg presented the cases of a group of city employes, including Louis Glesenkamp, former paymaster, and Harry Sikov, former clerk.

DENIES PROFANITY

Edward Hackbart, laborer at the city garage, declared he was fired by Safety Director A. Marshall Bell, who informed him that the cause was statements and the use of profane language against Mayor McNair.

He denied the charge.

Drawing of Liberty Tube Plaza Plans Ordered

Although the constitutionality of the Allegheny County Authority has not yet been established, work is to start immediately on plans for the Liberty tube plaza, one of the included projects.

The authority seeks $30,000,000 from the government for self-liquidating public works here, 70 per cent of the funds to be in the form of a loan.

Chief County Solicitor P. J. Fife yesterday reminded the County Commissioners that the government was anxious for the county to be in a position to advertise for bids for the plaza within 30 days after the federal money is available so that repayment can be started at the earliest possible date.

The plaza project contemplates a ramp system on the south end of the Liberty tubes. Tolls will be collected there.

The Commissioners approved an appropriation of $3,500 for four designing engineers, two assistants and two draftsmen to work on the plans.

1,300 Couples Expected To Say 'I Do' in June

"I do" is going to be a popular phrase this month. That is the marriage license bureau's prediction for June. And to show they're not imagining things, the clerks hold up the pile of licenses issued to 86 "cash customers" yesterday.

Figures show business is picking up in marital circles, for May's total of licenses is almost equal to the 1930 number, when 892 couples procured licenses. In the intervening years, things have been definitely slow, with the licenses not exceeding the 500's. But yesterday marked the return of prosperity, when John Ronczka and Eleanor Ankowski, of Ambridge, took out May's final license No. 830.

Although last year June, the busiest month of the year, saw 886 licenses registered, this year Charles Hendrickson, of the bureau, expects a total of over 1,300 in the marrying month for, as he says:

"Now that young men are back at work again, one of the first places they visit is the marriage license bureau. They're tired of out-waiting the depression."

EUROPE TOLD U. S. EXPECTS WAR DEBTS

the only country which has met its payments in full, the President said:

"It is a simple fact that this matter of the repayment of the debts contracted to the United States during and after the World War has gravely complicated our trade and financial relationships with the borrowing nations for many years.

"We shall continue to expect the debtors on their part to show full understanding of the American attitude on this debt question."

SILENT ON 'TOKENS'

In view of the existing circumstances, Mr. Roosevelt said, no new legislation at this time is either necessary or desirable. He continued:

"I can only repeat what I have made clear to the debtor nations again and again, that 'the indebtedness to our government has no relation whatsoever to the reparations payments made or owed to them' and that each individual nation has full and free opportunity individually to discuss its problem with the United States.

"We are using every means to persuade each debtor nation as to the sacredness of the obligation."

The message contained no reference to the Johnson act, which was passed as a result of the defaulters, and which prohibits defaulting countries from floating any securities in the American investment field.

Nor did Mr. Roosevelt make any reference to the moot point the British have raised—that is, whether a "token" payment on June 15 would be considered a default. But it is understood the British have been privately told that no drop-in-the-bucket payment, such as they made last December, would suffice this June.

REJECTS BRITISH PLAN

In reiterating that the American debts have no relation whatever with the (German) reparations payments owing France, Britain and other of the Allies, Mr. Roosevelt stood fast on the policy originally laid down by Charles E. Hughes as Secretary of State, and since adhered to by every administration.

Without mentioning Locarno, where the Allies agreed to let Germany off on a dime-on-the-dollar basis, provided the United States would let them off on the same basis, Mr. Roosevelt made it clear no such arrangement is satisfactory to this country.

This kicks into the discard the pet plan of Ramsay MacDonald, the British premier, to drive the Locarno agreement straight through the American debt problem. MacDonald's insistence of this ten - cents - on - the - dollar scheme a year ago this month almost broke up the world economic conference at London on the opening day.

GIVES DEBTORS' STATUS

Reporting in detail on the status of the various debtors, the President said:

France—The French Parliament refused to permit payments on the $3,863,650,000 bonds of France owned by the United States.

Great Britain—Owes $4,368,000,000. Has stated that the partial (token) payments she has been making were not to be regarded as a resumption of the annual payments under the original agreement, but as capital payment to be accounted for in any final settlement.

Italy—Owes $2,004,900,000. Paid $1,245,437 interest on December 15, 1932, but in so doing advised that "a radical solution of sponging the slate type" to be necessary for world economic recovery.

Szecho-Slovakia — Owes $165,000,000. Made a principal payment of $1,500,000 in December, 1932, and advised at the same time that the payment constituted the "utmost self-denial."

Belgium—Owes $400,680,000. Declined to pay $2,215,000 interest due in December, 1932.

Poland—Owes $206,057,000. Has not paid $232,000 principal, or $3,070,980 interest due.

Estonia and Hungary has not paid.

FINLAND PAID UP

Greece is making only partial payments on its foreign bonded indebtedness, including the United States.

Jugo-Slavia—Has simply stopped paying.

Rumania—No payment has fallen due since the signing of the Hovoer moratorium.

Finland, Latvia and Lithuania were current in their payments as of March 4, 1933, but since then only Finland has regularly met its obligations.

There was no hint in the message as to when negotiations for new settlements are to begin, if ever.

Mr. Roosevelt simply reported that in October of last year the British sent a mission to Washington to discuss the debt, but "these discussions made clear the existing difficulties and the discussions were adjourned."

In short, the British tried to settle on a dime-on-the-dollar basis, the American government refused, and the negotiations blew up.

TEXT OF PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE ON WAR DEBTS

WASHINGTON, June 1.
Associated Press.

In my address to the Congress January 3 I stated that I expected to report later in regard to debts owed the government and people of this country by the governments and people of other countries. There has been no formal communication on the subject from the Executive since President Hoover's message of December 19, 1931.

The developments are well-known, having been announced to the press as they occurred. Correspondence with debtor governments has been made public and is available in the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury. It is, however, timely, to review the situation.

Payments on the indebtedness of foreign governments to the United States which fell due in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1932, were postponed on the proposal of President Hoover announced June 20, 1931, and authorized by the joint resolution of Congress approved December 23, 1931. Jugo-Slavia alone suspended payment while rejecting President Hoover's offer of postponement.

In the six months of July to December, 1932, which followed the end of the Hoover moratorium year, payments of $125,000,000 from 12 governments fell due. Requests to postpone the payments due December 15, 1932, were received from Great Britain, France, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and Poland.

The replies made on behalf of President Hoover through the Department of State declined these requests, generally stating that it was not in the power of the Executive to grant them, and expressing a willingness to co-operate with the debtor government in surveying the entire situation. After such correspondence, Czecho-Slovakia, Finland, Great Britain, Italy, Latvia and Lithuania met their contractual obligations, while Belgium, Estonia, France and Poland made no payment.

BRITISH STAND STATED

Stimson, replied to this note on after the United States had declined to sanction postponement of the payment due December 15, the British government, in announcing its decision to make payment of the amount due on December 15, made the following important statement:

"For reasons which have already been placed on record, His Majesty's government are convinced that the system of intergovernmental payments in respect of the war debts as it existed prior to Mr. Hoover's initiative on June 20th, 1031, cannot be revived without disaster. Since it is agreed that the whole subject should be re-examined between the United States and the United Kingdom this fundamental point need not be further stressed here.

"In the view of His Majesty's government therefore the payment to be made on December 15th is not to be regarded as a resumption of the annual payments contemplated by the existing agreement. It is made because there has not been time for discussion with regard to that agreement to take place and because the United States government have stated that in their opinion such a payment would greatly increase the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question.

"His Majesty's government proposed accordingly to treat the payment of December 15th as a capital payment of which account should be taken in any final settlement, and they are making arrangements to effect this payment in gold as being in the circumstances the least prejudicial of the methods open to them.

"This procedure must obviously be exceptional and abnormal, and His Majesty's government desire to urge upon the United States government the importance of an early exchange of views with the object of concluding the proposed discussion before June 15th next in order to obviate a general breakdown of the existing intergovernmental agreements."

TERMS NOT CHANGED

The Secretary of State, Mr. Stimson, replied to this note on the same day that acceptance by the Secretary of the Treasury of funds tendered in payment of the December 15 installment cannot constitute approval of or agreement to any condition or declaration of policy inconsistent with the terms of the agreement inasmuch as the Executive has no power to amend or to alter those terms either directly or by implied commitment.

No payment was made by France December 15, 1932, as the French Chamber of Deputies by a vote on the morning of December 14 refused authorization to make the payment.

The resolution voted by the French Chamber at that time invited the French government to convoke as soon as possible, in agreement with Great Britain and other debtors, a general conference for the purpose of adjusting all international obligations and putting an end to all interntional transfers for which there is no compensating transaction.

The resolution stated that the chamber, despite legal and economic considerations, would have authorized settlement had the United States been willing to agree in advance to the convening of the conference for these purposes.

RECALLS HOOVER STATEMENT

This resolution of the French chamber is to be read in relation with the public statements of policy made by President Hoover and by myself on November 23, 1932.

President Hoover said:

"The United States government from the beginning has taken the position that it would deal with each of the debtor governments separately, as separate and distinct circumstances surrounded each case."

Both in the making of the loans and in the subsequent settlements with the different debtors, this policy has been rigdly made clear to every foreign government concerned. I said:

"I find myself in complete accord with the four principles discussed in the conference between the President and myself yesterday and set forth in a statement which the President has issued today.

"These debts were actual loans made under distinct understanding and with the intention that they would be repaid.

"In dealing with the debts each government has been and is to be considered individually, and all dealings with each government are independent of dealings with any other debtor government. In no case should we deal with the debtor governments collectively.

"Debt settlements made in each case take into consideration the capacity to pay of the individual debtor nations.

"The indebtedness of the various European nations to our government has no relations whatsoever to reparations payments made or owed to them."

Of the $125,000,000 due and payable December 15, 1932, the Treasury received $98,750,000, of which $95,550,000 was the British payment made subsequent to the above correspondence, and the other $3,000,000 represented payments by five other debtor nations. The amounts due from Belgium, Estonia, France, Hungary and Poland, which were not received, amounted to $25,000,000, of which $19,260,000 was due and payable by France.

PRINCIPLE STATED

In my statement issued November 23, 1932, I had said:

"I firmly believe in the principle that an individual debtor should at all times have access to the creditor; that he should have opportunity to lay facts and representations before the creditor and that the creditor always should give courteous, sympathetic and thoughtful consideration to such facts and representations.

"This is a rule essential to the preservation of the ordinary relationships of life. It is a basic obligation of civilization. It applies to nations as well as to individuals.

"The principle calls for a free access by the debtor to the creditor. Each case should be considered in the light of the conditions and necessities peculiar to the case of each nation concerned."

On January 20, 1933, President Hoover and I agreed upon the following statement:

"The British government has asked for a discussion of the debts. The incoming administration will be glad to receive their representative early in March for this purpose. It is, of course, necessary to discuss at the same time the world economic problems in which the United States and Great Britain are mutually interested and therefore that representations should also be sent to discuss ways and means for improving the world situation."

STATUS OF DEBTORS

On March 4, 1933, the situation with regard to the indebtedness of other governments to the United States was, in brief, as follows:

FRANCE—The French Parliament had refused to permit payment of $19,261,432.50 interest due on the $3,863,650,000 bonds of France owned by the United States;

GREAT BRITAIN—With respect to the British bonded debt held by the Treasury in the principal amount of $4,368,000,000, Great Britain in meeting a due payment of $30,000,000 principal and $65,550,000 interest had stated that the payment was not to be regarded as a resumption of the annual payments contemplated under the funding agreement of June 19, 1923, but was to be treated, so far as the British government was concerned, as a capital payment of which account should be taken in any final settlement.

ITALY—With respect to the $2,004,900,000 principal amount of bonds of the Italian government held by the United States Treasury, the Italian government had paid the sum of $1,245,437 interest due December 15, 1932; but in doing so it referred to a resolution of the grand council of Facism, adopted December 5, 1932, in which "a radical solution of the 'sponging of the slate' type was declared to be necessary for the world's economic recovery."

Czecho-Slovakia in making a payment of $1,500,000 principal due December 15, 1932, on its debt of $165,000,000 had stated that "this payment constitutes in the utmost self-denial of the Czecho-Slovak people their final effort to meet the obligation under such extremely unfavorable circumstances."

Belgium had declined to pay $2,125,000 interest due December 15, 1932, on its bonds of $400,680,000 held by the Treasury of the United States and in doing so had recited circumstances which it stated "prevent it from resuming, on December 15, the payments which were suspended by virtue of the agreements made in July, 1931," adding, "Belgium is still disposed to collaborate fully in seeking a general settlement of intergovernmental debts and of the other problems arising from the depression."

Poland had not paid the $232,000 principal and $3,070,980 interest due December 15, 1932, on its bond in the principal amount of $206,057,000 held by the Treasury of the United States.

Of the nine other governments whose bonds are held by the Treasury of the United States, Estonia and Hungary had not met payments due December 15, 1932.

Greece was naming only partial payments on its foreign bonded indebtedness, including that held by the United States.

Jugo-Slavia had declined to sign any Hoover moratorium agreement and had stopped paying.

CONCLUSIONS NOT REACHED

Although I had informal discussions concerning the British debt with the British ambassador even before March 4, 1933, and in April, there was further discussion of the subject with the Prime Minister of Great Britain and between experts of the two governments, it was not possible to reach definitive conclusions.

On June 13 the British government gave notice that in the then existing circumstances it was not prepared to make the payment due June 15, 1933, but would make an immediate payment of $10,000,000 as an acknowledgement of the debt pending a final settlement.

To this notice reply was made by the acting Secretary of State, pointing out that it is not within the discretion of the President to reduce or cancel the existing debt owed to the United States nor to alter the schedule of debt payments contained in the existing settlement.

At the same time I took occasion to announce that in view of the representations of the British government, the accompanying acknowledgment of the debt itself, and the payment made, I had no personal hesitation in saying that I would not characterize the resultant situation as a default.

In view of the suggestion of the expressed desire of the British government to make representations concerning the debt, I suggested that such representations be made in Washington as soon as convenient.

SILVER AUTHORIZED

The Agricultural Adjustment Act, approved May 12, 1933, had authorized the President for a period of six months from that date to accept silver in payment of installments due from any foreign government, such silver to be accepted at not to exceed a price of fifty cents an ounce. In the payments due June 15, 1933, the governments of Great Britain, Czecho-Slovakia, Finland, Italy, Lithuania and Rumania took advantage of this offer.

On June 15, 1933, payments of about $144,000,000 were due from foreign governments, the larger amounts being about $76,000,000 from Great Britain, almost $41,000,000 from France and $13,500,000 from Italy. The amounts actually paid into the Treasury were $11,374,000 of which $10,000,000 was paid by Great Britain and $1,000,000 by Italy. Communications were received from most of the debtor governments asking a discussion of the debt question with the United States government.

In October, 1933, representatives of the British government arrived in Washington and conferred for some weeks with representatives of this government. These discussions made clear the existing difficulties and the discussions were adjourned.

The British government then stated that it continued to acknowledge the debt without prejudicing its right again to present the matter of readjustment and that it would express this acknowledgment tangibly by a payment of $7,500,000 on December 15. In announcing this I stated that in view of the representations, of the payment, and of the impossibility of accepting at that time any of the proposals for a readjustment of the debt, I had no personal hesitation in saying that I should not regard the British government as in default.

On December 15, 1933, there was due and payable by foreign governments on their debt funding agreements and Hoover moratorium agreements a total of about $153,000,000. The payments actually received were slightly less than $9,000,000, including $7,500,000 paid by Great Britain, $1,000,000 by Italy, and about $230,000 by Finland.

At the present time Finland remains the only foreign government which has met all payments on its indebtedness to the United States punctually and in full.

It is a simple fact that this matter of the repayment of debts contracted to the United States during and after the World War has gravely complicated our trade and financial relations with the borrowing nations for many years.

CITES DEBTORS' OBLIGATION

These obligations furnished vital means for the successful conclusion of a war which involved the national existence of the borrowers, and later for a quicker restoration of their normal life after the war ended.

The money loaned by the United States government was in turn borrowed by the United States government from the people of the United States, and our government in the absence of payment from foreign governments is compelled to raise the shortage by general taxation of its own people in order to pay off the original Liberty bonds and the later refunding bonds.

It is for these reasons that the American people have felt that their debtors were called upon to make a determined effort to discharge these obligations. The American people would not be disposed to place an impossible burden upon their debtors, but are nevertheless in a just position to ask that substantial sacrifices be made to meet these debts.

We shall continue to expect the debtors on their part to show full understanding of the American attitude on this debt question.

The people of the debtor nations will also bear in mind the fact that the American people are certain to be swayed by the use which debtor countries make of their available resources—whether such resources would be applied for the purposes of recovery as well as for reasonable payment on the debt owed to the citizens of the United States, or for purposes of unproductive nationalistic expenditure or like purposes.

ASKS NO LEGISLATION

In presenting this report to you, I suggest that, in view of all existing circumstances no legislation at this session of the Congress is either necessary or advisable.

I can only repeat that I have made it clear to the debtor nations again and again that "the indebtedness to our government has no relation whatsoever to reparations payments made or owed to them" and that each individual nation has full and free opportunity individually to discuss its problem with the United States.

We are using every means to persuade each debtor nation as to the sacredness of the obligation and also to assure them of our willingness, if they should so request, to discuss frankly and fully the special circumstances relating to means and method of payment.

Recognizing that the final power lies with the Congress, I shall keep the Congress informed from time to time and make such new recommendations as may later seem advisable.

DEBT MESSAGE PRAISED BY SENATORS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—President Roosevelt's war debt message was received with approbation today by both Republicans and Democratic leaders in Congress.

Seldom has a presidential message found so unanimous an indorsement.

Senators Borah, of Idaho; Fess, of Ohio, and Carey, of Wyoming, all Republicans, joined with administration leaders in plaising it.

Senator Borah:

"The President expresses kindly, sympathetically, but rather firmly the view that these debts must be paid. It seems to me a sound and patriotic position to take."

Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California:

"I think it's a very good message. I only hope the President can persuade these debtor governments as to the sacredness of their obligations."

Senator Carey:

"The President's position is highly commendable."

Senator Fess:

"It is a generally strong statement. As for the sacrifices, referred to by the President these sacrifices must be made either by the governments that owe the money or by the people who came to their assistance in time of need."

LEW CODY DIES QUIETLY IN SLEEP

HOLLYWOOD, June 1.—(AP.)—Beneath its grease paint, laughter, mock drama and tragedy, Hollywood silently grieved today at the passing of Lew Cody, its favorite master of ceremonies, man-about-town and bon vivant.

Not since the death of his laughter-loving wife, Mabel Normand, has Hollywood felt so keenly the passing of an individual.

To producer and stage hand alike, Cody was known as "Lew." His friends in the film colony were legion. His home was always open house. He was noted for his filmland philanthropies.

Death, unlike the life he led, came quietly in his sleep. He was found dead in his bed late yesterday afternoon in his Beverly Hills home, apparently from a heart attack.

Dr. R. B. Griffith, Cody's own physician, said he had been treating the actor for several months.

Cody, whose real family name was Cote, was one of the pioneers in the film colony. He came to the Pacific Coast in 1915 as a star in the Shubert show, "The Whirl of the World." He decided to cast his fortunes with the films and joined Thomas Ince in producing pictures at th old Inceville Studios.

Cody was born in Waterville, Me., February 22, 1887. His boyhood was spent in Berlin, N. H., where his father owned a drug store. He later studied medicine at McGill University in Montreal.

Cody was married in 1926 to Miss Normand, a star of the silent screen. She died in February, 1930.

PUSEY ESTATE FIGHT RENEWED

With between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 at stake, the contest over the estate of George W. Pusey, wealthy wallpaper manufasturer, formerly of the North Side, will be resumed in Orphans Court today.

Pusey was almost 88 when he died in Orlando, Fla., in 1933.

Nine days before his death, Pusey evecuted a new will, naming his physician, Dr. Roland T. White, an executor and bequething him a $1,200 annuity.

This will was not admitted to probate here, the Orphan's Court recognizing instead another will dated June, 1929, in which numerous Pittsburgh charitable organizations were principal beneficiaries.

Dr. C. D. Christ, of Orlando, Fla., who witnessed a second will Mr. Pusey made in Florida, testified that Dr. White came to Pittsburgh the day Pusey made his second will and sought to obtain certain stocks and bonds belonging to the aged manufacturer, held here in the Allegheny Trust Company. The bank refused to relinquish the securities.

Testimony will continue for several days.

BEAVER CONVICT CHARGE PROBED

BEAVER, Pa., June 1.—(AP.)—Judge Frank E. Reader disclosed today he has under consideration the case of John Oriol, whose absence from jail the day before the recent primary has precipitated a maze of charges and counter charges in Beaver County.

Oriol is serving a term of from 2 to 10 years in the county jail for arson.

The reports being sifted by Judge Reader are that Oriol made a campaign speech for Republican candidates in his home town of Ambridge and returned to jail election day.

Oriol was committed to jail after pleading guilty to setting fire to his store. He was made a trusty.

Judge Reader said he would make no formal statement or take any formal action in the case until he learns the facts.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 1.—(AP.)—Mayor William McNair, of Pittsburgh, stumped Hudson and Essex Counties yesterday in behalf of Charles H. Ingeroll's gubernatorial campaign.

The Pittsburgh Mayor said his reason for espousing Ingersoll is that "adoption of the Pittsburgh tax plan is the cornerstone of Mr. Ingersoll's plenty-for-everybody program."

Mayor McNair said:

"The Pittsburgh plan will promptly increase real estate values in New Jersey, encouraging construction of new homes and other buildings. It will keep land prices within reach of prospective users. This means increased employment and buying power so that trade can return to normal and emergency relief will no longer be necessary."

Attacking New Jersey's taxation on personal property, such as merchandise, Mayor McNair said, it "handicaps labor and capital."

Co-eds Take First Honors In Pitt Pharmacy Class

Outnumbered, 6 to 1, Girl Students Walk Off With Prizes

Dr. C. Leonard O'Connell, dean of the University of Pittsburgh School of Pharmacy, has reason today to wonder if men pharmacy students are losing their grip.

An official graduating list has revealed that coeds, who represent about one-sixth of the class roll, will walk away with almost all the honors.

It is the first time, Dr. O'Connell says, that the men have been so overwhelming vanquished.

Highest honor goes to Mrs. C. Blanche Porembski, high honor to Miss Claire Frick and honor mentions to Miss Rosella Lois Corsello and to Miss Inez Winifred Henderson.

Only the good work of Morley Ellsworth Itscoitz, who captured an honor rating, saved the men from a complete rout.

In addition, Mrs. Porembski, who commuted to Pitt from Youngstown, O., will receive the J. H. Beal scholarship, the Lehn and Fink gold medal, the faculty gold prize, and the pharmacy prize of a life membership in the National Association of Drug Clerks.

Miss Corsello also won the Mendelson prize of a membership in the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association and the Materia Medica prize of a life membership in the National Association of Druk Clerks.

All of the girls will have jobs as pharmacists if they pass their state board examinations after graduation next week.

CHILD MOTHER GETS PAROLE

A 15-year-old unmarried mother, charged with attempting to murder her nameless baby, was released in custody of her parents today after Warden John McNeil protested she was too young to be kept in Allegheny County Jail.

The girl, whose name is withheld by the Sun-Telegraph because of her age, was committed to jail Tuesday after a social service worker charged she had thrown her baby in a creek near Logan's Ferry.

On motion of Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, Judge W. Heber Dithrich ordered the girl sent to her parents, in Logan's Ferry.

DROUGHT AREA TO GET RAIN

KANSAS CITY, June 1.—(AP.)—Middlewestern farmers ripped another sheet off the calendar today and hoped that June would bring an end to a drought described by the weather bureau as "unprecedented."

Their hopes were buoyed somewhat by forecasts of probable thunder showers, cooler weather and unsettled conditions in the Mississippi Valley. The showers, however, were not expected to bring anything but slight relief from high temperatures.

Temperatures of 103 degrees were common in Kansas and Missouri yesterday. Inwood, Ia., topped the day's record with 111 degrees and Aberdeen, N. D., was not far behind with 110. At Freeport, Ill., the mercury shot up to 106, and at Minneapolis to 106.3. Schools at those two cities and at Des Moines and Keoukuk, Ia., were dismissed.

Prison Fugitive Slain Near Chicago

CHICAGO, June 1. — (AP.) — Clarance Hagerty, alias Clarence Harvey and Harry Jacobs, an escaped convict from Minnesota, was found shot to death at a rural roadside near Oak Forest.

Police found a charred bundle of clothing, wrapped in an automobile floor mat that had been soaked in gasoline and set aflame. The officers were certain he had been shot elsewhere and an attempt made to destroy the evidence.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

If the public wants to see the famed landscaping and flowers of Sewickley Heights estates this year, it will have to be contented to see it from the roadside.

For there'll be no "open house" gardens this year as in the past several years, for the severe winter and cold spring have worked havoc with gardens. And the committee in charge of the garden pilgrimages, held for the benefit of the Allegheny General Hospital's social service work, felt that the gardens aren't up to exhibition standard this year.

Visit Gardens Despite Rain

And many garden lovers will be deeply disappointed. Many went to Sewickley for the garden days, making in the course of the spring and early summer season, a tour of all the gardens open each week-end.

And even on one day when it poured, the gardens attracted several score of visitors—much to the astonishment of the committee. Protected by umbrellas and rain coats and galoshes these faithful garden lovers made the rounds.

Margaret Jane Meanor Graduates From Erskine

Margaret Jane Meanor, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Craig Meanor, of West drive, Sewickley, will be graduated today from Erskine, a junior college for girls in Boston.

* * *

Pittsburgh and Sewickley and other towns round about will be well represented at Smith College commencement June 18.

Among them will be Margaret Hamilton, daughter of the Charles Lee Hamiltons.

Hanns and Hills To Be Honored

Honoring the George R. Hanns and the Jerome Hills, who were married recently, Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr., of Sewickley Heights, will entertain tomorrow night with a dinner.

The Hanns were married in January in St. Louis, and the Jerome Hills April 10 in New York. The Hanns are living in Sewickley Heights, and the Hills plan to build a house there on a site known as Sally Valley, named for Mr. Hill's sister.

Pitt Dinner Is Set for Tomorrow

Mrs. John G. Bowman, wife of the University of Pittsburgh's chancellor, and Miss Thyrsa W. Amos, dean of women, will receive between 5 and 6 o'clock in the lounge prior to the Pitt Alumnae's annual sunset dinner tomorrow in the University Club.

The hospitality committee includes Miss Eloise R. Rombard, Mrs. Dorothy Stewart Nicklas, Mrs. Olive Wilt Mahoney, Mrs. Anne Schaab Robb, Miss Adelaide Hunter, Miss Rose Demestichas, Miss Ruth Matteson, Miss Margaret Morrow, Mrs. Helena Flinn Ege, Mrs. Margaret Meals Ewart, Miss Anna Louise Semmelrock, Mrs. Harold F. Latham, Miss Eleanor Webster, Miss Sara Drum, Miss Helen Koenig, Miss Dorothy Koch, Mrs. Mary Thompson Denman, Mrs. Anne Nathanson Olbum and Mrs. Mabel DeForest Angelo.

New Girls' Club Arranges for Benefit

At a meeting in the William Penn Hotel Wednesday evening arrangements were made for a benefit card party to be held June 7 in the Keystone Athletic Club for the newly organized Girls' Club of De Paul Institute for the Deaf, Brookline.

Miss Mary Gildea is general chairman for the benefit, assisted by Mrs. Harold Ochs, Miss M. Grace Kelly, Miss Cecelia Boslett, Miss Margaret Rafferty and Miss Mary Kelly. Mrs. P. J. McArdle is patroness chairman and Miss Mary Schneider is chairman of prizes.

Anniversary To Be Marked

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thoma, of Main street, East End, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary tonight in their home with a bridge and "500" party for 35 guests.

Omega Alpha Dance Arranged

Juniors Plan To Honor Officers

An excellent program has been arranged for the occasion. Greetings will be extended by Mrs. David Wise, senior adviser to the juniors; Miss Frances Goldberg, retiring chairman of the board of the juniors; and Miss Florence Miller, newly-elected president of the hostess organization.

Rabbi Henry Goldberger, of New Kensington, is to be the speaker, and a musical program will be presented by Miss Suzanne Seiger, soprano; Joseph Mariano, flutist, and Mrs. Julia Katz Golomb, accompanist.

The committee includes Miss Sally Harris, general chairman; Miss Jeanne Levinson, Miss Minnie Katzeff, Miss Goldie Katz, Miss Gertrude Holtzman, Mrs. Harry Liptz and Miss Elsie Rosenbaum, chairman of hostesses.

Alpha Epsilon Phi Senior Day Set For Sunday

Alpha Epsilon Phi, national women's social fraternity of the University of Pittsburgh, will hold its annual senior day on Sunday afternoon in the form of a luncheon and pageant honoring the graduating active members and brides of the past year.

The affair will take place in the lounge of Hotel Webster Hall from 1 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Miss Georgian Broida is in charge of arrangements, assisted by Miss Phyllis Blumenfeld and Miss Harriet Rosenberg. Miss Helene Green is chairman of the program assisted by Miss Ruth Anderson and Miss Gertrude Schein.

As a traditional custom the active and alumnae members of Alpha Epsilon Phi hold their annual spring formal on the Monday preceding graduation. This year the affair will be held at the Westmoreland Country Club from 8:30 to 1:30 o'clock. It will be in the form of a dinner dance. Miss Sylvia Lauter is chairman of the affair, assisted by Miss Georgian Broida.

Homewood Programs Listed

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

From President's Day, which is announced for October 1 and which will open the season, to the annual luncheon closing it on May 27, the Homewood Women's Club will find many worthwhile programs, according to the new year book. On Federation Day in October, Mrs. Oliver J. Haller, president of the Congress of Clubs, will be the speaker and there will also be the annual ingathering for the Needlework Guild that day.

A visit to the International Art Exhibit, together with a luncheon, is slated for early November and a talk by Dr. H. G. Schleiter, of Falk Clinic, later in the month. A Christmas tea for members and the usual Christmas party for the children of the community are December's events, January brings a talk by John H. Adams, principal of Perry High School, and a musicale by Mrs. Arthur B.Siviter. Mr. Adam's subject is to be "The School's Response to the Challenge of the Changing World."

Elections and a sale for the Workshop for the Blind are February's events. A talk by Mrs. Harry Smith, of the National Better Magazines Council and one on "The Romance of China and Glass," by Charles L. Reizenstein are listed for March. Mr. Reizenstein is to speak at an evening meeting at which the junior members will be guests.

A Y. M. C. A. program under the Direction of James H. Dale, of the Homewood-Brushton "Y", will be heard in April and a visit to Westinghouse High School, will be made that month, the students giving a program.

May 13 is the date for the annual business meeting.

Orphans' Home Garden Party Tomorrow

The board of managers of the United Presbyterian Orphan's Home, Valencia, will hold a reception and garden party in connection with the annual donation day tomorrow afternoon.

The home, which occupies the former summer home of Mrs. William S. Flower and the late Dr. Flower, is unique among such institutions in that it operates a large farm, raises its own fruit, vegetables, chickens and pigs and maintains a large herd of cows.

Mrs. Lucy Spencer To Entertain Pen Women

Mrs. Lucy Spencer will entertain the League of American Pen Women with a garden party and musicale at the home of her mother, Mrs. Phineas Buchbinder, South Linden avenue, on Tuesday afternoon. Another daughter of Mrs. Buchbinder, Mrs. M. C. Rinehart, of New York City, will be guest of honor and will contribute vocal solos to the program.

Also on the program will be Mrs. Marjorie Evans Stewart, soprano, who will be accompanied by Eleanor Moran Lally; Mrs. Edward Lenchner, who will offer piano solos, and Mrs. Stewart McFarland, who will read.

THROUGH THE SPYGLASS

-:- Viewing the New -:-

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

* * *

Enter June . . . crowned with roses and plenty of selling events that are going to save little you and us puh-lenty of our ducats! For the last day or two we have pressed our noses against sundry window panes around the town . . . poked our head into several stock rooms . . . and emerged with "the dope!"

The first hot item being the news of the lingerie sale that is taking place in one of the stores. With all hand-made pieces (every conceivable kind with the exception of pajamas) going-going - gone for $2.00 apiece instead of thier former sums of $2.95 and $3.95. And these, we'll have you know, are taken direct from stock . . . not bought in job lots. Satins and pure-dye crepes . . . all sizes.

* * *

Of course, we've told you a thing or two concerning beach items . . . but never (we're sure) anything quite like this before!

Beach sets . . . great boxes of items for beautifying you in your beachifying! A large box of tawny face powder . . . a can of talcum . . . bottle of suntan oil . . . and a jar of cream—all for $1.00 (and it's usually $1.85).

* * *

Every so often we hear something about some new nail polish that sends our blood pressure up . . . and then we begin to babble on about it—as now.

For it is not often that brainstorms like the present one hit nail polish manufacturers . . . the reason for this low being the discontinuance of the present package. And hence, the polish (it's perfumed) and remover are being offered for only 19c. (Formerly 50c).

* * *

Up until recently we were thinking about calling our clothes closet "the black hole of Calcutta" . . . but with the advent of these new wardrobe bags—light, airy, fresh, dustproof—we have reversed the opinion!

Because . . . you, as housewives all, know there's nothing like storing your erstwhile winter clothes in wardrobe bags to keep them from the maw of the moth! Because . . . you realize that summer things keep twice as fresh and dainty if protected by an overcoat of dust-proofness! And because . . . with 60-inch (nice and long) wardrobe bags appearing just now for 98c, including 8 hangers (wooden) . . . you just can't afford NOT to get them. They're glazed chintz . . . or ticking . . . all tape bound . . . and they used to be $1.40—so you see how you're saving!

* * *

News for the men . . . for the boys going away on a camping trip . . . even for us girls! You've heard of the razor that comes with an electric light perched in the handle! That makes shaving a minor accident—not a major operation! . . . this very razor is being priced at 50c for a short time. Because how there are but a few of them left to go! Being as how the store is discontinuing them. They used to be $1 (batteries for the light are 10c apiece when your original one burns out).

* * *

When the word goes out that slips are priced at $1.00 . . . then they're not slips any longer—they're one of the wonders of the world! Slips that have shadow panels (not little skimpy ones that don't do anyone much good either!) . . . that are made of French radium in tearose shades . . . with PLENTY of white, of course. In sizes that give longsters and shortsters an ample range—32 to 44. And if anything should start you bolting townwards, this should!

—DOROTHYRANDALL.

TAILORED CLOTHES WITH A SOFT TOUCH

Right center, a particularly practical frock which sports the lingerie touch. It is of striped, wiggly crepe in brown with interesting shoulder details and a modified monk's collar of white organza, plus big organza cuffs. The belt and the tie are made of self-material cording, finished with tips of white metal. The skirt is set a bit high on the bodice front—always a help in fitting ready-to-wear models.

Left, triple sheer in a osy beige bodice and jacket, set off by the same material in a skirt of darker tint. Above right, navy and canary suit with a jacket of the two shades in a flashing plaid. The Gringo hat is yellow grosgrain.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

NO MATTER WHAT festivities are afoot, an afternoon frock or suit is useful. One can find models so easily these days which have a lot of practical value while being quite decorative enough for the late cup of tea or even the restaurant dinner snatched before the theater.

The three models sketched above have been chosen to demonstrate this comfortable way to smartness. Even a visit to the aquarium would not be unsuitable for any of them, and on the other hand, they would hold their own on the avenue or the country club veranda. They also offer suggestions to the woman who is indulging in a class reunion—a festivity which is rife in the land this month—for they are neither stodgy nor extravagant.

Confederate Memorial Will Be Unveiled Tomorrow

Mrs. John P. Cowan, of Alexandria, Va., former president of Pittsburgh Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will make the formal presentation to the city of the Confederate memorial monument in West Park, North Side, tomorrow and her little daughter, Anne Louise Cowan, will unveil it. As part of the ceremonies Mary Van Kirk Tonkin (a relative of Gen. John H. Morgan, whose soldiers were imprisoned in the old Western Penitentiary on the site on which the monument stands) will place a wreath on it.

The Rev. John Ray Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian Church, will offer the invocation and the Rev. Dr. Boyd Edwards, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, will pronounce the benediction. Addresses are to be made by Gregg L. Neel, secretary of the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society, and Mrs. William E. R. Bryne, of Charlestown W. Va., past president of the national U. D. C.

American Legion buglers will have part in the program as will Nancy Bullock Metcalfe and Martha Giles, who are to serve as color bearers.

Mrs. H. P. Lane, of Philadelphia, daughter of one of the Morgan's officers, will be here to attend the unveiling. Other out-of-town visitors will include Mrs R. M. Tomason and Mrs. Severn Nottingham, of Clarksburg, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Cowan and their daughter, Anne Louise; Mrs. C. L. Reed, of Huntington, W. Va., president of the West Virginia division, U. D. C.; Mrs. Anne E. Howell, of Washington, and Mrs. Robert E. Lee Blackwood, of Youngstown, O.

The visitors will be honor guests at a luncheon in the Pittsburgh Country Club, preceding the ceremonies in West Park and at an informal reception that evening in the home of the Pittsburgh Chapter's president, Mrs. Arch Clement Perry, Aylesboro avenue.

Alumni Dance Set For Monday Night

The senior class of St. John the Baptist High School will be host to the alumni at the annual alumni dance, to be held at the Morrowfield Hotel Monday evening.

The chairman of the general committee is Miss Helen Reilly; her aides are Miss Rita Berner, Miss Gaynell Barrett, Miss Mary Louise White, Miss Frances Farrell and Miss Dorothy McIntyre.

The chaperons for the evening are Miss Helen Maloney, Miss Winifred O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. John Coyne, Louis Hauck, Peter Berner, Carl Lind and Raymond Kennedy.

Beth Shalom Dance Set for Monday

Miss Pancer

Miss Frances Pancer is chairman for the dance which the Junior Beth Shalom Sisternood is to have at the Willows, Oakmont, on Monday night. Reservations are being taken by Miss Anne Wanetik.

John L. Taylor Gets Degree at Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz., June 1.—John Lloyd Taylor, of Pittsburgh, was among those students who received degrees from the University of Arizona at the regular commencement exercises Wednesday. Commencement exercises were held in the evening at the Women's Athletic Field of the University.

Mr. Taylor received the degree of bachelor of arts in education. His major subject has been history.

South Hills Club To Fete Presidents

The South Hills College Club's luncheon and bridge at the St. Clair Country Club tomorrow will honor two presidents, the retiring head, Mrs. T. C. Cheeseman, and her successor, Mrs. G. Reed Schreiner. This is the first event under the direction of the new social committee, headed by Mrs. H. A. Bowman.

Burroughs P. T. A. Elects Officers

The newley-elected officers of the John Burroughs Parent-Teacher Association are: Mrs. Robert Hofmann, president; Mrs. William Haskins, vice president; Mrs. C. Biggs, secretary, and Mrs. Fred Shaffer, treasurer. They will be installed at the June meeting.

Homewood Juniors To Hear Mrs. Steim

Cards will follow the dinner to be given Monday night as the season's closing event for the Homewood Junior Women's Club. Mrs. Joseph M. Steim, chairman of juniors in the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, is to be honor guest and speaker.

BLIND PENSIONS IN EFFECT

HARRISBURG, June 1.—(AP.)—Machinery set up by the General Assembly to disburse pensions to the state's blind population begins moving today.

The legislation was made effective June 1, and $1,250,000 is available for distribution this month.

Applications are to be made to county boards of the Mothers' Assistance Fund, of the counties in which the prospective pensioners reside.

To receive a pension—the law sets the maximum of $30 a month—a blind person must be at least 21, have lived in the state for 10 years and must not be an inmate of any prison, insane asylum or other public reform or correctional institution.

An applicant also must lack sufficient means and the opportunity of self-support, and have less than three-sixtieths of normal vision.

NURSES' CLASS GRADUATES

Commencement exercises for the nurses' graduating class of Allegheny General Hospital were held last night in the First United Presbyterian Church, Union avenue, North Side. Gordon Fisher, president of the Spang-Chalfant Company, presided and presented the diplomas. Cass Ward Whitney sang.

The Rev. Dr. Bernard C. Clausen, of the First Baptist Church, delivered the commencement address. Miss Lottie A. Darling presented the pins to the graduates. Highest honors went to Miss Mary Elizabeth Rendulic, of McKeesport; Miss Wilma Lydia Gall, North Braddock; Miss Charlotte Amelia Spark, Cleveland, O., and Miss Mildred Vivienne Lucka, of Youngstown, Pa.

Junior Leagues Will Stay Out Of Politics

TORONTO, June 1.—(AP.)—The Association of Junior Leagues of America, in annual conference yesterday, voted to stay out of politics.

A motion to support national and social legislation encountered strong opposition from several speakers and lost when put to a vote.

It was decided to hold two Junior League conferences next year. One will be in Minneapolis in October, dealing solely with social problems and their treatment.

In the spring the usual association conference will be held. The following year there will be a children's theater conference.

Cathedral Benefit Set for Monday

As a benefit for the French room in the Cathedral of Learning, Le Foyer Francais will give a playlet in the Frick Training School on Monday evening. Mme. Raoul Mayer, a member of the organization, has adapted the playlet from an old French story concerning a family of puppets who unexpectedly win a lottery prize and start a chaotic celebration with their stage friends.

Scout Program Is Arranged

Parents and friends of Girl Scout Troop 101 have been invited to attend an entertainment this evening in the Beechwood School auditorium.

The program consists of a short play entitled "A Night at Camp." Dramatizations of different phases of camp life are to be given by the patrols and movies of Camp Redwing activities taken last summer are to be shown.

Besides the parents, honor guests of the evening are to be Girl Scout Troop 285, Boy Scout Troop 213 and the hostess troop committee.

PLATE SHUNNED BY WORSHIPERS

LONDON, June 1. — (AP.) — Church leaders are complaining that congregations are "dodging" the collection plates.

Persons attending the St. John Passion of Bach at St. George's in Hanover-Square drove up in swanky motor cars, but the largest coin left in the plates was a half-crown (62 cents), Dr. C. E. Jolley, organist, said:

"The people who came must have been intellectual to appreciate Bach, but they were so intellectual that the collection totaled only £9 10s ($47.50)."

Prudence Penny's Recipes

Have you ever wanted to serve a fruit salad all gay and cheerful with sections of orange decorating it? And have you wished you could arrange it ahead of time to avoid a last-minute rush? Then call on your friend gelatin for help.

Say you are going to have an orange and grapefruit salad. Then first of all, make up a solution of lemon gelatin, using half a package of lemon-flavored gelatin to one cup of water. Peel the fruit and cut the sections out carefully, removing all the membrane. While you are doing this, put part of your lemon gelatin in the refrigerator to chill a little. When it is beginning to thicken, pour a little into your molds and arrange the orange and grapefruit sections in it so as to make fancy designs. The cool gelatin will hold the sections firmly in place. When the salads are all arranged pour the warmer gelatin around them and put them away to chill and set. When serving, decorate with mayonnaise or boiled salad dressing and shredded almonds.

OUT OF THE MOLDS

If you have any trouble getting gelatin out of the molds, here are a few tips for you. First of all, heat applied to the outside of the mold will loosen the adhesion between the gelatin and the mold The object is to melt the tiny thin film, the first layer, that holds the two together, without melting any more. So dip the mold's sides swiftly in and out of hot water, wipe it off and slip the gelatin out. Of you can wring a towel out of hot water and hold this around the mold for a second. Always err on the side of too little heat, for it is easier to add than to take it away.

Because they really are cold and because they are so pretty, gelatin salads and desserts are always favorites in the summer and it seems to me that they are even more attractive than they used to be, because the manufacturers of

PARK IN FLORIDA WINS APPROVAL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Presidential approval of an act of Congress to provide for the establishment of the Everglades National Park in the state of Florida was announced by the White House today.

The President has also approved an act to shorten the length of duty in the tropics and certain foreign stations for officers and enlisted men of the military services.

The act provides that the length of duty in tropical stations shall be reduced from three to two years. It was increased some time time ago to three years as an economy measure, but the military services found that the extra year had a detrimental effect upon the physical and mental condition of the men forced to remain in the tropics for that period.

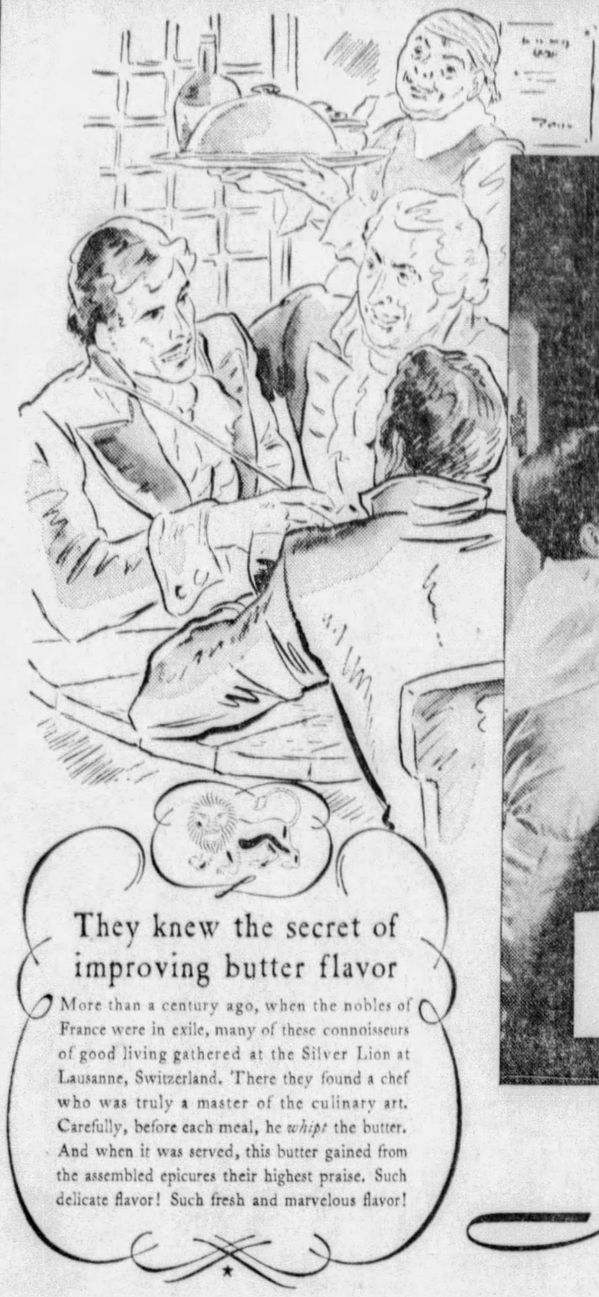
Butler's for better groceries



They knew the secret of improving butter flavor

More than a century ago, when the nobles of France were in exile, many of these connoisseurs of good living gathered at the Silver Lion at Lausanne, Switzerland. There they found a chef who was truly a master of the culinary art. Carefully, before each meal, he whipt the butter. And when it was served, this butter gained from the assembled epicures their highest praise. Such delicate flavor! Such fresh and marvelous flavor!

It's yours!

The epicures' secret of INSTANT and FINER BUTTER FLAVOR!

● Join the thousands of Pittsburgh families who, in one short week, have discovered the true and delicious flavor of butter.

Taste this new butter—Chiffon Butter, created by Kraft. The instant it touches your tongue you realize that you never really tasted butter before. You enjoy all the delicate flavor of freshly-churned creamery butter, and enjoy it instantly.

Notice this new butter's unusual creamy color and texture. See how easily it spreads, how easily and quickly it creams. Such texture and such delicious flavor have a reason: this butter is different. In the past, a few skillful chefs whipt butter for their patrons; but not until the great resources of the Kraft organization were put to work on the problem was this superior butter made available to the public.

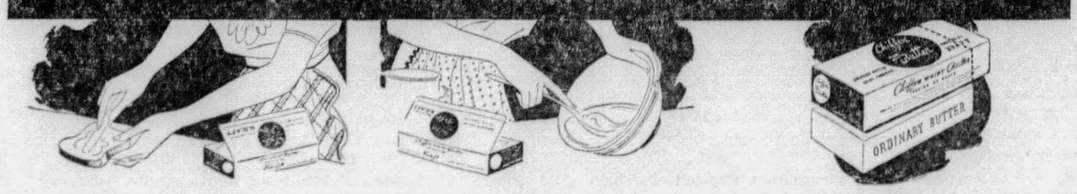
Starting with the finest selected and pasteurized cream, the great Kraft creameries add to the customary churning operation a further step—scientifically developed by Kraft dairy experts. In this additional operation the butter is carefully whipt. Its flavor and aroma elements are distributed more completely and uniformly through every bit of the butter. They are instantly released when the butter reaches the taste buds on the tongue.

Now it is yours to enjoy—the epicurean secret of true and instant butter flavor. Get a pound . . . two pounds . . . of Chiffon Butter today and give your family their first real taste of butter!

Chiffon WHIPT PURE Butter

CREATED BY KRAFT

SPREADS EASIER — CREAMS MORE QUICKLY — ECONOMICAL



● Chiffon Butter spreads more easily, more smoothly, than ordinary butter—yet keeps its form in warm weather. Easy to make sandwiches with this delicious butter

● Chiffon Butter creams in much less time and much more easily than ordinary butter. Saves time and work in making sauces and cakes. And the Chiffon Butter flavor makes all good foods taste better

● Chiffon Butter is economical, as you will appreciate when you see the big Chiffon package—nearly a third larger than the usual half pound of butter—because this butter is whipt

Numerous Mineral Salts Contained in Prunes

Vitamins Found in Prunes Protect the Body from Infection and Disease; Expectant and Nursing Mothers Should Add Prunes to Diet.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

For generations people believed a spring tonic provided the body with sufficient iron to take care of its needs for the year. Today, with our increased knowledge of nutrition, we know that the diet requires iron all through the year.

An excellent source of iron is the prune, which is a dried plum. There are many varieties of the plum, but only a few types are used for drying. These are dried without fermenting and without removing the pit.

California is the largest producer of dried prunes in the United States. The French type of prune grown in California is sweet and heavy and has a glossy, bright skin. Its meaty flesh clings to the pit. Oregon and Washington supply the Italian type. It differs from the French prune in that its flesh separates easily from the pit, is more tart in flavor, and is of the larger size.

VITAMINS A, B AND G

In addition to iron, this fruit contains vitamins A, B and G. The value of vitamins in the diet cannot be over-estimated. They provide the body with protection against infection and disease, and aid in normal development.

Vitamin A is essential for the maintenance of good health. It develops physical vigor. It aids in resisting colds and infections.

Vitamin B is also concerned with growth and protection against infection. It aids the digestive organs in properly digesting food, and stimulating the appetite. Expectant mothers and nursing mothers require foods which contain this vitamin. It is believed that nervous disorders develop in individuals whose diet is entirely lacking in vitamin B.

Intensive work is still being conducted on vitamin G, which is found in fair amounts in prunes. This vitamin is concerned with growth, good appetite and the welfare of the gastro-intestinal tract. As is true of vitamin A, its deficiency in the diet may not be noticed for some time.

STIMULATES BODY CELLS

The minerals found in prunes are iron, lime and phosphorus. Iron is found in greatest abundance. This valuable substance is an oxygen carrier. It stimulates the body cells, aids in the maintenance of proper muscle tone and has a great part to play in the formation of hemoglobin in the blood.

Lime, phosphorus and copper are also found in small amounts. These mineral salts are needed for the proper development of bone and teeth. They aid in the prevention of tooth decay. They are essential to the development of new cells. They keep the blood in normal condition and are important agents in the welfare of other structures of the body.

The value of the prune is now fully recognized. It supplies necessary food substances for the young and old. It should have an important place in the diet, and may be served in a variety of ways. Its fine flavor stimulates the appetite and its use aids in the digestion of other foods.

SQUIRREL SLAIN ON RAMPAGE

OMAHA, Neb., June 1.—(AP.)—With the temperature ascending toward the century mark, a squirrel went berserk, attacked a woman and several pet rabbits, and for 30 minutes eluded a group of 35 men and boys before it was killed with five rifle shots and clubs.

The squirrel yesterday started on the rampage when it dropped from a tree and attacked rabbits in E. A. Backlund's yard. Backlund chased away the animal with a club.

Later the squirrel ran down a tree and, leaping on Miss Mabel Nelson, 32, bit her leg and clung to the flesh as she ran screaming for help. It fled only when three men went to her aid.

Cornered in a tree by police and other pursuers, the squirrel was tumbled to the ground by rifle fire and killed with clubs. Police surgeons treated Miss Nelson and kept her under observation for traces of rabies infection.

LIFE, 37 YEARS FOR KIDNAPING

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—(AP.)—The kidnapers of William F. Gettle, Beverly Hills oil millionaire, today were under sentences which will keep them in prison as long as they live—with no hope of pardon or parole.

Already sentenced to life terms upon their pleas of guilty to abducting Gettle, James F. Kirk, Larry Kerrigan and Roy A. Williams were convicted of federal charges of trying to use the mails for extortion and were sentenced to imprisonment of 37 years each.

California law forbids any leniency to a convict who is under sentence for another felony.

Convicted with the men were two women accomplices, Loretta Woody and Mona Gallighen. The women, who were not tried on kidnaping charges, will be sentenced on the extortion charges.

GUNMAN GETS STIFF TERM

Pleading guilty to a holdup which netted him $40 for a few short minutes, Edward Regan, 30, of 311 Sandusky street, was sentenced to seven and a half to 15 years in Western Penitentiary today.

The stiff term was meted out by Judge Heber Dithrich in Criminal Court, after it was brought out that Regan was on probation from another larceny charge at the time of the holdup, May 24.

Regan admitted he held up four men at pistol point in Cramer's clothing store, 509 East Ohio street, North Side, taking $10 from the cash till and $30, a watch and a ring from the store's manager.

He was captured four blocks from the scene by Patrolman Hugh Fredley, who was off duty when he saw Regan running down the street.

School Exercises Honor McGuffey

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 1.—(AP.)—The commencement program at the East Washington Junior High School yesterday was dedicated to Dr. William Holmes McGuffey, pioneer educator and a native of Washington County.

The exercises, marking the one hundredth anniversary of the educator's birth, included classes in a one-room school in which McGuffey readers were used. The books were lent by Henry Ford.

Girl Friends' Whispers Cause Lovers' Tiffs

Her girl friends are BUTTING IN . . . And so the course of true love is going ga-ga . . . These girls have plenty of imagination, and they get the girl's ear when the boy friend is elsewhere, and what yarns they do spin . . . And now she is all worked up about it. For she fears PUBLIC OPINION.

She will not give him any time by himself, either, for someone else is always HANGING AROUND. And she won't tell them to move on.

Miss Brunot

And now she also has whispered to him that he must not be too attentive, for then her girl friends will be sure to know he likes her . . . and they'll guy her. Dear Miss Brunot:

I am a young man of 20 and I would like advice on a very important question.

I have been going with a girl 17 for about a year. I am very much in love with her. Her girl friends seem to want to break in on us. They tell her stories about me when I am not around which cause a good many of our arguments.

TOO MANY FRIENDS

Another point is that any young man likes a few moments alone with his best girl, but there are always friends around and they come in and out of her house as if they owned it.

She tells me she likes me a lot, but she wants everything on the Q. T. as her friends may razz her.

What can I do?

STUMPED.

It is a pretty how-do-you-do, Stumped, when you can't even get a whispered word with your best girl, and all because there are always listeners . . . You have chosen a girl's girl, I fear, and you will have your troubles. Yet, after all, it is a nice, comfy feeling that she gets along so well with her own sex . . . Be persistent, and I feel sure everything will turn out all right for you.

Perhaps you need to be a little more masterful. It does seem a shame that the girl is so filled with self-consciousness that she can't stand a little bit of razzing. Some girls like to be teased, you know . . . It gives them a feeling of importance to be liked by some one boy.

BACKWARD BEAU

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am one of your many readers, and also among the troubled. My problem is this: About three months ago I met a fellow whose company I now find delightful. We have been together several times since.

I have learned to like him so much that I have invited him to a few parties. He seems to be interested when we are together, in fact he has been very attentive. But that is all.

He has told others he would like to go out with me, but so far I have received not even a hint on the subject from him.

I have been told by all my friends that I have a pleasing personality and a winning smile. But it seems I get nowhere. Mother says everything comes to those who wait, but I have waited what is a century to me. What can I do?

TROUBLED.

I am sure you have a pleasing personality, and nice warm smiles always count toward a girl's popularity. In fact I heard a much-experienced man say recently that he had never known a popular girl who did not possess a pleasing smile.

SHOULD TELL YOU

I quite agree with you that instead of this fellow telling everyone else about how he admires you and likes to be with you, it would be better for him to tell you . . . And yet how sweet a sound these things have when repeated.

I feel sure he likes you, and maybe he is waiting for more encouragement from you. Have you asked him to your house, as well as having invited him to the parties . . . Fellows sometimes form the opinion you ask them to such places merely to have an escort.

Your mother is right, but as you want your beau NOW, you had better try a little more perseveringly to get him.

SHOW APPRECIATION

These days the average girl has to show a willingness for attention, or the young fellows are liable to think she doesn't care for them.

By this I do not mean you must be forward. You needn't PET promiscuously. You do not have to be continually INVITING people to your house. But you must show appreciation for their attentions, or the very best young men will wonder if they are desirable.

You are an attractive, pleasant-appearing girl who also has plenty of good sense. I can tell the latter by the tone of your letter . . . So you need not worry over life and its problems, or over getting a beau, if you but do your part well.

Miss Brunot will be glad to answer letters submitted to her by readers.

FAY KING GIVES A THOUGHT TO THE MARITAL WOES OF DICKENS

IN 1846 MRS. TERNAN, AN ACTRESS BROUGHT HER THREE LITTLE GIRLS, TO THE THEATER TO SEE MACBRADY. HE WAS MOVED TO TEARS BY HER SAD STORY OF POVERTY AND DECIDED TO HELP THEM ALL HE COULD
MRS. CHARLES DICKENS SURVIVED HER HUSBAND NINE YEARS. THEIR SEPARATION IN 1858 WAS A SENSATION OF THAT DAY
GOSSIP WAS TO LINK THE NAME OF DICKENS AND THAT OF ELLEN TERNAN, THE "GIFTED, SWEET CHILD," AS MACBRADY CALLED HER

By FAY KING

Mystery has endured to date regarding the sudden separation of Charles Dickens and his wife, after which they never met.

Gossip at the time named Ellen Ternan, an actress, whom Dickens remembered in his will.

Dickens' last surviving son, who died recently, denied the rumor in Mrs. Whiffen's memoirs that Ellen and her mother were traveling with Dickens at the time of the Staplehton train wreck. Dickens recorded that an older and young woman shared his compartment.

Ternan died in an insane asylum, leaving his wife and children destitute. Macready helped them, and no doubt Dickens and Ellen met through Macready, Dickens' dear friend.

Full Knowledge of the Thymus Gland Is Lacking

Many strange maladies which afflict the human mechanism create problems remaining unsolved. For example, exact knowledge regarding the thymus gland is still lacking. Scientists are daily engaged in experimentation and study which they hope will assist in the treatment and cure of disease of this delicate structure.

Dr. Copeland.

I venture to say that many of my readers are unfamiliar with this gland and perhaps never heard its name. The thymus gland and "Adam's apple." It is believed to be a temporary possession, disappearing later. It weighs less than two ounces at birth and during the following five years gradually decreases in size so that eventually it weighs less than an ounce. In many cases it shrinks and disappears, though as a rule a small portion of it remains throughout life.

Unfortunately, the gland sometimes alters its normal course and many grow so large as to be a serious menace of the life of the child. Enlargement of the thymus gland is sometimes seen in young children. This is associated with a condition called "status lymphaticus," sometimes the gland may be five to ten times its normal size.

The young victim has difficulty in breathing. Such attacks come on after a shock, fall, blow or infection. In a child thus afflicted, a sudden blow may prove fatal. Many formerly unexplained deaths in young infants and children are now known to be due to enlargement of the thymus gland.

The true nature of the trouble can be definitely recognized by X-ray examination. By means of X-ray pictures it is possible to determine accurately whether or not the thymus gland is enlarged. This procedure is of great importance. Effort should be made to determine whether the thymus gland is enlarged in children who show suspected signs of status lymphaticus.

If the X-ray reveals enlargement of the gland adequate measures should be taken to protect the young sufferer from minor injuries, accidents and shocks. Operations, such as removal of enlarged tonsils and adenoids, should not be performed upon a child suffering from thymus enlargement.

In recent years beneficial results have been obtained by special X-ray treatments of enlarged thymus gland. Since the gland ultimately shrinks, the danger only exists while the sufferer is between the ages of one and five years. During this period and until the gland grows smaller, the child should receive special care and nursing.

As our knowledge of the thymus gland increases, it is probable that other mysteries of the human body will be solved and many fatalities prevented. It is equally possible that this puzzling gland may hold the secret of other baffling ailments which are perplexing the ever-working and untiring scientists.

Answers to Health Queries

Anxious Reader. Q.—What precautions should be taken when there is a tubercular patient in the home?

A.—Tableware, glasses and dishes should be kept separate. The rooms should be thoroughly aired and exposed to direct air and sunlight. Towels, linens, etc., should be kept separate. Kissing should be avoided.

«» Hints for the Household «»

If tea towels leave fluff on china, pass them through a solution of weak starch water.

Meat to be steamed should be placed in a basin in a steamer. By this means it retains all its flavor, and if allowed sufficient time will be very tender. Tough fowls cooked for four hours in this way will be found delicious.

Have a bowl of clean boiling water in which to drop your spoons and forks after they have been washed in the ordinary way. By doing this you will find they scarcely ever need cleaning.

Lillian Warns Samuel Brixton

At Lillian's unexpected accusation of Samuel Brixton, and the man's apparently astonished and certainly infuriated reply, I could sit still no longer. Noiselessly I rose to my feet, and with infinite care stole to the door where Hugh was standing.

He put out his hand as I came up to him and grasped mine, evidently in warning. The dim light from the hall showed me that the fingers of the other hand were pressed against his lips, and as I nodded in assenting comprehension to that warning against speech, I gently but decidedly withdrew the hand he had taken. I hated to hurt him if, as I believed, he had not deliberately intended to stand hand in hand with me while we listened to the little drama in the corridor.

But there had been too many occasions of late, far more frequently than in the earlier days of his long and inrequitted devotion to me, when I had been compelled to rebuff these seemingly unconscious clasps of my hand, in season and out.

He did not try to hold my hand against my withdrawal of it, but I knew by the sibilant catch of his breath that he understood my action and was hurt by it. Yet he gave no other sign that he had noticed my gesture, and his manner was conventionally courteous as he stepped a little aside so that I, too, could look into the corridor.

Patently buttons were off the foils between the two combatants. Samuel Brixton, a grotesque figure in gaudy pajamas, with an equally high-colored robe thrown loosely about him and his feet thrust into bedroom slippers, was glaring at Lillian in apparently righteous indignation.

BRIXTON INDIGNANT

"I say, what are you trying to put over on me?" he repeated, and this time his raucous voice rose above a whisper.

Lillian, facing him, her arms akimbo in fish wife fashion, was giving him an equally baleful glare. I knew well enough what had happened. Lillian, usually so poised, so clear reasoning, had permitted memory of her old wrongs, the remembrance of her suspicions of Brixton at the time of the kidnaping, and her general doubt of him, to so becloud her judgment that she was bringing to this contest rashness instead of caution, prejudice instead of reason.

But she was cool and wary enough to keep her voice free from anger. Instead it was a provoking drawl.

"I'm not trying to put anything over on you, Sam-u-el," she said. "It would be useless, with your massive brain, for me to attempt to outwit you. I'm simply curious to know how you put over your little stunt just now. No," as he opened his mouth with a hoarse exclamation, "don't bellow! Remember, Helena has a headache, and mustn't be disturbed."

Her voice was airy, full of mockery as she delivered her warning concerning Helena. Then it changed, became suddenly cold; deadly.

WARNS SAMUEL

"I'm only going to tell you one thing, Sam Braxton," she said. "I don't care how much you prowl around trying to find out things. You're welcome to whatever you can glean. But if you try to act on the knowledge so that your actions hurt Marion in the slighest degree, the Lord, or rather the devil would better help you, for I shan't have any mercy on you.

"Just remember that while you're taking care of Helena's headache. I only hope you slipped her enough sleeping dope so she didn't wake up and get wise to you."

Brixton's hands were closing and unclosing, and the prespiration stood in great beads upon his purpling face.

"You—you—" he was mouthing, but Lillian only laughed lightly, softly, as she turned away.

"So long," she said, "and remember what I told you! but for Helena's sake, we'll pretend we never indulged in this little colloquy. Remember that, also, when we meet at breakfast."

She came back to the nursery door and Samuel Brixton, flinging his arms wide in a gesture of impotent anger, turned back into his room. But his robe had blown away from his pajama clad legs, and I saw his feet, not bare as they would have been had he just arisen from bed, but clad in heavy woolen socks, with garters securely fastening them.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Contribution

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a young lady and gentleman attend church services, and the offering is taken, does the lady put her own money on the plate: does the gentleman take some money from his pocket and let the lady take the amount she wishes; or is it correct for the gentleman to put the offering for both on the plate? W.

The woman makes her own contribution. This contribution is, in the nature of it, such a personal matter that if anyone else makes the contribution it is that person's and not hers.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELEANORE MEHERIN

Kevin Returns as Helena Hovers Near Death

CHAPTER LXXXIV.

Pippin went into her room. She leaned against the door, her mind faint, but a quick, warm clamor in her heart. Kevin was in the house.

He was in her mother's room. She heard him greet Helena in a sweet, gentle way as though he were Helena's son. She had always been dear to him. Kevin used to say: "Chickie was my first love."

Now they were in David's study.

Suddenly Pippin heard Kevin ask: "Pippin is in the house, is she not?"

David went back to Helena's room. She and Kevin were alone.

Her first glance of him was a shock. She had thought him so handsome. His swift, beautiful body winging down the mountains excited her with joy. Now he looked harsh. The bones of his face stood out prominently. And the eyes, that looking into hers had made her ache with love, were now darkly lost and veiled.

He stood there and looked at her. She was very thin, her hair peeled back, her eyes immense. They looked into his with a desperate blue shine. She appeared pitiful to him; small and defeated and terribly afraid.

For moments they held each other with this silent glance.

Then Kevin said: "How are you, Pippin? You are very thin. But David says your mother is better."

"Doesn't she look awful to you, Kevin?"

"She would—naturally. You must expect this. She may seem worse than she is."

Miles Between Them

She could scarcely hear because of the tumult that swept up about her like a sea. He wanted to comfort her. Yet there were miles and bitter, resentful miles between them.

She said with a little tired smile: "I hope you were successful in your work. I hope the trip was pleasant to you."

She surprised a dark, dubious, almost angry look on his face. It was quickly masked.

Kevin said: "The work went well. You must be very lonely here. Shall I bring you some books? What sort of thing would you like?"

"Oh everybody on the world has sent me books. I can't read. I can't think. I'm so afraid!"

He took a step toward her. She felt very faint.

"I don't mind that—not at all. But thinking of what may happen to her."

"Don't you trust your father, Pippin? Don't you feel that he will pull her through?"

"Do you believe in a power like that, Kevin?"

"I don't know. I've seen strange, mysterious things happen. Don't worry any more about Helena. You are in need of rest and a little care yourself."

She blinked and said trembling: "I'm well—I feel so well!"

That was all.

Pippin went back to her room. She closed the door softly and hid her face against it.

KeKvin Distant

She saw him every day. Sometimes they only nodded. Usually he said some kind, reassuring thing . . . Helena seemed stronger; the paralysis might even entirely disappear—you never know.

But he never talked of himself nor asked of her.

Pippin sat at her mother's bed and thought: "I don't care! God, just let Helena live—let her not be helpless! I won't care. I'll never say a word."

One day Pippin's hope altogether fled. Her mother's breath came in short, rapid gasps. The blue mottled look of her paralysed arm deepened. The leg, too, had this disturbing appearance. It, too, was helpless.

But what frightened Pippin most was her mother's struggle for breath.

"Only a slight difficulty. Nothing new."

"But the way she's breathing."

"I think that will pass."

But that night Kevin called. Pippin opened the door for him. He noticed at once that her face was excessively pale. Her eyes were deep purple and filled with anguish.

"She is no worse?"

"Yes."

They came to the door of Chickie's room and paused. Chickie appeared sleeping. David sat at the bed. He was stooped over, his face covered with his hands. Then he raised his head, which was half turned from them. He looked at the ceiling, his lips moving and his eyes full of despair.

Days of Anguish

Pippin moved from the door. She crept down the hall and around the turn. She turned her face against the wall. Her heart turned to water and she wept.

Kevin put an arm about her. He leaned down.

"You are not giving up, Pippin?"

"She is dying!"

"Not at all."

"But all day she breathed like that!"

David came down the hall. He was very quiet, but his shoulders stooped. The mark of teeth showed under his lips. He looked at Pippin and said absently:

"Shouldn't you be in bed? She's easier. Go and sleep."

Days passed and nights of anguish. Pippin wandered about the house like a pale, lost ghost. She couldn't look in her father's face.

He said: "Please go to bed. Take this and get some sleep."

It was noon. Pippin awakened with a wildly shaken heart. She had slept since two o'clock in the morning. She was afraid to open her door, afraid of the forbidding presence which might have entered and claimed the house as she slept.

There came a faint knocking.

She heard her father say: "Pippin."

She crept over. Her hands fumbled on the knob so David opened it.

Chickie Better

"I just wanted to tell you," he said, standing there with the joy trembling on his face. "She is better—really better."

Then he leaned with his back against the door and laughed softly as though he did this to keep from weeping.

Chickie's face was almost transparent but she opened the deep, beautiful eyes and looked at Pippin. She said faintly, all the frightened apprehension gone:

"I feel better."

"She won't be crippled, Dad?"

"It's too soon to say."

But it has been long—so long!"

"A week—ten days more will tell."

Her father seemed not to have thought about it and now not to care. He looked at Pippin and with that odd, sobbing laugh said: "She will not die."

"But if she can not walk or if she never uses her right hand again?"

"But she is here, Pippin. We will have her here."

Pippin kept thinking of this as she sat in the little room off the hall and tried to read. Again and again she found herself recalling the look on her father's face. Something glorious about that. Something deeply stirring. She felt trembling with tears and love.

Quarantine Lifted

The hills are lovely in October with brown and purple shadows moving down and russet patches on the trees.

"You are pale, Pippin."

"Oh—but so glad, mother. You can never know how much you mean!"

"I can move my fingers—see!"

And Pippin said to her father: "Does it mean—" but could not finish the sentence.

He stooped down and smiled but his eyes filled: "I think it does."

"She will walk? She will be all right?"

"Oh I am sure!"

Pippin met Kevin as she went down the stairs. Because her joy was great, she put out her hands and said, happily weeping:

"David says—"

"I know—"

But her eyes were full of tears; they were full of joy and a soft purple fire. He thought they looked with yearning into his.

He swept an arm about her and said, pleading: "I'm so glad—oh sweetheart!"

She stood a moment quiet, her heart splitting. Then she moved from him, a dark, wild reproach in her eyes.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Stepping Out of Character

When an ordinarily modest and unassuming lady steps out of character and bluffs two of the world's ranking players into stopping short of a Grand Slam when they have about 15 or 16 tricks laid down, her adversaries may find it difficult to place the blame, one feeling that the other should have shown greater courage and each thinking that his partner should have displayed greater imagination.

The scene of this story was the experts' room at Crockford's Club, New York. Seated North and South were two prominent master Bridge players, whose championship cups clutter up their apartments, so frequent have been their victories over the greatest in the world of Bridge. Seated East and West were two ladies, more renowned for their charm than for their Bridge-playing skill. While North and South did win, they failed to win by as large a margin as they should have, the reason being the injection into the proceedings of an inhibitory bid which proved a mental hazard too difficult for them to overcome. The hand was:

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

The bidding:

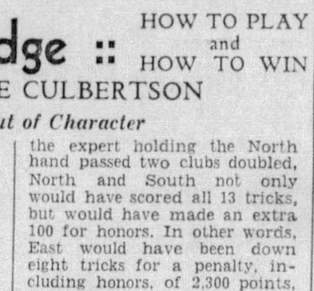
South	West	North	East
1 ♡	1 N T	Double	2 ♣
Double	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 N T	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
4 N T	Pass	6 ◇	Pass
Pass	Pass

After West's inhibitory one-notrump Overcall of South's Opening bid, if East had not rescued, North and South would have taken every trick, and had the expert holding the North hand passed two clubs doubled, North and South not only would have scored all 13 tricks, but would have made an extra 100 for honors. In other words, East would have been down eight tricks for a penalty, including honors, of 2,300 points, the practical equivalent of a Grand Slam.

However, certainly a Grand Slam should have been reached in the subsequent bidding. South, vulnerable, had opened the bidding, and North had a tremendous hand. Even experts are not in the habit of lying about their strength when making bids vulnerable, and had these experts bid their hands correctly, the Grand Slam should have been reached. North erred in never disclosing support for the rebid heart suit, but probably the failure of the partnership to reach the Grand Slam was due chiefly to the fact that they thought they were too expert to use the Four-Five No-trump Convention. Certainly imagination plus mathematics should have been sufficient to assure them that they had all the tricks.

Tomorrow's Hand

North, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

(Mrs. Culbertson will be very glad to answer questions on bridge. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address your question to Josephine Culbertson, in care of the Sun-Telegraph.)

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

By exercising the muscles around the mouth it is possible to make thick lips appear narrower and neater.

Open the mouth, endeavor to bring lips together without closing the jaws. Do a wide smile, then a pucker; repeat. Dip the first finger in massage cream, skip around the outer edges of the lips in little circles.

Some girls are bothered with goose flesh on their pretty legs and that's bad with the bathing season not far away. In every little red point, a hair has turned in, causing a cutaneous disturbance.

Treatment consist of hard scrubbings with soap suds and a bath brush, drying, anointing with coconut oil. When the oil has been well rubbed in, apply borated talcum.

QUESTION:
ARE ALL FOODS ALIKE THAT SEEM ALIKE?
ANSWER:
NO!
QUESTION:
WHY NOT?
ANSWER:
BECAUSE many foods, when actually tested, do not come up to the rigid standards established by the Kroger Food Foundation Testing Laboratory—the only organization of its kind in the World!

SALAD MAKING TO AVOID LATE RUSH

flavored gelatin are using such beautiful tints.

DASH OF COLOR

For instance, have you served an assortment of colorful vegetables molded in a delicately flavored and colored lemon gelatin, such as a Rainbow Salad? You will note that it introduces many of the lovely colors of a rainbow, hence the name.

* * *

RAINBOW SALAD—1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 1 cup hot water, ¼ cup mild vinegar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup celery, cut; ¼ cup shredded cabbage, ¼ cup chopped pimiento, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper.

Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve in boiling water. Add vinegar, lemon juice and salt, and when it thickens to the consistency of an unbeaten egg white, add the vegetables, cut in small pieces. Turn into molds and chill. Garnish with ripe olives or little cream cheese eggs colored with blue vegetable coloring. The latter lends a blue note to complete the rainbow color scheme.

Another recipe that makes the eaters smile is made by simmering a pint of tomato juice with a stalk of celery, a slice of onion, a slice of green pepper and salt and pepper to taste. Strain and measure. Meanwhile soak one envelope of gelatin in one-half cup of water. Then dissolve the gelatin in the tomato juice (adding water if necessary to make

NEED OF USING INDIVIDUALITY STRESSED IN COOKING

Eggs a la King Show How to Vary Appeal Of Standard Dish

Individuality in cooking, that's what Prudence Penny has been stressing these many months. There are so many ways, differing in small, yet essential points, to prepare the same dish and vary its appeal.

Since one of the letters in her daily mail pile deals with just this point, Prudence Penny is turning over her column to the pertinent comments of Mrs. Adelheide Klein, a prize winner, who writes:

"Eggs—How important they are to every cook. They are served in millions of homes every morning for breakfast, either boiled, fried, shirred, poached, coddled, creamed, scrambled, or as omelets.

"You can put much of your own individuality into cooking eggs. Take scrambled eggs for example. Let 10 cooks prepare them and each one will give you scrambled eggs that look and taste different from the others."

You've found the same true of other foods. Don't be miserly with these specialties of yours. Send them in to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. To the best recipes received she awards prizes of $5 and $1 every day. No recipes are returned.

FILLET OF SOLE WITH STUFFED TOMATOES

Serves Six Persons.

Six strips of fillet of sole.
Six medium sized tomatoes.
Three-fourths cup dried bread crumbs.
Three tablespoons butter (heaping).
One tablespoon chopped parsley.

Let fish lie in ice cold water one-half hour, drain and squeeze over it a little lemon juice. Season with salt and a dash of white pepper. Scoop out about one-half from the blossom end of the tomato, season with a little salt. Melt the butter, add bread crumbs and chopped parsley and stuff in tomatoes. Wrap each piece of fish around each tomato and hold in place with tooth picks. Butter well a glass baking dish, place wrapped tomatoes about one inch apart. Put one teaspoon butter on each tomato and bake 45 minutes in a 400-degree oven.

Five $1 Prize Winners

MRS. ADELHEIDE KLEIN,
6038 Butler street.

EGGS A LA KING
(With Cream Sauce)

One to two eggs for each person.
One slice of bacon for each person.
One-half tomato for each person or canned tomatoes.
One small onion.
One pint milk.
Grated Parmesan cheese.
Three tablespoons butter.
Worcestershire sauce.
Salt and pepper.

Prepare all ingredients except the eggs, which should not be cooked until you are going to serve the dish. Wash tomatoes and remove stems. If you use fresh tomatoes, cut them in half and use one-half tomato for each dish. Place the tomato halves in a pie pan, cut side up, and sprinkle each with pepper and salt and on top of each place a little dab of butter. Bake in moderate oven 20 minutes. (If you use canned tomatoes, use the solid; you do not have to cook the canned tomatoes.) When the tomatoes have been baking about 13 minutes, add the bacon to the pan and let it bake 7 minutes. Then take from oven and let stand until wanted. Next, cut one small onion into very small pieces and fry in a little butter until golden brown. Let stand until wanted. Then make the cream sauce:

Three tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
One-half teaspoon white pepper.
Two cups milk.
One teaspoon salt.

Melt butter in upper part of double-boiler; add flour and stir until well blended—then pour in milk, salt and pepper and stir constantly until sauce thickens. Cook until the raw starch taste has left the sauce, which will take about two or three minutes after sauce has thickened. Shirr eggs as follows: butter well each shirring dish and break one or two eggs into each shirring dish and place in hot oven. When egg white begins to get white, but not more than half cooked, remove from oven and sprinkle into each dish some of the browned onion, then add one slice of bacon cut in half, add the tomato and over all sprinkle a little Worcestershire sauce. Then pour the cream sauce over each dish and sprinkle well over the top with grated cheese. Now put the dishes under the broiling flame and brown the cheese or return to the hot oven and bake for a few minutes to brown the cheese. This perfect luncheon or supper dish you should serve hot. Serves four.

EILEEN MYLER,
310 Larimer avenue, Turtle Creek

CHOCOLATE SUNDAE PIE

One and one-half cups milk.
One-quarter teaspoon nutmeg.
Three egg yolks.
One-half cup granulated sugar.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One tablespoon gelatin.
Three tablespoons cold water.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.
Three egg whites, beaten stiff.
One cup sweetened whipped cream.
One-quarter cup grated unsweetened chocolate or two tablespoons ground chocolate.

Heat milk in double boiler, add nutmeg. Beat egg yolks with sugar and salt until light. Pour hot milk over egg mixture; return to double boiler and cook until consistency of thick cream. Remove from heat; add gelatin which has been soaking five minutes in cold water, add vanilla. Cool. When cool and ready to set, beat with egg beater and fold in egg whites. Pour mixture into a baked pie shell. Set in refrigerator. When thoroughly cold, cover with sweetened whipped cream and sprinkle top with the grated chocolate.

GEORGETTE FRECH,
334 Fifth avenue, New Kensington.

LEMON CRUMB PUDDING

Two cups scalded milk.
Two cups bread crumbs.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
One-quarter cup sugar.
One egg.
Grated rind of one lemon.
Three tablespoons lemon juice.
One tablespoon melted butter.

Pour milk over fine dry bread crumbs. Add other ingredients. Pour into buttered pudding dish and bake at 275 degrees Fahrenheit. Serve with creamy lemon sauce.

Sauce

One-quarter cup butter.
One-half cup powdered sugar.
Grated rind of one-half lemon.
One tablespoon lemon juice.

Cream butter; add sugar and lemon juice slowly.

ROSE GELDER,
883 Prospect avenue, Charleroi

MUSTARD BOUQUET PICKLES

One quart small white onions, peeled.
Six sweet green peppers, with seeds removed and cut in shreds.
One quart string beans with strings removed.
Two bunches carrots cut in small cubes.
One quart sliced green tomatoes.
Two large cauliflowers with flowerets separated.
One dozen small sour pickles.

Boil all but the pickles separately until tender, but not overdone. Soak in brine overnight (one cup salt to one gallon of water). In the morning, drain and make the following sauce:

One cup flour.
One tablespoon tumeric.
One and one-half cups sugar.
Six level tablespoons dry mustard.
Two quarts cider vinegar.

Scald vinegar and sugar. Add flour, mustard and tumeric mixed and cold water until consistency of cream. Carefully boil, stirring to prevent lumping.

Add all other ingredients and cook until just heated through. Seal in sterilized jars.

NAOMI McDOWELL,
9402 Frankstown road, Wilkinsburg

SHRIMP AND OLIVE CASSEROLE

Three tablespoons fat.
Three tablespoons flour.
Dash of pepper.
One and one-half cups milk.
One-quarter cup melted butter.
Two cups diced, cooker or canned shrimp.
Three-quarters cup sliced stuffed olives.
One cup diced celery.
One cup wholewheat bread crumbs.

First, put away eight whole shrimp to use as a garnish. Make a medium white sauce as follows: Melt the three tablespoons fat in the top of a double boiler. Remove from heat; add the flour and pepper. (No salt is used in the sauce because of the olives.) Stir until well blended. Add the milk, and cook until thick over boiling water, stirring constantly. Cover and cook for ten minutes. Then add the diced shrimp, from which the black vein running down the back of each has been removed, and the sliced olives; mix and heat thoroughly. Arrange hot shrimp mixture and diced raw celery in alternate layers in a greased casserole, placing the whole shrimp on top. Sprinkle with the bread crumbs mixed with the melted butter, and bake in a hot oven of 400 degrees F. for about 15 minutes, or until brown. Serves six to eight.

Donora Youth Named West Point Candidate

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP.)—The War Department had announced today that these candidates have been designated to take the mental examination for the United States Military Academy at West Point:

Mark F. Brennan, Philadelphia; William C. O'Donnel, 110 Ida avenue, Donora, Pa.

G. O. P. to Nominate Congress Candidate

HARRISBURG, June 1.—(AP.)—A Republican candidate for Congress in the Northumberland-Schuylkill District to replace the late Representative George F. Brumm on the ballot will be named by a convention set up by the party committees of the two counties.

Brumm, who died in Philadelphia Tuesday, was nominated for re-election at the recent primary.

Should a girl

THAT was the tragic question lovely Susan Broderick had to answer and her decision forms the final sweeping romantic climax in the most thrilling love story you will ever read—

Girl in the Family
by BEATRICE BURTON

The Brodericks, one of the town's wealthiest families for many generations, faced bankruptcy. Only lovely Susan Broderick's marriage to the leading banker's son could save them • Thus Susan came to the crossroads—should she marry the man she really loved—or remain loyal to her family by marrying the man of their choice.

1¾ cups). Chill and serve as a salad, or break the gelatin up with a fork and serve in place of soup.

* * *

STUFFED PRUNE SALAD—18 large prunes, 2 packages (6 ounces) cream cheese, ¼ cup mayonnaise, ¼ cup nut meats, finely chopped.

Soak prunes over night in just enough cold water to cover. Drain. Remove pits and fill centers with thoroughly blended mixture of cream cheese and mayonnaise. Sprinkle prunes with nuts. Serve on crips lettuce with additional mayonnaise. Serves 6.

VEGETABLE SALAD—2 cups cooked string beans, 2 cups cooked fresh peas, ½ cup cooked lima beans, 1 teaspoon onion (finely chopped. French dressing; ⅓ cup mayonnaise.

Cut string beans lengthwise and then crosswise in ¾-inch pieces. Add peas, lima beans and onion. Then marinate in French dressing 30 minutes in icebox. Drain thoroughly. Add mayonnaise and blend. Serve on crisp lettuce. Servise 8.

* * *

APPLE, CELERY AND TUNA FISH SALAD—1 cup apples, pared and diced, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1½ cups celery, diced, 2 cups tuna fish, flaked, ¾ cup mayonnaise.

Cover apples with lemon juice. Blend apples, celery and tuna fish with mayonnaise. Serve on crisp lettuce. Garnish with additional mayonnaise. Serves 8.

TENT TO COVER BURNED SHRINE

UNION CITY, N. J., June 1.—(AP.)—In the shadow of the fire-wrecked church of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Monastery, laborers worked today to erect a huge tent to supply a place of worship for the parishioners and pilgrims who throng each week to this shrine.

The Rev. Edward Goggin, monastery pastor, announced that the work of rebuilding the church would get under way as soon as possible. The damage was variously estimated at more than $500,000. There was some insurance.

One theory was that the flames were started by an untended blow torch left by tinsmiths repairing the dome.

When the fire was discovered, priests from the monastery dashed through the smoke and flames to save many of the church's most valued possessions, including the Sacrament and a relic of the True Cross.

MOTHER DIES ON VISIT HERE

A few hours after the departure of her husband for their home in Milwaukee, Mrs. Irene Brown Smead died suddenly of a heart attack at the home of her daughter where she had been visiting here.

The husband, George W. Smead, left the home of the daughter, Mrs. D. H. Longsdorf, 117 South Lang avenue, yesterday morning. Mrs. Smead died at 4:30 p. m. yesterday. She had been ill, but was believed to be recovering.

Mrs. Smead was a former resident of Pittsburgh.

Nude Boy's Modesty Leads to Drowning

FORT LOGAN, June 1.—(AP.)—Too modest to permit a young couple to see him naked, 9-year-old Arnold Joseph Parson, of Louisville, Ky., jumped into a water-filled sandpit on the Fort Logan Military Reservation and drowned.

He was wading with several companions yesterday when Sergt. Harry Dale and his wife stopped their car nearby. The lad leaped into water over his head.

Lion Causes Scare Of Haunted House

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 1.—That "haunted house" in Vancouver's East End has been unmasked—it's nothing but a menagerie. Police, investigating reports of something "sinister" about the house, found a caged lion and other beasts. The occupant of the house said casually:

"Oh, I wrestled with the lion."

No Woman Will Mind Being Seen in This Frock

Pattern 1845

House frocks—if they are pretty enough—are very useful in encouraging us to keep our outdoor things fresh and dainty. But to do this they have to be charming affairs in which a woman looks her best—otherwise she succumbs to the temptation to keep on her street things when she comes in—just in case she should have a caller! No woman will regret being "caught" in this frock—in fact it will add to her reputation for always knowing how to dress. The shoulder caps, whether you frill them or not, are as smart as can be and the long front panel graceful and slenderizing.

Pattern 1845 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 takes three yards 36-inch fabric and ⅝ yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

The smartest warm weather fashions, the newest fabrics and the summer season's outstanding accessories are illustrated and described in the NEW PATTERN BOOK. ORDER YOUR COPY OF THIS HELPFUL NEW SUMMER BOOK. PRICE OF BOOK 15 CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, 25 CENTS.

MAIL FLIER CUT LANDING HERE

The plane carried no passengers. Two relief pilots on the ship escaped injury.

GIFT BOUQUETS FOR SHUT-INS

Rain or shine, there will be brightness on June 10 for the thousands of "shut-ins" of the country.

Florists of America have arranged so far to deliver 153,000 gift bouquets on that day to invalids in individual homes and in hospitals throughout the land, it was learned yesterday.

They are prepared to handle many more, as many as 350,000 more requests for bouquets for this year's National Shut-in-Sunshine Day. And the flowers will be the gift of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association and the Postal Telegraph Company.

A year ago the florists inaugurated an annual custom of observing the slogan they so long had urged upon others:

"Say it with flowers."

Bouquets were sent by special messenger to thousands of invalids, and the response was so enthusiastic that this year they prepared to receive requests by hundreds of thousands. Plans were made to reach invalids in smaller cities and towns as well as in the large cities that were covered last year.

Walter Winchell, Broadway columnist of The Daily Mirror, and Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit, singing team, were chosen to announce the day on their radio broadcasts. Both have announced their readiness to receive all requests for bouquets from friends and relatives of invalids.

RENO, Nev., June 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. Doris Fitch Andrews and Mrs. Agnes N. Alexander, New York society matrons, today had won uncontested divorce decrees after private trials here. Both charged extreme cruelty.

3 MEN HURT FIGHTING FIRES

One man was burned seriously and two firemen suffered lacerations in two fires in the Lawrenceville district last night.

William Weiland, Jr., 26, of 28 Winders street, was taken to West Penn Hospital with severe burns after his truck caught fire in front of the Tobin Transfer Company, 2908 Smallman street, where he is employed as a driver. Damage to the truck was $100.

Hosemen John McCall and Joseph D. Donahue, of No. 6 Engine Company, suffered lacerations on the hands while fighting a fire on the roof of the three-story brick dwelling of W. J. Walton, at 266 Forty-sixth street. They were treated on the scene. Damage was estimated at $25.

WRECK BLOCKS RAILS 5 HOURS

Freight and passenger traffic on the Chartiers branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Panhandle Division was tied up for five hours early today after three cars on a Washington-Pittsburgh freight train were derailed east of the Canonsburg station.

Thirty cars were on the derailed train. None of the crew was injured.

France 'Invaded' During Mock War

LORIENT, France, June 1.—(AP.)—The French "red army" made a successful invasion of France today in military games testing the coastal defense. Tanks of the "invaders" were landed from naval vessels in a surprise sortie and rumbled ashore to penetrate as far inland as Brittany.

Gen. Maxime Weygand, inspector-general of the army, served as umpire in the games, which were joint army and navy maneuvers.

BEATING BETTY SWIFT'S TIME ON MONDAYS WAS A HOPELESS RACE FOR HELEN HOLDER UNTIL . . .

OH, I'D SIMPLY LOVE TO, BETTY, BUT YOU KNOW THIS IS MY WASHDAY. I COULDN'T POSSIBLY GET READY IN TIME, AND EVEN SO, I'LL BE TOO TIRED TO STAND UP.
BUT I HATE TO GO SHOPPING ALONE, HELEN! I'LL COME OVER AND HELP YOU WITH YOUR WASH.
YOU'RE A DARLING TO COME, BETTY. BUT IT'S NO USE. I'VE GOT 150 PIECES TO DO AND IT'LL TAKE AN HOUR FOR THEM TO SOAK NOT COUNTING THE RUBBING.
THAT'S JUST WHERE YOU'RE MISTAKEN, YOUNG LADY! I'VE BROUGHT MY SOAP ALONG, AND I'LL SHOW YOU SOMETHING ABOUT FAST WASHING. JUST 15 MINUTES SOAKING DOES THE TRICK WITH MY SOAP!
OH! IT'S ANOTHER GRANULATED SOAP. BUT I ALREADY USE A GRANULATED SOAP. IF THIS WORKS AS FAST AS YOU SAY, IT MUST BE EVEN WORSE ON THE CLOTHES THAN MINE.
NOT A BIT OF IT! THIS NEW OXYDOL IS DIFFERENT FROM ANYTHING YOU'VE EVER HEARD ABOUT. I'VE USED OXYDOL FOR MONTHS AND IT NEVER FADES A THING. AND JUST WAIT AND SEE HOW IT LEAVES YOUR HANDS.
NOW YOU WATCH THE CLOCK. IN 15 MINUTES THESE THINGS WILL BE CLEAN. THERE'S NO HARD RUBBING OR SCRUBBING WITH OXYDOL. IF I'M NOT RIGHT, I'LL BUY YOUR LUNCH.
WELL, I MUST SAY I NEVER SAW SUCH THICK, CREAMY SUDS. SOMETHING OUGHT TO HAPPEN.
TIME'S UP—NOW WHAT DO YOU SAY? EVEN THESE HAND TOWELS ARE CLEAN!
GRACIOUS! I WOULDN'T BELIEVE IT IF I DIDN'T SEE IT WITH MY OWN EYES. WHY, THIS OLD BLUE DRESS LOOKS REALLY BRIGHT AND PRETTY AGAIN! I'M GOING TO ORDER OXYDOL FROM THE GROCER FROM NOW ON.
THIS IS THE FIRST TIME IN MY LIFE I'VE GOTTEN THROUGH SO EARLY. WHAT A RELIEF NOT TO DO ALL THAT EXTRA SOAKING AND RUBBING! AND JUST LOOK AT THAT LINE. NOBODY COULD ASK FOR A WHITER, SWEETER-SMELLING WASH!
YES, AND YOU'LL FIND YOUR THINGS LAST FOR AGES, TOO. AND LOOK AT YOUR HANDS—AREN'T THEY SOFT! AND WHEN YOU IRON, YOU WON'T FIND A SOAP STREAK ANYWHERE!
THIS IS MY TREAT! YOU'RE A DARLING TO TELL ME ABOUT OXYDOL. I FEEL AS IF A BIG STONE HAD JUST BEEN ROLLED OFF MY CHEST!
YOU'LL FIND OXYDOL IS A GREAT MONEY-SAVER, TOO. YOU GET A THIRD MORE SOAP FOR YOUR MONEY IN A PACKAGE.

Clothes Come Out Beautifully Clean and White

READ MRS. WURTS' LETTER

Mrs. F. S. Wurts
Deerfield, Illinois

"Washday used to be such a problem. No matter what kind of soap I used, or how nice and rich the suds seemed at first, they gave out before half my clothes were washed. What a surprise when I tried Oxydol! My whole wash—149 pieces—washed clean and white in only one tub of Oxydol suds! I used only a bit more than a cupful of OXYDOL—about a fourth of a box. Using other granulated soaps I had always had to use over twice as much."

IF you, too, want the far faster, far whiter way in washing that Mrs. Wurts has found—then you are urged to try this latest discovery of the Procter & Gamble experts, makers of famous Ivory—the New and Improved OXYDOL!

It does 3 things no other soap can do or has ever done:

Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. Hence, gives you your afternoon free!

Gets clothes 4 to 5 shades WHITER, by the scientific whiteness-measuring Tintometer test. Whiter EVEN than other granulated soaps (heretofore considered "whitest washing") can do in TWO washings!

Yet, due to its utterly new and improved formula, colors won't fade; fabric won't wear out! Even cotton prints and children's dainty frocks are safe. Yet, despite its amazing cleaning power, it leaves hands soft and lovely.

It works without back-breaking rubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt—loosens it out in fifteen minutes soaking! So you never have to scrub and boil clothes clean.

Thick 3-inch Suds in Any Water

The New and Improved OXYDOL will make thick "soft water suds" in any water, hard or soft. Without added "softener" or washing preparations. This is why:

It is specially fitted to water conditions in each district where it's sold.

Water in this district, for example, has been tested for "hardness" by expert chemists. Hence, by special formulation, the OXYDOL you get has been "fitted" to it.

You can see the results in the suds. OXYDOL multiplies 500 TIMES in suds—suds as rich as whipped dairy cream! Which means at least twice as much "soap action" as from old-style soaps.

Equally important is the fact that OXYDOL, by dissolving completely, rinses out completely. Thus banishes "soap streaks" from ironing.

And OXYDOL is economical. In buying many ordinary granulated or flake soaps you may have to spend as much as 8⅓ to 30% more to get the same amount of soap. By buying OXYDOL, you get, in some cases, as much as one-third more soap for the same money.

Make This Test

Get OXYDOL today from your grocer and make this two-way test: (1) With a ruler, measure OXYDOL's thick suds and compare with the suds made by your usual soap—note how long they last; (2) watch the clock to prove to yourself that OXYDOL does loosen dirt out in 15 minutes!

Model Builders' Course for Beginners
Lesson VII—Completing Our Glider

By LAWRENCE SHAW, National Director.

In today's lesson in our Progressive Step-By-Step Model Building Course for Beginners we will complete our all-Balsa glider. So far we have our wing and fuselage (body) finished. Today we will construct the tail units, give our wing a dihedral angle and assemble our model.

SIDE VIEW

THE ALL-BALSA GLIDER AT EYE LEVEL . . . THE WINGS TILT

The flat part of our tail unit is called the stabilizer (or elevator) and the upright part the rudder. Both of these tail units are to be cut from the piece of six and one-half (6½) -inch balsa sheet which we have left.

The stabilizer is cut four inches in length and one and one-quarter (1¼) inches in width, as shown in illustration "B" in yesterday's column. Each end is tapered off one-quarter of an inch, also shown in the same illustration. After having cut out the stabilizer, sandpaper it down smoothly on both sides.

Next we cut the rudder out of the rest of the piece of same balsa. The rudder is two and one-half (2½) inches in length and one and one-quarter (1¼) inches in width. However, it tapers three-eighths (⅜) of an inch along one side as shown in diagram "C" in today's column.

The top also tapers downward three-eighths (⅜) of an inch as shown in diagram. By following this diagram carefully you should have no trouble in making the rudder. Then be sure to sandpaper it smoothly and we are ready for our next step.

The Dihedral Angle

In order to insure proper flight we must give our wing a dihedral angle. Dihedral angle as defined in our air dictionary several lists ago is:

The angle caused by the slight tilting upward of the wing from the center to each tip, forming a low "v".

It would be too lengthy a discussion to go into the reason for the dihedral at this time. This subject will be covered thoroughly when we publish our series of articles on "Why an Airplane Flies," which will begin in this column shortly. Suffice at this time to know that your wing should have a dihedral, so let's give it one.

To obtain a dihedral simply find the exact center of your wing by measuring six inches from either wing tip. Then draw a very straight line from one edge of the wing to the other (along the width) with a pencil. Next take your razor blade and very lightly cut a small groove along this pencil line. Do not cut your wing in half or you will have to go out and buy some more balsa and make a new one.

After you have made the groove put a small book or block of wood one inch high under each wing tip and then press down with your thumb on the groove. You will then give your wing this shallow "V" angle known as dihedral.

Place a little of your model cement in the groove and put a heavy object and your wing will have a permanent dihedral angle, as shown in front view of model in diagram "D" in today's column.

Assemble Your Model

Now we have all our parts completed—the wing, fuselage, rudder and stabilizer (or elevator). We are ready to cement these members together and have a finished model ready to fly!

First cement your rudder to the rear end of the fuselage. This is the end that almost tapers to a point. Diagram "A" and "C" clearly show you the rudder in position. It is the upright tail piece, remember, and can be glued to either the right or left side of the fuselage, it doesn't matter. But be sure that it is glued on so that the two tapered sides are to the front and top, as shown in illustrations.

Second we cement the stabilizer (or elevators). This goes on the under side of the rear end of the fuselage as shown in diagrams "A" and "B" published in yesterday's lesson. Be sure, here, too, that the tapered ends are towards the front of the model as shown in the diagrams.

Third we cement the wing to the top of the fuselage in the position shown in diagram "B." The front (leading) edge of the wing is to be exactly two and one-half (2½) inches from the front (nose) of the fuselage. You might make a little groove in the top of your fuselage where the wing goes so as to hold it more securely. Then apply your cement.

Nose Weight

The fourth and final procedure is to place a few pins in the front of the nose of the glider for weight. In figure "D" one pin is shown (the small circle in the fuselage right under the center of the wing.) However, one pin will not be suficient. You may have to put four or five pins in. A few test flights will show you just how much weight you need.

Be sure to let your model stand about an hour before testing it, however, so that the cement thoroughly dries.

The flying instructions are very easy. Just hold your model between your thumb and index finger (directly under the wing) and with just a slight forward thrust of the arm, let your glider slip out of your hand and note how fine it glides to the ground.

Now that your first model is completed, and I'll bet it was a lot easier than you ever dreamed, you are ready to proceed with your next model, a Baby Rise Off Ground. This is a propelled stick model that has a landing gear and is placed on the ground and left to take off like a real craft—thus the name Baby R. O. G.

Watch for the next lesson in this course next week.

Happy Landings

In tomorrow's column we will have the first detailed announcement of our local Junior Birdmen Model Plane Derby to be held on Saturday, July 7. Now that you are really building models you will want to enter this competition, I am sure. Watch for details tomorrow!

Meet to Study Plans For Triangle Traffic

A possible reversal of traffic flow in Market street is to be discussed Tuesday at a meeting of business interests of the lower downtown district and the Traffic Flow Committee of the Better Traffic Committee in the City-County Building.

The reversal of traffic in Market street will be considered as an aid in relieving congestion at Sixth and Liberty avenues. Traffic at Sixth and Liberty avenues, will be especially heavy if the Pittsburgh Railways loops its cars there during the peak traffic hours as urged instead of looping at Ninth street, traffic experts point out.

The widening of Market street to make it a two-way street is considered as the best solution of the problem.

Nude Hermit Keeps Chicken Coop Home

CHICAGO, June 1. — Police found Abe Hinkley, 61, a nude hermit, living in Frank Flanigan's chicken coop. They attempted to take him to a hospital, but both Flanigan and Hinkley objected. Hinkley said he had been living in the coop for 12 years.

Nurse Revived, But Dies Again

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—(AP.)—Pronounced dead by three physicians after she had swallowed poison, Mrs. Mabel Stoppel, 42, a nurse, was revived at the morgue yesterday, but died five hours later.

Dr. B. F. Alden noticed the woman had moved and apparently was breathing. An examination showed her heart was beating and she was given emergency treatment, but she failed to regain consciousness.

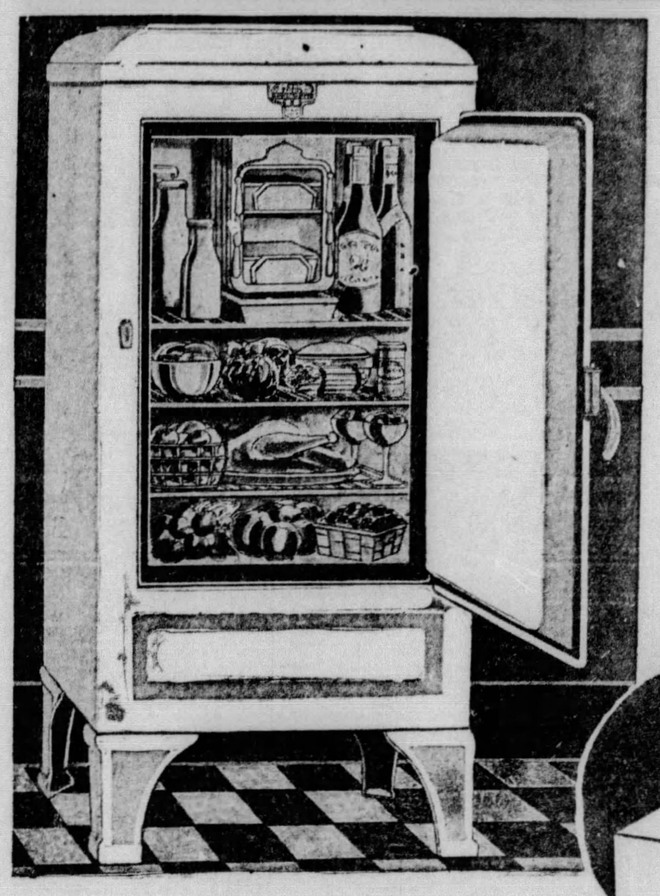
You are paying for an Electric Refrigerator whether you are enjoying its use or not



So You Might As Well Put the Money That's Now Trickling Down the Drain Pipe Into a Lifetime

FRIGIDAIRE

You must have some kind of refrigeration—you might as well have the best. That's an Electric Frigidaire—it's the safest and the cheapest in the long run—it's the easiest to use and adds a great deal to the joy of homemaking. Through the use of Meter-Ice you can buy a Frigidaire for as little as you are now paying for ice, and your money DOES NOT trickle down the drain pipe! Here's the plan!

15¢ DAILY

The little meter is attached to the Frigidaire! Drop your coins into it—just 15c daily buys your Frigidaire this easy way!

This is the Frigidaire That is Only $115

It is so economical that it uses less current than an ordinary Electric Bulb! It is larger than most models at this price because it has 8.4 square feet of food storage area! It makes 42 ice cubes at a time. It has Automatic De-Frosting (turns itself on) and many other conveniences too numerous to mention here. Come in and see them. We know you'll like Frigidaire a lot!

NO MONEY DOWN

This is one of the advantages of the Meter-Ice Plan! You do not have to make a single penny down payment. See that beautiful Frigidaire shown, with the space for bottles as well as dishes . . . If it fits your needs, just tell us to send it to your home—then after it's in your home, it costs you but 15c a day to buy it, while you are enjoying the protection and economy of Frigidaire's wonderful service! Is it any wonder that thousands of good families are rooting for the Meter-Ice Plan!

APEX

Outstanding in design and size at this price. The cooling unit is All Porcelain. Automatic defrosting eliminates the bother of turning off—new web-shelves, so that bottles or dishes cannot tilt over—coach type handles—clothes cannot catch on them! Electrically lighted interior. $137.50 given with every purchase made on our convenient payment plan is a written registered guarantee of complete protection in case of the wage-earner's death before payments have been completed. The merchandise remains in the family's possession, and we issue a "Paid-In-Full receipt for the unmatured balance! You can buy with complete safety at Spear's, at all times!

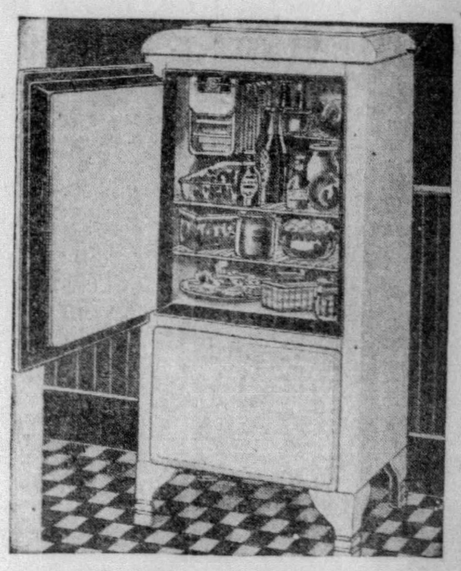
OPEN SATURDAY NIGHT



LEONARD

Made by one of the oldest manufacturers of refrigerators. This model has one-piece porcelain interior — all-porcelain evaporator-Chill-o-Meter with 12 freezing speeds and automatic Steady Kold Defroster. A perfect performer! The price is still extremely low for this high-type box. $114.75

Labor Dims Prospects Of U. S.

By B. C. FORBES

TOLEDO, ALREADY visited by bloodshed, fears widespread disturbances, including the threatened plunging of the city in darkness by electric power employes.

Mr. Forbes

Labor leaders warn that they mean to call a strike throughout the steel industry unless there are granted concessions which the heads of all the leading steel companies declare emphatically they cannot and will not agree to.

Now comes the announcement that if cotton mills cut down production as proposed by NRA, a strike envolving some half-a-million workers will be launched.

ON TOP of all this, employers in many industries are acutely alarmed over the effort to enact the Wagner Bill.

One representative of industry, in voicing industry's objection to the revised Wagner Bill, declares:

"Instead of preventing strikes, it enlarges the prospect for violent dissension. Even though a disputed point is being arbitrated or argued in court, a labor organization still has the right to strike meanwhile. If the bill suspended strikes pending arbitrations on complaints laid before the proposed new Labor Board, violence might be in some respects outlawed.

"Employes would have no guarantee that the procedure of the unions would be in accordance with democratic practice. Strike votes may be taken at meetings attended by only a small minority of a union, and without the protection of a secret ballot. The unorganized individual employe may have to accept majority representation as 100 per cent representation. The American Federation's organized minority includes in its membership less than one-sixth of the industrial workers in the United States.

"The closed shop would be an inevitable result, and the plant worker would have to contribute his monthly dues to the cause of the American Federation. All definitions of unfair labor practices, with one minor exception, are pointed at the employer and the unorganized laborer.

"The labor organization is still not to be made accountable to the law, is still not to be responsible either to the proposed board or to the courts. One party—labor—remains outside the law."

IT IS POINTED out that the automotive board created under the President's agreement and other labor boards set up under the NRA codes are now functioning successfully, but that, under the Wagner bill, these boards could not continue effectively.

When President Roosevelt devised the board of three—one representative of labor, one of industry and a neutral—to settle the automotive disputes, he expressed the view that an advance had been achieved in social engineering, and his action was cordially and generally indorsed throughout the country.

Industry contends that this method should be given a full and fair trial, in view of its results to date, before Congress rush through further drastic legislation.

ON THE other hand, L. Mastriani, president of one union, writes:

"A working man cannot be free or secure a square deal under control of a union dominated by his employer. All such unions were organized by and forcibly imposed by employers."

Bureau Sets Crop Report Date Ahead

WASHINGTON, June 1.—In view of the serious drought prevailing in most parts of the West and Mid-west, the Department of Agriculture will report on general crop conditions as of June 1 at 8 p. m., eastern standard time, on June 8. The report was originally set for June 11. The report will contain a "comprehensive" survey of the drought situation.

GLOOM CHASES STOCK PRICES DOWNHILL

Although business news was fairly bright despite seasonal recessions in a number of lines, speculative forces exhibited some nervousness over the possibility of further serious labor disturbances, especially in the steel and textile fields. Trading, while a little more active than in yesterday's session, was still relatively dull.

Grains jumped 3 or more cents a bushel in early transactions, but extreme advances were later reduced under profit-taking based on rain forecasts for some of the drought-stricken districts. Cotton recovered more than $1 a bale and rubber showed additonal improvement. Silver was somewhat heavy. Strength was again the rule among United States government securities, but secondary loans sagged with stocks.

Although Gen. Johnson announced that enforcement of the collective bargaining provision of the steel code was not being considered at the moment because proper groundwork for such action had not been laid, the financial sector hoped that a walkout in the steel industry would be prevented by administrative intervention.

Adoption by the Senate of the conference report on the stock exchange control bill did not cause any particular stir in stocks. Wall street, for some time, apparently has been resigned to final passage of the measure, although gloomy predictions of the result of the new law on trading are still being heard.

While pessimism was the rule in most commision houses, various market commentators felt that reactionary sentiment was being over-stressed. It was figured in some quarters that stocks have been in a "waiting" zone since early August, last year, and that shares purchased in this zone are liquidated in weak markets on a small volume.

It was also pointed out that the distressed selling element, which was such an important factor in the declines from October, 1929, to February, 1933, does not seem to be present. At the same time brokers were bemoaning the fact that the volume of trading on the New York Stock Exchange in the second half of May was at a daily rate equal to only about 53 per cent of 1933, 41 per cent of 1932, 31 per cent of 1931, 22 per cent of 1930, 15 per cent of 1929 and 19 per cent of 1928.

MORGAN BANK CHANGE SEEN

NEW YORK, June 1.—(AP.)—J. P. Morgan & Co., it was reported in usually well-informed quarters in Wall street today, will become in effect a commercial bank on June 16, the date on which securities business and banking must be definitely separated under the banking act of 1933.

It was stated at the Morgan offices, however, that no definite decision had as yet been reached, and that it was therefore impossible to confirm or deny the report at this time.

Wall street has widely expected the Morgan firm would continue its banking business, inasmuch as it has been its principal activity during the past couple of years of extreme stagnation in the underwriting business.

It is expected in Wall street that some of the Morgan partners may leave the firm to form a securities house to carry on the investment business. It has been rumored that Drexel & Co., the Philadelphia branch of the firm, might open a New York office and carry on the securities business.

Oil Board to Get W. Va. 'Gas' Tangle

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 1.—(AP.)—Southern West Virginia's tangled gasoline price situation will go to the National Petroleum Board for unraveling.

At Charleston gas is selling for 19½ cents a gallon. A few miles west, at St. Albans, it is 3 cents cheaper, and a mile or two beyond there the price is 15 cents.

John W. Wright, chairman of the State Petroleum Code Committee, said he will ask the national board for a ruling. He said the price tangle started with reductions in the Huntington area in January.

Tungsten Ore Price Advancing in China

CANTON, China, June 1.—(AP.)—Exports of wolfram, the ore which is the source of tungsten, and its price are rising rapidly. It sold today at $125 Mex. ($42 United States) for 133 pounds.

The buyers include representatives of the United States, Germany and Russia, but the destinations of the shipments are, in many cases, undisclosed.

PIRATE SCOUTS COMB BUSHES FOR TALENTED STARS

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Hard Spot May Lift Bucs. Cardinals in Big Drive. Win 23 of Last 29.

Red Sox Miss Solters. Broken Legs End Racers. Long Line Before Ross.

Sometimes it's against the toughest opposition that a slumping ball club succeeds in breaking a losing streak, and local fans were hopeful that that would be the case with the Pirates after the latter, buoyed by the fact that they had not lost a Friday game this year, limped back into the home port today for a series with the league-leading Cardinals, their battle-worn brig scarred by an enemy broadside of five straight defeats at the finish of a disastrous trip on which they won only five games while losing nine.

Frankie Frisch

There is no doubt about the Cards' right to be ranked as the toughest opposition in the league at present, though the Pirates long have had the knack of beating them. After a stumbling start, in which they lost seven of their first nine contests, Frankie Frisch did such a great managerial job in pulling his forces together and filling them with fight and hustle that for more than a month the Redbirds have been the best club in either major league. They came here today with six consecutive victories to their credit. Of their last 29 games up to date, the Missourians won no fewer than 23, fighting their way to first place from a tie with the Phils in the cellar. They won 12 out of 15 games and 11 out of 14 abroad during their drive, taking their final game with the Cubs, five out of seven from the Giants, four out of six from the Braves, five straight from the Phils, six straight from the Reds, and breaking even in four with the Dodgers. In that stretch of 29 games they never were beaten twice in succession. The season's record for consistency.

BROTHERS OF MAJOR STARS SLIP EARLY

Younger brothers of major league stars didn't get very far this season in starting out to add to the family baseball fame. In addition to the brothers of Lonnie Warneke, of the Cubs, and Charley Ruffing, of the Yankees, recently released by the Springfield (Ill.) club, of the Central League, another to meet with misfortune was a younger brother of Wesley and Rick Ferrell. An arm injury has put him out of commission.

One other still on trial is Archie Cochrane, brother of Mickey. He is endeavoring to win a job as a first baseman with the Manchester club in the newly organized Northeastern League. Unlike the member of the family who is now manager of the Tigers, the younger Cochrane is starting his baseball career under his own name. Mickey played under the name of King when he broke into organized ball.

LOSS OF SOLTERS BEMOANED BY HARRIS

Julius Solters

Solters has had all sorts of hard luck while establishing himself as one of the best new players of the year in the major leagues. A few weeks ago he was put out by an attack of lumbago, and he had just regained his stride when one of his wrists was broken by a pitched ball delivered by Mel Harder, Cleveland hurler. Julius was sent home and will be out for an indefinite period. "It's a tough break for us," Harris said, "because that young fellow can hit. We'll still have a good outfield, but we'll miss Solters, who is a long distance hitter, and especially damaging in Boston, where the left field fence is fairly short."

RACER WITH BROKEN LEG CAN'T BE SAVED

Invariably when a race horse suffers a broken leg and is destroyed, many queries are received as to why it is not possible to save an animal after such an injury; why the horse's recovery cannot be brought about by the setting of the leg. The question has been asked again since the recent accident to Chase Me, which led to the destruction of that thoroughbred. Jim Fitzsimmons, veteran trainer, says it would be impossible to save a horse by setting its leg. He points out that when a human being suffers a broken leg, about two months are required before the leg can be used even slightly, adding that he has not come in contact with many horses that would remain quiet two hours, let alone two months.

Fitzsimmons explains that horses are shy, easily frightened. It is hard enough to break some of them to saddle, to say nothing of trussing them up and trying to mend a broken leg. It is a kindness when a horse is shot after an injury of that nature, as the animal hasn't a chance and it is only humane to put it out of its misery. Fitzsimmons says he has heard of cases in which a horse with a broken leg has been saved, but he can't recall ever having seen one, and he has been in the racing game for many years. He concedes it may be possible to save a horse which has suffered a mere chipping of a leg bone or some such minor accident, but he doubts that any racer ever actually broke a leg and recovered.

LONG LINE OF JEWISH LIGHTWEIGHTS

A long line of Jewish lightweight fistic stars preceded Barney Ross. The ring historians have traced it back more than 100 years to Sam Elias, who was lightweight champion of England from 1804 to 1814. No doubt there were other good Jewish lightweights down through the years, but the modern line is picked up in 1894, when Joe Bernstein started a career that lasted until 1901. Bernstein fought in Pittsburgh four times with Jack McClelland, Mark Kerwin, Fred Fairman and Loudoun Campbell.

Leach Cross

Leach Cross came along in 1906 to keep going until 1921, thumping his way to fame against many of the greats in the days when 20-round battles were in style out on the Coast. He quit the ring to practice dentistry, and then Benny Leonard, the greatest of them all, climbed the grade to the world championship. Lew Tendler flourished at the same time and would have been a champion at any other period except the one that saw Leonard at his best. There was Charley White, too, and after him came Sid Terris, Ruby Goldstein, Al Singer and many of less renown. Now Ross reigns as an outstanding addition to a brilliant line, one of many to be called a second Leonard and the only one of the lot coming even close to qualifying for that high rating.

PIRATES WON FAREWELL AT EXPO PARK

With plans taking shape for the celebration of the Silver Jubilee of Forbes Field, June 30, many an oldtimer is enjoying the pleasant memories of baseball in Pittsburgh. Pomp and ceremony will mark this twenty-fifth birthday party at the home of the Pirates.

A happy circumstance in the schedule-making has listed the Chicago Cubs as the Buccaneer opponents for the big day. It was the great Cub team of the Frank Chance era that paraded on the enchanting verdure of the Oakland Orchard to battle Fred Clarke's dashing Pirates on the afternoon of June 30, 1909. The red letter day in Pittsburgh history brought an overflow throng to the playground, which still remains the prettiest ball park in all the land.

CUBS HELP IN FAREWELL

The keen delight manifested in the opening of Forbes Field, however, did not preclude the shedding of a few tears for the Exposition Park, beloved by countless devotees of the sport. On the afternoon preceding the jollification in Oakland, the Pirates and Cubs closed the downtown playground.

Among the veteran followers of the club who saw the Buccos in their farewell at "Old Expo" is Jimmy Murray, longtime employe of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Jimmy's sentimental interest in the final contest was so earnest he saved his rain check (reproduced herewith) as well as a "writeup" and a box score of that contest. The Buccos were trimmed by the Cubs, 3 to 2, in the Forbes Field inaugural, but they were able to say a happy goodby to Exposition Park with an 8-to-1 victory over Chance's fine crew.

TINKER TO EVERS TO CHANCE

The box score of the final battle at Exposition Park abounds with names that almost bounce right up in your face. "Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance" played a symphony in that historic encounter, and there were the Schultes, the Archers, the Sheckards, the Mordecai Browns, the Clarkes, the Wagners, the Leaches, the Lefty Leifields, and there was George Gibson, present manager of the Pirates, who caught the farewell at "Expo" and the opener at Forbes Field on the following day.

Here was the lineup for that last game at Exposition Park:

CUBS.		PIRATES.
Evers, 2b.		Barbeau, 3b.

In the pictures above, the great Moredcai (Three-Fingered) Brown and his batterymate, Jimmy Archer, are seen as they appeared in an Oldtimers' game at the Century of Progress World Fair in Chicago last year, while Pitcher Leifield is shown as he appeared in his heyday.—C. J. DOYLE.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: AN OLD SWIMMER—A unique swimming record is that of M. B. Thrasher, of Frankfort, Ind. Old age does not deter him in the least in his aquatic sports. Although he is now 82 years old, Thrasher still is an excellent swimmer and dives regularly from the 15-foot board in the pool at Frankfort, where he swims daily during the summer months. Very few people, even though they be expert swimmers in their younger days, continue that sport regularly after they attain the age of 50. THE HARMONICA KING—Paul Robinson established a new record of 51 hours' continuous harmonica playing at Glenside, Pa., recently and played a grand total of 3,007 selections during the test. He started at 8:45 p. m. on a Thursday and didn't stop until 12 midnight on Saturday. Robinson didn't sleep, of course, but he did eat—playing his harmonica with his nose while he sipped a liquid diet through a straw. TOMORROW: BIRDS THAT CANNOT LIVE ALONE.

GRIMM TO GO, REPORT SAYS

CHICAGO, June 1.—(AP.)—Rumors continued to exist today that Charley Grimm was about to be deposed as manager of the Chicago Cubs in favor of Jack Lelivelt, of the Wrigley-owned Los Angeles team, but President William Walker denied them. He said:

"So far as I know, the matter of changing managers in midseason hasn't been discussed."

Philip K. Wrigley, controlling owner of the Cubs, has been in California for the past two months and President Walker said he has not made any mention of deposing Grimm, who has a year's contract.

Crack Field Set For Chicago Classic

CHICAGO, June 1.—(AP.)—As the great three-year-olds of American turf went through their final tune-ups today, the eagle-eyed railbirds became convinced that Cavalcade will have to be at his very peak to beat his rivals in the $25,000 added American Derby.

The big race over a mile and a quarter, will be run at Washington Park tomorrow with a probable field of 11 facing the barrier, including the "big four" of the three-year-old ranks—Cavalcade, Discovery, Singing Wood and Mata Hari.

IVORY HUNTERS OUT TO FIND PITCHERS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The club's crack scouts dispatched to the furthermost corners of the land in quest of diamond prizes, Pirate officials today stood ready to purchase any potential star who might bolster the local team in the trying days of the pennant race that always arrive with June.

Scout Bill Hinchman, who picked up Ralph Birkofer and Cookie Lavagetto in the past two years, was ordered into Texas and California, and, as the big sleuth generally gets his man, there was a strong hope in the Pittsburgh camp that Bill would soon acquire a pitcher of major league skill.

SCOUTS SEEK STARS

At the same time, Scout Carleton Molesworth took off for the various cities of the Southern Association on a similar crusade. Hinchman and Moley will be gone for weeks, and both have full authority to close any transaction which they feel will help the club. One of Molesworth's best offerings was Catcher Rolly Hemsley, who now stars for the St. Louis Browns.

Messrs. Gibson and Benswanger said they were ready to make room on the Pittsburgh roster for a hurler of promise. This would mean the dropping of a player, as the Buccos are up to the 23-player limit, but inasmuch as the club had lost five games in a row before reaching home this morning, the officials were ready to act.

SLAB STAFF WEAK

The fact that the Buccos made 14 hits yesterday in Chicago and didn't get close to a victory over the Cubs shows the lamentable condition of the Pirate sharpshooting division. The Cubs bunched their dozen blows in such a manner as to win easily, the score being 11 to 5. Chuck Klein's homer in the first inning, his fourteenth of the season, produced three tallies.

That the Pirates went into their tailspin as a direct result of their two-edged defeat in New York last Monday is the opinion of many a Pittsburgh baseball follower, who felt those two setbacks most keenly. It is tough enough for one day to drop a contest such as that

THREE LEADERS BEATEN IN AMERICAN

Associated Press.

The Pittsburgh Pirates' sudden slump, or, perhaps, the home field strength of the Chicago Cubs today had painted a few new highlights in the National League picture.

After battling their way up to the league lead last week, the Pirates ran into their first losing streak when they dropped a doubleheader to the Giants Monday, then took it on the chin three times in a row in Chicago. As a result they were down in a fourth-place tie with Boston today, while the Giants and Cubs were tied for second, a game and a half behind the St. Louis Cardinals.

CUBS WIN AGAIN

Following their double holiday triumph, the Cubs continued their slugging ways yesterday by battering out an 11-to-5 decision as Chuck Klein contributed his fourteenth homer and Guy Bush his seventh mound victory to the festivities.

The Brooklyn Dodgers earned the new hats that had been promised them for every victory over the Giants when they staged a seventh-inning uprising that overcame the handicap of numerous injuries and beat their New York neighbors, 6 to 2. It was the first Dodger triumph in seven interborough games and all their runs came when Hal Schumacher lost control in the seventh. Al Lopez shifted from behind the plate to third base, made two hits in the big inning.

The Cardinals increased their lead by beating the Reds, 3 to 2, in 10 innings, getting their deciding tally when Buster Mills was hit by one of Paul Derringer's pitches and scored on Frank Frisch's double. Boston gained its share of fourth place in an off day, bracketed with the Phillies.

LEADERS BEATEN

The top-ranking trio of the American League went down in order in a series of slugfests. The lowly Chicago White Sox rose up in the second inning and scored eight runs off Bean and Winegarner to defeat Cleveland's league leaders, 12 to 5. Zeke Bonura's twelfth homer and Hal Trosky's ninth wound up the affair.

Washington bunched hits expertly with New York errors to rout the second-place Yankees, 9 to 3. The Yanks made four misplays, three of them in the ninth when the Senators tallied five times. The St. Louis Browns knocked off the Detroit Tigers, third-place holders, 11 to 3, with the aid of circuit swats by three rookies, Ray Pepper, Harland Clift and Al Bejma.

Boston and Philadelphia were idle.

SCHOOL NINES SEEK TITLES

By JULIUS LEVIN

Victories for the Oliver and Westinghouse nines of the City Scholastic League will win for said nines the titles in Sections II and I respectively and throw them into the annual playoff series for the city crown, slated to get under way next week.

South Hills set the stage for Oliver's title clinching chance yesterday by defeating Langley, 5 to 4. Thus, if the Brighton roaders can knock off Carrick this afternoon, the crown will be theirs.

A quintet of consistent golfers from Sewickley High School scored one of the major golf upsets of the season yesterday as they eliminated Kiski, defending Interscholastic Golf Conference champions, from the running for this year's crown. Sewickley defeated Kiski 11 to 4 at Alcoma in the first round of the annual playoff series for the crown.

The defeat was only the third to be suffered by Kiski in four years of conference play. C. Foster Meyer, star of the Saltsburg team, playing in his final scholastic match, was beaten by Paul Trudell, of Sewickley, 3 to 0.

In the day's other match, Turtle Creek crushed Connelley, 14 to 1, to win the right to meet Sewickley for the title at Fox Chapel Monday afternoon. The scores:

SEWICKLEY		KISKI
Trudell	3	Meyer	0
Ford	3	Cass	0
Sirianni	½	Gaisford	2½
Peters	2½	Garner	½
Patterson	2	Thompson	1
Total	11	Total	4
TURTLE CREEK		CONNELLEY
Blaskovic	2½	Stanko	½
Richter	3	Flowey	0
Yurigan	3	Rose	0
Nonnenberg	3	DiPietro	0
Varhula	2½	Guastini	½
Total	14	Total	1

The Somers Trade School team won top honors in annual track and field meet for trade schools at Schenley Oval yesterday, scoring 112 points. Connelley finished second with 95; Allegheny, third with 27, and Washington, fourth with 16.

Bill Tilden, Cochet Resume Net Duel

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—(AP.)—William T. Tilden II and Henri Cochet, who last battled in Philadelphia in 1927, meet again today to fight for a place in the final round of the Middle States professional tennis championship.

In their match here seven years ago, Tilden and Cochet were carrying on for the United States and France in Davis Cup play.

Tilden yesterday earned his semi-final round meeting with the French star by defeating Keith Gledhill, tall Californian, 6-0, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3. Cochet the previous day eliminated Albert H. Chapin, Springfield, Mass.

U. S. Star Collapses---Little Wins Title

ALICE MARBLE BEING CARRIED FROM THE TENNIS COURTS

Miss Marble, California tennis star, collapsed from heat and fatigue during a match in the French women's championships at Roland Garros Stadium, Paris, and had to be carried from the courts. She was taken to the American Hospital, where she recovered. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

W. LAWSON LITTLE JAMES WALLACE

Little is the Stanford University student who won the British amateur golf championship at Prestwick, Scotland, defeating Wallace, the sensational unemployed carpenter, 14 and 13, in the final round, after Wallace had beaten a succession of stars. International News Photograph Service picture shows the rivals just before the start of their titular match in which Little scintillated.

PITT FAVORITE IN MEET

By JESS CARVER

If you'd believe the crooners and such, only mad dogs and Englishmen go out in the midday sun. Add to this track and field athletes and you have the picture really complete.

The tri-state intercollegiate track and field campaign will be wound up and stacked away tomorrow in the first annual Pitt intercollegiate, another of Coach Carl Olson's elaborate programs, aimed at popularizing the cinder and turf sport hereabouts. Leading stars of the tri-state area, representing Pitt, Carnegie Tech, West Virginia, Grove City, Geneva, Wash-Jeff, Mt. Union, Clarion, Juniata and Waynesburg will compete.

Pitt, with its powerful and unbeaten squad in tip-top shape, is a prime favorite to waltz off with the lion's share of the honors, but then, one never can tell; one would have brought you six if you'd have backed Ladysman against Equipoise Memorial Day. With both Geneva and West Virginia and Waynesburg sending full squads, and with the other schools entering specialists, the points will be more equally divided than if Pitt were taking on any one of the visitors in a dual engagement.

The meet promises to offer another assault on stadium and district records, where any one of a dozen lads may crash through with new marks.

Effects of Bout Fatal to Matman

NEW YORK, June 1.—(AP.)—Joe Shimkus, a heavyweight wrestler, of Worcester, Mass., died in Polyclinic Hospital yesterday of concussion of the brain.

Shimkus wrestled Babe Caddock to a draw in New Haven, Conn., on May 22 and 15 minutes after the start of his bout with Walter Padalak in Richmond, Va., on May 25 he became dizzy and was disqualified. He was 38 years old and had been wrestling 12 years.

Yankee Defeats Are 'Explained'

NEW YORK, June 1.—(INS.)—At last it comes out—the reason why the New York Yankees have been losing so many ball games.

They've been using 1933 balls instead of the more lively 1934 variety.

It was revealed today that the club was overstocked with last year's pellets and received permission from the league to use up the old supply before any new ones are bought.

WESTERN CREW HEADS EAST

BERKELEY, Cal., June 1.—(AP.)—Two boat loads of University of California boys left for Poughkeepsie today to defend their championship June 16 in the national intercollegiate regatta.

To Coach Ky Ebright the outcome of the four-mile race is a "toss up" among six crews, California included. His Eastern observers have notified him to be ready for keen competition from Cornell, Navy, Pennsylvania and Syracuse.

Sun Beau May Try Comeback

NEW YORK, June 1.—(AP.)—The New York Press, a racing publication, says Willis Sharpe Kilmer's great thoroughbred, Sun Beau, will be returned to the racing war if his all-time money winning record is broken by C. V. Whitney's Equipoise.

Braves' Jumbo Battery Gets Extra Work

BOSTON, June 1.—(AP.)—Those super-colossal battery mates, Jim (Jumbo) Elliott and Frank (Shanty) Hogan, are tearing around the outer edges of Braves Field trying to shed some of their huge bulk.

Both admit weighing 235 pounds, but their mates insist that these pachyderms are talking about their batting averages and not the figures the scale records when they step on it. Manager Bill McKechnie also has grave doubts. He asks:

"If you guys weigh only 235, what makes you, Hogan, so slow going down to first and you, Elliott, such a mess when you try to cover bunts? I'll bet both of you are close to 300, but you're not going to be for long."

Costs Softball Players Only 17 Cents to Join

SOFTBALL ENTRY BLANK

Amateur Softball Tournament Editor,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph:

Please enter my team in your Western Pennsylvania Amateur Softball Tournament.

..... (Team) ..... (Manager).

..... (Address) ..... (Section of City).

..... (State if outside City limits).

(Upon receipt of entry, cards to be filled in with additional information will be sent to managers.)

By PHILIP GRABOWSKI, Softball Tournament Secretary.

It costs just a little less than 17 cents per player for a team to enter the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's amateur softball tournament, which gets under way during the week of June 10 and the closing entry date for which has been extended to next Wednesday night.

This is on a basis of $1 for team registration with the Amateur Softball Association of America and 10 cents per player for similar registration as individuals, making a total of $2.60 for a team of 15 players and a manager, or just a fraction less than 17 cents per player.

In return for this amount the players get expert supervision of their play, published reports of their games daily, with notes of the doings of the teams and players, official lapel buttons for each player, a chance to win trophies and medals, and the entire winning team in the senior competition gets a trip to the national tournament at Chicago in September as the Pittsburgh representative.

EXTENSION POPULAR

The move to extend the closing of entries from the original date, today, to next Wednesday, announced in yesterday's issue, was a popular one with the managers of teams which have not been able to get around to sending in their entry blanks. The last lap of schooldays and the Memorial Day holiday interfered. Now, however, there is certain to be a big rush to get in under the wire before it is too late.

Bill Crick, Sr., physical director of the Goodwill Industries, has been named deputy commissioner of the tournament for the Lawrenceville, Strip and Bloomfield districts. Teams in these communities desiring additional information about the tournament or assistance in obtaining the use of playing fields may communicate with him at the Goodwill headquarters, Twenty-eighth street and Liberty avenue, or by calling Grant 3717. Crick has had many years of experience as a recreation director and is chairman of the recreation committee of the Strip Community Council.

HOW TO GET DETAILS

Among the latest entries in the tournament are those of Calvary Community, East Liberty, Harry Geidel, manager; Keystone, Lawrenceville, H. Mackey, manager, and Linden, Squirrel Hill, B. Foster, manager.

Do not send any money with your entry blank. But get in your entry now if you don't want to be closed out of the competition. Additional details and registration cards are being mailed as soon as each entry is received. There is competition for girls' teams as well as boys', and a number of entries already have been received from the fair players. The boys' competition is in three classes, for senior, intermediate and junior teams, all of which, and more information is contained on the registration cards which will be sent upon receipt of entry blank. Send in yours now.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Oakland, Cal.—Pietro Georgi, defeated Domingo Valin, 10 rounds.

At Fairmont, W. Va.—Max Elling won on foul from Joey Spiegal, 4 rounds; Tommy Swift defeated U. S. Carpentier, 10 rounds; Sammy Faris knocked out Young Thomas, 1 round; Jimmy Colombo defeated Vic Ambrose, 6 rounds.

GYM MEET TOMORROW

A weight-lifting meet will be held tomorrow evening in the Salvation Army gymnasium in Third avenue. The entry list includes some of the best stars in the country. The Milo Athletic Club will represent Pittsburgh.

SHOOT ARRANGED

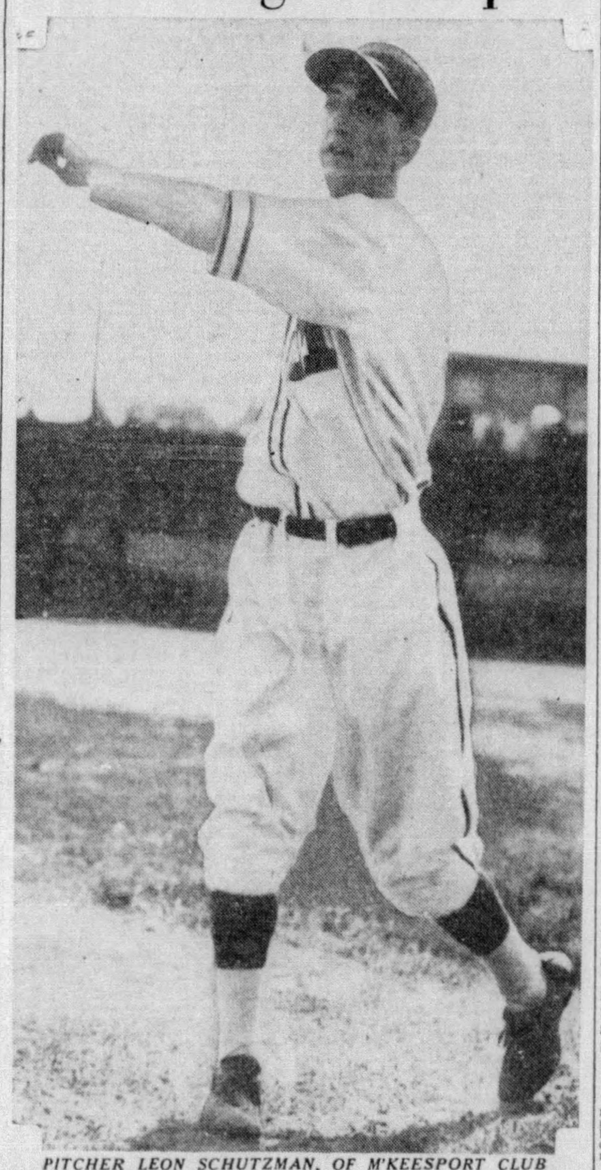
State League Prospect



PITCHER LEON SCHUTZMAN, OF M'KEESPORT CLUB

NETTERS PASS DRASTIC RULE ON LINEUPS

Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League captains will line up their teams in the order of merit of the players or incur defaults for switches in their rosters, according to special playing regulations adopted at yesterday's conclave of the P. T. A. executive committee at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club. The new legislation, though by no means drastic, puts teeth in the long unwritten law of team competition whereby leaders are in honor bound to rank their men on the basis of true ability so that, in meeting opponents similarly listed, a true test of strength shall be had.

Even to the uninitiated it is apparent that where two six-man squads join battle and the No. 1 player on the first is a bit better than the top performer of the opposition and so on down the line, a clean sweep should be the reward of the generally more powerful outfit.

It is to eliminate the profit from such chicanery that the P. T. A. executive group has enacted that hereafter captains must file with the president of the association rankings or "ladders" of all racqueters eligible for league competition. Contestants must be placed in the respective lineups in strict adherence to these ratings.

Another important result of yesterday's conference was the virtual assurance that a P. T. A. Twilight League will function this summer. Gilbert Keisling, prime mover in the project, will preside at an organization pow-wow at the Edgewood Club tonight. Representatives of about half-a-dozen potential entrants will be present, as will Treasurer John H. Miller, Jr., official delegate, of the net body.

John Brown, veteran Belmonter, has been appointed chairman of the association exhibition play committee, with Frank S. Smith, of Stanton Heights and Paul Sullivan as aides. This trio will arrange missionary tussles throughout Tri-State territory in furtherance of the avowed P. T. A. policy of spreading the tennis gospel to every community in the district.

ZIVICS START HOMEWARD

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Freddie Steele vs. Babe Marino, 10 rounds, San Francisco.

Frankie Siglio vs. Tommy Corbett, 8 rounds, Chicago.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Clear the tracks—the Zivics are coming!

Yep, Eddie and Fritzie, the local lads who had to go all of the way out to California to get a reputation and made good.

Accompanied by their manager, Luke Carney, the pair left Hollywood yesterday and are due back home about the middle or latter part of next week. They will drive their own automobile, coming by way of El Paso, Tex.

Eddie and Fritzie went over big with the Coast fans and Manager Carney has no idea of tossing them back into the muddle of local preliminary fighters when they return home. He wants main bout booking for them or nothing, and writes of the prospects of getting Kid Chocolate for Eddie and similar opposition for Fritzie. He thinks both are ripe for the best.

The committee in charge of the testimonial show for the family of Mike Ray, at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Monday night, is doing the job in a big way. It has opened headquarters in a store adjoining the Seventh Avenue Hotel, where tickets are moving fast for the all-star show, headed by a 10-round engagement between Ted Yarosz and Pete Latzo, the former welterweight champion. Lew Raymond, the moving spirit behind the promotion, looks for a house of at least $3,000, which will be quite a draw at the Millvale plant. Front row seats are selling at $3.30 and the other prices are $2.20 and $1.10.

Other bouts on the card, all six-rounders, are:

Mose Butch vs. U. S. Chocolate, Max Elling vs. Jimmy Belmont, Charley Burns vs. Dario Marino, Johnny Durso vs. Patsy Severo, Al Quaill vs. Ray Winbush, Joey Speigal vs. Billy Holt and General Burrows vs. Jimmy Columbo.

A special souvenir program is being compiled for the benefit.

Sport Shorts

James Wallace, unemployed carpenter, who was defeated by Lawson Little in the final of the British amateur golf championship, today accepted a position as golf professional at the Selsden Park Club, near Croydon, England.

Percy Beard, ace hurdler from the South, will return to competition after a years' layoff tomorrow when he competes in the 120-yard high hurdles of the spring handicap games of the New York A. C.

The University of Southern California polo squad today accepted an invitation to play the Army quartet at West oPint on June 8 and will leave for the East tonight.

Calvin Griffith, adopted son and blood nephew of Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, yesterdam was elected captain of the 1935 George Washington University baseball team.

Here it is the month of brides already, and, to use a very orignal phrase, "How time flies!"

Honus Wagner

This is the month when big league teams tighten their belts and try to fatten their standings. Some of the boys are beginning to see the rainbow and they all want to find the pot of gold at its end. We'll all get there by next October, but the boys in some of the cities will find the pot holds only some old soup bones with the marrow all taken out. It begins to look like good old Rabbit Maranville will have to take up writin' after all.

BROIDA, BARBER FACE TESTS

By PAUL G SULLIVAN

Two promising quarter-final frays comprise this afternoon's card in the third annual Stanton Heights invitation men's singles tournament in progress since Monday on the North Aiken lot. Both contests are scheduled for 5:30 o'clock, with Frank Broida battling Russ Unger in one duel and Paul Barber, former Penn State ace, encountering Stan McCaskey, Stanton convert from Edgewood, in the other.

Broida, seeded third on the tourney roster, and Barber, listed No. 5 in the same select group, are favored to triumph, but not without plenty of trouble.

Experience prevailed over up-and-coming youth on the Heights yesterday as Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, first seeded luminary, hurled back the flashy assault of Bob Madden, Pitt freshman crack, and Charley Lockhart, University Club mainstay, slipped brilliant Wally Arensberg, 1933 Harvard racquet leader, his initial setback of the campaign. The veteran contenders, however, were in each case forced to an extra set, O'Loughlin prevailing 6-3, 2-6, 6-2, and Lockhart retrieving a seemingly lost cause by rallying to victory at 3-6, 8-6, 6-4.

In the only other joust of the day, Barber defeated Frank McClintock, 7-5, 9-7.

Dave and John O'Loughlin will perform in singles exhibition feature of the Rochester Saracens Club get-acquainted day program at Rochester, Pa., this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

U. S. Girls Gain French Net Final

PARIS, June 1.—(AP.)—Helen Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey, United States doubles champions in 1932, today advanced to the final round of the French hard-court tennis championships, defeating Susan Noel, of England, and J. Jedrezowska, of Poland, 6-1, 6-4.

Jack Crawford, of Australia, paired with his young team partner, Vivian McGrath, to defeat L. Hecht and R. Menzel, of Czecho-Slovakia, in the semi-finals of men's doubles, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1. The aging French veterans, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, won the other place in the final, defeating the other Australian doubles team of Don Turnbull and Adrian Quist, 6-2, 14-12, 6-2.

Sharpsburg Legion Team Disqualified

Announcement was made today that the Sharpsburg team in the American Legion junior baseball tournament has been disqualified and its two victories over Braddock and Pitcairn thrown out. The schedule for the Western Pennsylvania competition will be revised.

The disqualification, it was said, was due to willful misrepresentation of the players' ages. The post officers were not held responsible, the blame being traced to the boys themselves.

YANKS SWEEP DAVIS CUP DOUBLES

BALTIMORE, June 1.—(AP.)—The United States holds the American zone tennis championship, but R. Norris Williams II, captain of the Davis Cup team, is not satisfied with the doubles team that clinched the victory over Mexico.

Lester R. Stoefen, of Los Angeles, and George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, defeated Dr. Ricardo Tapia and Eduardo Mestre, Jr., 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, yesterday to make it three straight. The final two singles matches tomorrow cannot affect the result.

But Williams said after the match:

"Return of service is the test of a doubles team, and the United States team was not good at that."

He hopes John Van Ryn, who paired with Lott in the Canadian series, may go to Europe for the inter-zone play.

CHAMPION IN FINAL

PARIS, June 1.—(AP.)—Helen Jacobs' five-year quest of the French hard courtt singles tennis championship seemed on the threshold of fulfillment today.

The comely Berkeley (Cal.) girl, United States champion, had reached the final round and found Margaret (Peggy) Scriven, of England, the defending titleholder, the last remaining obstacle in her path to the crown.

JOHNNIES GAIN SECOND PLACE

Johnstown's hit and run men, who languished in the basement and the lower floors of the Mid-Atlantic League after the start of the campaign, today climbed into second place.

The Johnnies reached third place as a result of their double victory Memorial Day and last night's 8 to 3 win over the Wheeling Stogies, their fourth straight, shoved them up another notch in the league rankings.

Huntington was not only ousted from the runner-up position as a result of a 14 to 5 trimming by Zanesville, but Dayton, by defeating Springfield, 5 to 1, went into a tie with the Red Birds for third place.

Meanwhile, the dependable Beckley boys came through with a ninth-inning score to break the tie with Charleston and decide the contest, 2 to 1. The Black Knights now hold the league leadership by three games.

McKeesport's Pirates, of the Penn State Association, emulating the famous Chicago "Hitless Wonders" of days past, garnered only three safe blows from the delivery of Godels, of Greensburg, yesterday, but won the game, 5 to 4. Five walks played an important part in the victory of Leo Mackey's proteges.

Washington committed six errors, but managed to defeat Charleroi, 8 to 5, and Jeannette won a slugfest from Monessen, 11 to 10, in the circuit's other games.

FLOWERS INJURED

CINCINNATI, June 1.—(AP.)—Jake Flowers suffered a broken right wrist in being hit by a pitched ball in yesterday's game with the St. Louis Cardinals. The injury will keep him out of play for five or six weeks, it was said.

BAER, CARNERA BOUT TO GO THROUGH

MAX CONTINUES TO DISPLAY POOR FORM

NEW YORK, June 1.—(AP.)—Reports that Max Baer and Primo Carnera shortly would fight for the heavyweight championship were confirmed officially today.

War correspondents, slightly astigmatic as a result of several weeks' intensive peering at the training camp antics of Barney Ross and Jimmy McLarnin, heaved a sigh of relief as they trained their sights on bigger game: Madison Square Garden rushed into the public prints with a statement that no postponement of the heavyweight title brawl was planned; Carnera took a day off to avoid going "stale;" and Baer took a cuffling from his sparring mates to furnish the impetus for columns dwelling on the Livermore Larruper's apparent lack of condition.

LIKE OLD TIMES

In short, it was much like old times before the depression struck boxing a body blow from which it is only now recovering. Neither of the prospective combatants rescued any drowning females, however. They may be saving that for later.

After taking his usual six miles of road work, Carnera rested calmly at his camp in Pompton Lakes, N. J., yesterday, but Baer went through a full workout at Asbury Park for the edification of a representative group of experts, and distinctly they were not pleased. Eddie Forbes, veteran referee, said:

"He looks like a tired fellow to me. He may be doing too much work. They are laying him off today, and it's about time. He will need all the weight he can pack for Carnera."

MAX ADMITS FAULTS

Other well-known critics shook their heads as they saw the Californian box seven rounds. Max was puffing like a porpoise by the time he was through, and he was easy to hit.

Baer was the first to admit he didn't look so good. He said:

"I know I look terrible now, but I feel great, and that's what counts. I don't underestimate Carnera. He's strong, fast for a big man, and a good boxer; but I'm going to whip him. Don't believe that bunk about me not being in condition."

PROS POSTPONE OHIO MATCH

By TOM BIRKS

The Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association has decided to drop negotiations for a match with a group of Ohio pros this month. Such a match tentatively was arranged for at Conneaut Lake last week upon the occasion of the Oakland Beach open, but with so many tourneys added to the schedule, the pros have decided to hold back for a while. The tentative date for the match was to have been June 25.

The match was to have been played at the Cleveland Country Club, but it was discovered later that an intercollegiate event is listed for the same club on that date. The Summit Golf Club at Uniontown has scheduled a pro-amateur and open tourney for July 22 and 23. It looks as though the match with the Ohioans will be held up until fall.

The local team likely will be selected by means of a qualifying round, eight players to a team, with the eight low scores to make up the final squad.

Oakmont took the lead in Section I of the women's team league yesterday, defeating Westmoreland, 36 to 2½, to lead Fox Chapel by half a point. The Field Club team defeated Stanton Heights, 4 to 2; Fox Chapel downed Allegheny, 4½ to 1½ and Butler won over Edgewood, 4 to 2, in other Section I matches.

In Section II, St. Clair downed Longue Vue, 4½ to 1½; Shannopin trimmed Country Club, 3½ to 2½ and Highland and South Hills tied, three all.

Ferrells Now Batterymates

CATCHER RICK FERRELL

PITCHER WESLEY FERRELL

With the signing of Wesley Ferrell by the Boston Red Sox, that club now has a brother act to rival that of the Waners, of Pirates' fame. Wesley was a holdout on the Cleveland roster and was disposed of to the Sox, where he will be able to toss 'em up to Brother Rick, who is aces up as a big league receiver. This is a Wide World News Photograph Service picture.

PIRATES SEARCH FOR TALENT

lost by Larry French; when two are recorded the effect on the players almost is agonizing. Apparently the Pirates could not recover as they staged their three battles in Chicago.

The Pittsburgh slab staff at best is a sort of skip-stop arrangement, but the furious attack of the team kept the in-and-out mound performances in the background. Now that the club has dropped five in succession, the team's worst weakness has been thrown into a bold focus.

BUSH IS WINNER

Bush rang up his seventh victory of the season as the Pirates played their last game in Chicago. The Buccos jumped on Mississippi Abe for three runs in a hurry in the first round, but once the Bruins got the Bucs out, they required even less time to force a deadlock. Klein hobbled into the contest, struck a three-run homer, and then left in favor of Stainback.

Bill Swift was shelled off the mound in the fifth. Bill was nicked for seven tallies before he left, and neither Hal Smith nor Bill Harris could flag down the team that was pretty much of a "bust" on the eastern trip.

The log of the Pirate ship as it sailed into the home port was nothing to write home about. No less than nine defeats were recorded in the 14 conflicts staged in foreign waters.

Chillysauce.

When a fellow hits a homer in these days of the lively ball, that's not news. But when a player steals a sign and hits a homer with the bases filled—that, dear readers, is news. All of which leads to the central theme, which is that Fred Lindstrom, Pirate star, got the fast ball sign from one of his own buddies just before he unloaded his four-run homer in the bleachers of the Baker Bowl a few days ago. It develops that most of the Pirate cannonading of that day was done through the medium of stolen signs.

The question of ethics being deeply rooted in this sign-stealing essay, you may say, "Is it ethical to steal signals?" and the reply answers, "Yowser! It is not only in keeping with the ethics of the game to swipe a sign, the practice stamps a sign of intelligence upon the one smart enough to pick up a signal here and there.

Now in reporting matters of this kind the question of ethics arises again. "If it is O. K. to steal the enemy signals, is it within the realm of sportsmanship for a writer to dwell upon the subject? "Yes" and "No" the echo answers this time. For instance, were the exact details of the grabbing of the Quaker signs printed here, the Phils might read same and switch their stuff accordingly. Yet it seems fair enough to relate that their signs were stolen without divulging the methods employed, or without naming the player or players who unconsciously exposed them to the foe's gaze.

The Buccos gave the Quakers a real shellacking after they had picked up the home boys' battery signs. One very bright young Bucco was flashing the signals to the Pittsburgh hitters and he was working with perfect accuracy, when Lindy came up with the bases loaded. Fred waited for the fast ball signal and then gave the witch both barrels to accomplish that thrilling feat of hitting a home run with the bases packed.

Steve Swetonic apparently is not lost to baseball. During he absence of the Pirates, he has worked out daily at Forbes Field and the result has been beneficial. The paralyzed condition in his pitching hand, the result of an operation performed in his elbow several ago, has improved to such an extent that Steve can grip the ball fairly well again. The power of his arm is fine. Meantime, he is taking treatment from a specialist. The North Side athlete feels confident of recovery, and if this comes to pass he will have no trouble landing a berth.

Bill McKechnie's Braves, of Boston, refuse to stay put. The bad accident befalling Rabbit Maranville, coupled with the failure of Rabbit's roommate, Bobby Brown, to come through on the sleb, were hard blows felt by Skipper Bill. Marty McManus has held the fort around second in a bright manner, which is one reason why the Tribe is within striking distance of the leaders.

DURAY PRESSES RACE PROTEST

INDIANAPOLIS, June 1.—(AP.)—Announcement by Leon Duray, of Los Angeles, that he will carry his protest against Wild Bill Cummings' victory in Wednesday's 500-mile automobile race to the governing board of the American Automobile Association, held up the distribution of first and second-place prize awards.

Duray, owner of the car in which Mauri Rose, of Dayton, O., rode to second position, notified the stewards of the race of his decision a few hours after they had declined to allow his protest. His action was based on a claim Cummings, who led Rose by only 27 seconds at the finish, violated the rules by gaining ground on the field when the racers were slowed down because of accidents on the track.

The awards which were withheld are $29,075 for first place and $14,250 for second place.

Other prize money was distributed at the drivers' dinner last night, including $6,625 to Lou Moore, of Los Angeles, who finished third, and $4,250 to Deacon Litz, of DuBois, Pa., who placed fourth.

LOCAL SANDLOT PILOTS SEEK NEW TALENT

Managers who wish to strengthen their clubs for the remaining games in the first half of the City League schedule have until midnight tonight to do so. President Everett Sweeny issued a warning today that all contracts for players wishing to play in this half must be mailed before the deadline.

Seeking to bolster his club for the drive down the stretch with the Books, Manager George Falconer, of Dormont, has signed Walter Berger, who last season played with Dutch Ackerman, at Whitaker.

Outside of the Books, every team in the circuit was scouring the district for players last night. The managers all were bewailing the fact that as soon as a youngster is found who can play ball, he leaves for the Penn State Association.

Two games are carded in the league this evening. Bill Dalzell will take his Homewood nine to the Salt Works to meet the Vaughans and Parmelee clashes with Dormont at Dormont.

In last evening's tussles, Homewood defeated Mt. Oliver, 3 to 1, at Mt. Oliver, and Parmelee downed Beltzhoover, 4 to 0, Zigilotti limiting Beltzhoover to four safe hits.

The Homestead Grays swept their series with the Chicago Giants, winning the third and final game of the series, 7 to 6.

CANCELLATIONS AND CORRECTIONS:
Must be telephoned to the Want Ad Service Department between the hours of 8:30 A. M. and 5:30 P. M.
When orders for cancellation or correction are made over the telephone, confirmation should be sent immediately by letter to the Classified Advertising Manager.
A "Cancellation Number" is given to persons authorizing cancellation. This number should be kept by advertiser as a record of the transaction, for use in case of dispute or verification until payment is made.
Notice of typographical errors must be given in time for correction before the second insertion. The Sun-Telegraph will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of advertisement.

BOX NUMBER REPLIES:
The Sun-Telegraph maintains a complete and efficient "Box Number" service for the accommodation of classified advertisers, without extra charge. The Box Number, in lieu of advertiser's own address, is counted as two words in figuring cost of advertisements. Answers may be picked up at the Sun-Telegraph Main Office at Telegraph Square, or at the Fifth Ave. Branch Office, corner Market. If replies to box number advertisements are to be mailed, postage must be paid for by advertiser.

ORDERING YOUR WANT AD:
You may MAIL your ad to "Classified Advertising Manager, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania," or you may BRING it to the Sun-Telegraph Main Office at Telegraph Square or the Accommodation Office, corner Fifth Ave. and Market St.; or you may PHONE your Want Ad and CHARGE it to Grant 5400. "Want Ad Department," the method most convenient to you.

SPECIAL PERSONAL SERVICE:
If you have some special need for which you require personal counsel or copy at your home or office, just call the Classified Advertising Manager and ask to have representative call. No extra charge.

CONTRACT RATES:
The Sun-Telegraph will submit to any professional advertiser special schedule of rates on yearly basis.

CIRCULATION:
The Sunday Sun-Telegraph has, by many thousands, the largest circulation of readers of any newspaper in the State of Pennsylvania, assuring "ALL THE RESULTS YOU NEED" for your Want Ad problems.

Memory Test

4—The first automobile race was staged from Paris to Rouen, France, in 1894. The distance was 78 miles.

5—Ed Walsh was called an "Iron Man" because he pitched so many games. Back in 1908 he set a record by appearing in 66 games.

The Thin Man

By DASHIELL HAMMETT

"Yes, that," she said, and turned away from me. When she turned back her lip was quivering. "That was a lie, Nick. I didn't find anything." She came close to me. "Clyde had no right to send those letters to Alice and Macaulay trying to make everybody suspicious of me, and I thought it would serve him right if I made up something against him, because I really did think—I mean, I do think—he killed her and it was only—"

"What'd you make up?" I asked.

"I—I hadn't made it up yet. I wanted to find out about what they could do—you know, the things I asked you—first. I might've pretended she came to a little when I was alone with her, while the others were phoning, and told me he did it."

"You didn't say you heard something and kept quiet, you said you found something and hid it."

"But I hadn't really made up my mind what I—"

"When'd you hear about Wynant's letter to Macaulay?"

"This afternoon," she said, "there was a man here from the police.'"

"Didn't he ask for anything about Roseben?"

"He asked me if I knew him or had ever known him, and I thought I was telling the truth when I said no."

"Maybe you did," I said, "and for the first time I now believe you were telling the truth when you said you found some sort of evidence against Wynant.'"

Gives 'Theory'

"Neither do I, but it could be like this: you could've found something and decided to hold it out, probably with the idea of selling it to Wynant; then when his letters started people looking you over, you decided to give up the money idea and both pay him back and protect yourself by turning it over to the police; and, finally, when you learn that Jorgensen is Roseben, you make another about-face and hold it out, not for money this time but to leave Jorgensen in as bad a spot as possible as punishment for having married you as a trick in his game against Wynant and not for love."

She smiled calmly and asked: "You really think me capable of anything, don't you?"

"That doesn't matter," I said. "What ought to matter to you is that you'll probably wind up your life in prison somewhere."

Her scream was not loud, but it was horrible, and the fear that had been in her face before was as nothing to that there now. She caught my lapels and clung to them, babbling: "Don't say that, please don't. Say you don't think it." She was trembling so I put an arm around her to keep her from falling.

We did not hear Gilbert until he coughed and asked: "Aren't you well, Mamma?"

She slowly took her hands down from my lapels and moved back a step and said: "Your mother's a silly woman." She was still trembling, but she smiled at me and she made her voice playful: "You're a brute to frighten me like that."

I said I was sorry.

Gilbert put his coat and hat on a chair and looked from one to the other of us with polite interest. When it became obvious that neither of us was going to tell him anything he coughed again, said, "I'm awfully glad to see you," and came over to shake hands with me.

I said I was glad to see him.

Mimi said: "Your eyes look tired. I bet you've been reading all afternoon without your glasses again." She shook her head and told me: "He's as unreasonable as his father."

"Is there any news of Father?" he asked.

"Not since that false alarm about his suicide," I said. "I suppose you heard it was a false alarm."

"Yes." He hesitated. "I'd like to see you for a few minutes before you go."

"Sure."

"But you're seeing him now, darling," Mimi said. "Are there secrets between you that I'm not supposed to know about?" Her tone was light enough. She had stopped trembling.

Mimi shook her head again and said: "I don't understand that child at all. I wonder what he made of our tableau." She did not seem especially worried. Then, more seriously: "What made you say that, Nick?"

"About you winding up in—?"

"No, never mind." She shuddered. "I don't want to hear it. Can't you stay for dinner? I'll probably be all alone."

Denies Finding Evidence

"I'm sorry I can't. Now how about this evidence you found?"

"I didn't really find anything. That was a lie." She frowned earnestly. "Don't look at me like that. It really was a lie."

"So you sent for me just to lie to me?" I asked. "Then why'd you change your mind?"

She chuckled. "You must really like me, Nick, or you wouldn't always be so disagreeable."

I could not follow that line of reasoning. I said: "Well, I'll see what Gilbert wants and run along."

"I wish you could stay."

"I'm sorry I can't," I said again. "Where'll I find him?"

"The second door to the—Will they really arrest Chris?"

"That depends," I told her, "on what kind of answers he gives them. He'll have to talk pretty straight to stay out."

"Oh, he'll—" she broke off, looked sharply at me, asked, "You're not playing a trick on me? He's really that Roseben?"

"The police are sure enough of it."

"But the man who v[isited] this afternoon didn't ask a[ny] single question about Chris," she objected. "He only asked me if I knew—"

I nodded.

"From a girl he knows," I said.

Can't Recall Name

"I can't remember her name." Then I went back to the truth: "The one that gave him his alibi for the afternoon of the murder."

"Alibi?" she asked indignantly. "Do you mean to tell me the police would take the word of a girl like that?"

"Like what?"

"You know what I mean."

"I don't. Do you know the girl?"

"No," she said as if I had insulted her. She narrowed her eyes and lowered her voice until it was not much more than a whisper: "Nick, do you suppose he killed Julia?"

"What would he do that for?"

"Suppose he married me to get revenge on Clyde," she said, "and— You know he did urge me to come over here and try to get some money from Clyde. Maybe I suggested it—I don't know—but he did urge me. And then suppose he happened to run into Julia. She knew him, of course, because they worked for Clyde at the same time. And he knew I was going over to see her that afternoon and was afraid if I made her mad she might expose him to me and so— Couldn't that be?"

"That doesn't make any sense at all. Besides, you and he left here together that afternoon. He wouldn't've had time to—"

"But my taxicab was awfully slow," she said, "and then I may have stopped somewhere on—I think I did. I think I stopped at a drug store to get some aspirin." She nodded energetically. "I remember I did."

"And he knew you were going to stop, because you had told him," I suggested. "You can't go on like this, Mimi. Murder's serious. It's nothing to frame people for just because they played tricks on you."

"Tricks?" she asked, glaring at me. "Why, that . . ." She called Jorgensen all the usual profane, obscene, and otherwise insulting names, her voice gradually rising until towards the end she was screaming into my face.

When she stopped for breath I said: "That's pretty cursing, but it—"

"He even had the nerve to hint that I might've killed her," she told me. "He didn't have nerve enough to ask me, but he kept leading up to it until I told him positively that—well, that I didn't do it."

"That's not what you started to say. You told him positively what?"

"All right and to hell with you," I said. "Coming here wasn't my idea." I started towards my hat and coat.

She ran after me, caught my arm. "Please, Nick, I'm sorry. It's this rotten temper of mine. I don't know what I—"

Gilbert came in and said: "I'll go along part of the way with you."

Mimi scowled at him. "You were listening."

"How could I help it, the way you screamed?" he asked. "Can I have some money?"

"And we haven't finished talking," he said.

I looked at my watch. "I've got to run, Mimi. It's late."

"Will you come back after you get through with your date?"

"I'll be here," she said. "It doesn't matter how late it is."

I said I would try to make it. She gave Gilbert his money. He and I went downstairs.

Synopsis

Nick Charles, noted detective, who tells the story of "The Thin Man," and Nick's wife, Nora, meet Dorothy Wynant, daughter of a former client, in a speakeasy. Dorothy asks where her father is and Nick refers her to Herbert Macaulay, Wynant's attorney. Macaulay, calls on Nick and tells him Mimi, Wynant's divorced wife, is hunting him.

Next day Nick reads of the murder of Julia Wolf, Wynant's secretary. Mimi found the body when she went to get Wynant's address.

While a Mr. Norman is telephoning to Nick a loud report as of a shot is heard and his words end abruptly.

Nick is shot by Morelli. Police find Dorothy's automatic in Nick's apartment. Dorothy, beaten by Mimi, seeks shelter at Nick's, and tells new story about gun. Julia served time for working badger game. Guild tells Nick. Wynant's letter urges Nick hunt slayer. Nick talks with Studsy, Guild and Nick quiz Nunheim.

BATTLE OF THE THAMES—TECUMSEH'S DEATH

Perry's famous victory over the British on Lake Erie (Sept. 10, 1813) enabled Gen. Harrison (west front) to enter Canada again. Important engagements were those at Fort Malden and Moravian Town (Battle of the Thames), ending with British defeat and the killing of the Indian Chief Tecumseh (Oct. 5, 1813). In him the Indians lost their leading spirit; the confederacy of their tribes was broken. (War of 1812-1815).

BATTLE OF LUNDY'S LANE—CAMPAIGN OF 1814 Painting by Alonzo Chappel

One of most outstanding events of 1814 in the Canadian campaign was the American victory at Lundy's Lane (July 25), where Gens. Scott and Brown proved their ability and heroism; both were severely wounded. The deed of Col. Miller—capturing with a couple of men a British cannon in a commanding position near the enemy's center, Chippewa—is memorable.

In September, Commodore McDonough destroyed a British fleet on Lake Champlain; also their land forces, about to invade U. S., were repulsed.

Meanwhile the British succeeded in entering Chesapeake Bay and landing Gen. Ross with 5,000 men, who, dispersing American militia at Bladensburg, entered Washington and burned the government buildings. A subsequent attack on Baltimore, Md., was frustrated. (United States History)

GEN. JACKSON'S CAMPAIGN—HIS VICTORY AT NEW ORLEANS

Andrew Jackson was sent with about 5,000 men to punish the Creek Indians, massacring the whites in the southwest. Jackson ("Old Hickory") crushed the Indians (Jacksonville, Tohopeka, Ala.) forcing them to make peace (March 27, 1814). Then, advancing southward, he repulsed the British attack on Mobile Point, drove them from the Gulf of Mexico and (Nov. 14, 1814) took Fort Pensacola, where British had landed with Spanish consent. In December 2 he arrived in New Orleans, strengthening its fortifications against the oncoming British fleet (Dec. 14). The main engagement, the Battle of New Orleans, was fought January 8, 1815, ending in American victory, 15 days after the Treaty of Ghent had been signed. (U. S. History)

THE FORE RUNNERS OF TODAY'S STEAM ENGINE

Steam engine converts heat into mechanical work. Thomas Newcomen, English blacksmith, made the first steam engine (1711) to drive a pump (above left). In his engine steam lifted piston, then was condensed by a jet of water; atmospheric pressure forced piston into initial position; valves were turned by hand.

James Watt (1736-1819) made improvements still used, so he is called the inventor of the steam engine. He admitted steam on both sides of piston by a distributing and regulating mechanism and condensed it outside the cylinder (1775) (above right).

WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR DEFEATS HAROLD, KING OF ENGLAND (1066)

William the Conqueror, Duke of Normandy, claimed the English Crown on alleged bequest of the deceased Edward the Confessor (1042-1066) who had been succeeded by Harold, his brother-in-law. William defeated Harold (who fell) in Battle of Hastings and was crowned English King William I (1066-1087). He first ruled with justice, later treated the English as conquered people. Dividing the land into baronies, he introduced the feudal system of land-tenure and services. William, most powerful ruler of his time, warred successfully also against the French. (World History)

CHORDATA, 13TH ANIMAL PHYLUM (About 60,000 Species)

WATER SOFTENING

Dissolved calcium and magnesium salts make water "hard." Softening is converting soluble salts into insoluble, then eliminating them by settling, filtering. Slacked lime added to water converts soluble Ca and Mg acid carbonates into insoluble carbonates; sodium carbonate has same effect upon Ca, Mg, sulphates, chlorides. Reactions: $Ca(HCO3)2 + Ca(OH)2 = 2H2O + 2CaCO3$ and $CaSO4 + Na2CO3 = Na2SO4 + CaCO3$.

Honors to Budding Talent, 1934

All our academies and art schools have awarded their prizes and rambling diplomas. Many young geniuses have copped scholarships for their heavy winter efforts.

Ted Larff wins the waste and basket medal for his original painting entitled "The Eye at the Keyhole." They should make keyholes like opera glasses and put both eyes in.

The now famous marble group, "Oysters at Play," earned its creator two years at the Museum of Paris. It was chiseled by a six-year-old lad who wishes to remain anonymous. Six years is a little early to start chiseling. The group is heroic and life-sized. It depicts six oysters grouped around the vicinity.

A still-life of the state legislature during an unguarded moment won a roving ticket in the Sahara for its creator, Miss Tootsie Creak. Miss Creak is charming, talented and impulsive. While in the Sahara she has promised to fill an hour-glass for us. Her instructor said that Tootsie would go a long way.

spectacle with the sunshine working its way through the moonshine. No artist has ever before succeeded in getting these two natural illuminations together before. Nice work, Chick. There's one window we will wash for you.

There was much debate over, "Nudist Colony Defending a Stairway," painted in cold gravy and heavy motor oils by Edward Tiff. The last we heard of that stairway there was only one nude on it. Eddie has his choice of studying three years in Italy or a fine of $50, or both.

The Hoffdunder portfolio goes to Sooey Beanner for his Gobelin tapestry made of broken shoe laces. It shows the Battle of the Field of Gold in the Eleventh Century. The Black Prince has the King of Bohemia by the whiskers and is asking him the way to the next town. There are three feathers in the King's helmet. We know that the Black Prince stole them. But how did Sally Rand get 'em?

These are about the most important awards in the student world of paints, oils and benzine. We congratulate the fortunate young winners and commiserate with the losers. If the budding artists wish to paint something big that will startle the world they can go over the old barn in lavender, carmine and deep purple.

ODD FACTS

Attempts to put out a fire which broke out in a 20,000-ton dump of steam coal at a colliery in Wales, two and a half years ago have failed; it is expected that the conflagration will continue till 1935.

Known as the "mud skipper," a fish found in East Africa lives on land but must keep its tail moist, as it breathes through it.

There are many backward nationalities in Russia who have never had a written language, as, so far, they have had no alphabets.

Local Option the Cure

Police Supt. Ben R. Marshall orders stores that have been keeping open on Sunday to close, in obedience to the Blue Law of 1794. Mayor W. N. McNair and Public Safety Director A. Marshall Bell say in effect, "Whoa, not so fast!. Let's study this and not bring upon ourselves the trouble and inconvenience of a sudden, violent readjustment."

And so we are confronted again with that perennial nuisance, the question if the Blue Law is to be literally enforced and soda fountains, cigar stands and other shops that customarily stay open on Sunday are to be closed, or if we are to ignore the law in recognition of the fact that it is unsuited to present conditions.

The sensible way out of the dilemma would be to let every Pennsylvania municipality settle the question for itself by a referendum, as is done in respect to the question of Sunday baseball.

In setting aside the injunction that was granted to prevent the holding of a Sunday baseball referendum in Huntingdon County the higher courts have upheld the legality of this method of solving a vexatious problem. Why not extend the principle farther and apply it to the question of Sunday closing of stores? Local option would be fair and democratic.

There is no doubt that the majority of Pittsburghers favor a reasonably open Sunday. Many of the rural communities probably would oppose it.

The Legislature can put a stop to this annoying situation by authorizing each municipality to decide by popular vote, independently of other communities, what its policy shall be.

Mr. Waters' Warning

The State Treasurer Sees Tax Relief Only in Abolition of Oxcart Government.

The State has obligations totaling 99½ millions of dollars that must be paid before June 1, 1935; but revenues have been running about 1½ millions a month short of the amount that will have to be raised if the obligations are to be met.

Even without making provision for unemployment relief in the succeeding biennium, State Treasurer Charles A. Waters sees the Legislature meeting next January forced to appropriate 201 millions of dollars to balance the budget, as against 192 millions (including 38 millions for unemployment relief) appropriated at the regular session in 1933.

The State Treasurer points out, furthermore, that the State's general fund has been enriched in the present biennium by windfalls amounting to 58½ millions of dollars that cannot be looked for during the next two years. These windfalls include such items as the floor tax on liquors, the Dorrance inheritance tax, 9½ millions from the Delaware River bridge bonds, and 25 millions from the State bond issue of last year.

The threat to the taxpayers should give impetus to the movement for the abolition of oxcart government, with its excessive number of counties, townships, borough and school districts, each with its horde of political parasites preying on the taxpayers.

"Personally," Mr. Waters says, "I believe that only by the absolute elimination of certain departments, boards and commissions now functioning in our State government, and a more scientific setup of local government will we find a solution to our difficulties which will meet the approval of the taxpayer."

We have here in Allegheny County, in our 120 separate school districts, each with its board of directors, auditor, secretary, solicitor and tax collector, a concrete example of oxcart government. There are only 24 school districts in the whole of Maryland.

Let our school districts be consolidated, and a start will be made toward that reduction of the costs of government which must be effected if the taxpayers are not to be crushed.

A More Attractive City

Here is something worth reading—an extract from a letter sent to Public Health Director Ray P. Moyer by Vic Dwyer, chairman of the civics committee of the Lions Club of Pittsburgh:

"Since coming to Pittsburgh in 1907 I have marveled at the nudity of our hillsides, the ugliness of our waterfront, and the extreme narrowness of our streets—many main arteries . . . Once I wrote a letter to forty-odd Pittsburghers who gathered in the William Penn Hotel to devise ways and means of bringing new industries to Pittsburgh . . . I argued that if Pittsburgh was made a desirable place in which to live, you could not keep industries out of Pittsburgh, for people would LIKE to live here; while I knew of many cases where mechanics and others who came here to work from other places left Pittsburgh because they and their families did not like the general complexion of the city . . . First I think of the waterfronts. What splendid opportunity for vast improvement—in esthetic value, in economic value, in landscaping, in utility, in health!"

There must be thousands of Pittsburghers who feel about this as Mr. Dwyer and Dr. Moyer and the Sun-Telegraph do—that with some attention to the beautification of our hills and river banks, and the improvement of the squalid parts of the city—Pittsburgh could be made one of the most attractive communities in the country, and that efforts directed to the improvements sooner or later would be commercially profitable by bringing business.

Out of this renewed discussion of the matter it is to be hoped there will develop an organization which will not be content with mere talk.

Make It Independent

It Would Be Advantageous to Separate Criminal Court from the Civil Tribunals.

The proposal, steadily gaining supporters, that the Criminal Court shall be made independent of the Common Pleas Court, has received the official recognition of the County Commissioners. It is announced that a committee will be appointed to study the plan.

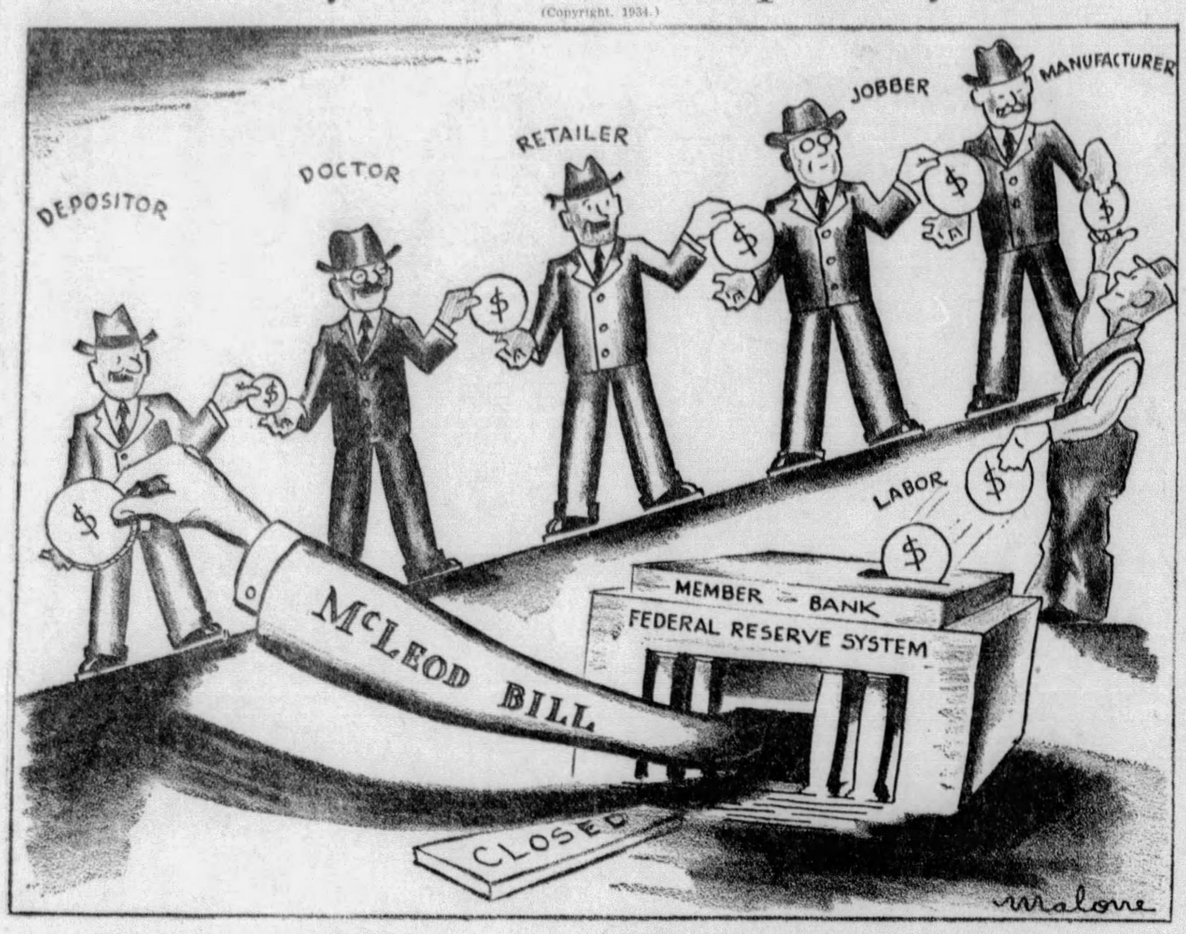
The Common Pleas Courts, now many months behind in their work, but required to furnish judges to try criminal cases, would have a better chance to catch up.

If there are serious objections to the complete separation of the Criminal Court from the civil tribunals, they have not been disclosed.

The Pay Off Would Help Everyone!

(Copyright, 1934.)



Members of the House of Representatives acknowledged that the McLeod Bill is just in principle when they passed the Steagall banking bill, amending it to provide relief for depositors in closed banks up to one thousand one hundred and twenty-five million dollars.

The McLeod Bill, which politics has obstructed, would direct the Federal Government to take over ALL the frozen assets in closed banks which belonged to the Federal Reserve System, and to advance to the hapless depositors ALL their money.

As the Steagall Bill went to conference Monday Representative McLeod announced that he would continue his efforts.

Today the good news comes that enough signatures have been obtained to Mr. McLeod's petition to compel a House vote on June 11.

The McLeod Bill plan is an act of justice which would put nearly two thousand million dollars of sterile money back into trade and re-employment.

CALIFORNIA DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

PALM SPRINGS, June 1.—This once parched, sirocco-blown strip of deep desert with a tiny scatter of jerry-built shacks is now a landscaped arcadia, terrible with traffic, expressing a dash of the social eclat of Newport and Palm Beach. As the crow or whatever flies out here, it's 110 miles from Beverly.

Popularity of this table of the sun has almost depopulated such beaches as Malibu. Palm Springs is "the place" of the moment hereabouts. Aside from its long-rooted hostelry, The Desert Inn, it has the newer El Mirador. The latter for showy patrons, the former for sedate.

All vegetation save cacti has been transplanted. Each avenue regimented with palms in stately plume. Every other section of the area is owned by Caliente Indians in a tribal grant. There are only 35 left, squatting sullenly to watch the transformation with surprised grunts.

About them in mirage-like swirl is a vista of rue de la Paix shops, onyx facades of Eastern beauty parlors, jazz bands, radio and even the monocle. The civilization that drove them to tag ends of the earth still tweaks them in their final dwindle. Lo, the poor Indian!

* * *

The season is about over. Only peons will be left to the blazing rays until summer wanes. While the sun scorches by day, it slips behind the surrounding mountains at 3:30 in the afternoon and the desert blows fragrantly cool, so chilly nights without blankets are freezing. In the heat, men wear only shorts and women's costumes are similarly abbreviated. They play tennis, badminton, swim in pools and go for early horseback rides, sending chuck wagons ahead with breakfast provender.

* * *

The gambling resort, 15 miles away, is The Dunes, a Monte Carlo amid the silver-scurfy sands in trappings and high play. About the green-baize one sees among usual toss-pots illustrious of the Hollywood scene. Sandaled ladies in pajamas with toe-nails in bright hues. There is a $5-a-plate dinner to while tedium until gambling is under full steam. And then high-jinks until dawn tints the gray resort a morning pink.

* * *

Samuel Untermeyer, New York lawyer, has the most magnificent estate here just as his Greystone is finest in Yonkers. Many movie big-uns are to have new castles next season. The town still talks of Jimmie Walker's visit when he sat on top of the world. And his cocky cane-swinging strut.

* * *

High salaried movie stars are now completely controlled by a new type of agent, called rather horribly "flesh peddlers" and rising with a harsh timber alegro out of the ashes of depression. They are in complete control of a star's business, managing investments, budgeting clients and attending to contracts. As a result of the tightening of purse strings, merchants are denied the windfalls that used to come with quick and easy money. Stars no longer buy 50 gowns at a crack or six autos in a row. The new rainy day maneuvers have, by percentage arrangement, created a fresh—fresh is the word—crop of nouveau riche—the agents themselves. Some make $20,000 a week.

* * *

Talkies have separated much chaff from the wheat. Today's star is far more articulate on and off. Much of their success now depends upon nicety of speech and ability intelligently to sustain conversation. The dumbell is in total eclipse. Too, many luminaries grow social. One hears the Harold Lloyds are leaders of a top-drawer set aiming at isolation and includes Leslie Howard, Diana Wynward, the Ralph Bellamys, the Charlie Farrels and so on.

* * *

In a restaurant I came upon buoyant Gracie Allen and her glum husband, George Burns. So vividly realistic is her art I always expect her in personal contact to flutter into those topsy-turvy tarradiddles that make conversation a goulash of goofiness. Instead, one finds a cool, competent Lady Vere de Vere, remarkably and intelligently poised. A lady who reads Santayana, Proust and is an authority on Bacon.

* * *

An autograph seeker with her album popped from an alcove of my hotel late tonight. Above where I was asked to sign I noticed in block letters "To My Only True Love—Alice." So—don't be ridic —— I gently demurred when I should have wrung her neck, and backed bowing into the elevator. Sign one of those and likely the next alcove popper is a subpena server with a heart balm ticket. How long do the girls think I've been around? Experts have worked on me.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Why Doesn't the World Take the Average Youngster Seriously?

"Why," asks he indignantly, "doesn't the world take the average young person seriously?

"Isn't it obvious that we know what-it's-all-about years earlier than our fathers and mothers did? Don't our college records prove that our I. Q. is at least as high—usually much higher—than theirs?

"THEN WHY DO PEOPLE INSIST ON TREATING MY GENERATION AS IF THEY WERE BABIES?"

Because, son, you treat yourselves as if you were!

IT WANTS TO HAVE ITS CAKE AND EAT IT, TOO.

An infant "wants what it wants when it wants it." And it wants to have it without bothering with preliminaries or paying for consequences. It's just a Gimme Kid—regardless.

SO ARE MOST OF YOUR GENERATION.

You're smart—no denying it. Your Intelligence Quota is plenty plus. The conditions of life force most of you to know what-it's-all-about long before your elders did. And you're facile, plastic, quick to adapt yourselves.

All of which sounds like swell equipment for the battle of life. And is. But there's still something missing in the picture.

They aren't worth a thing—they don't entitle you to the slightest consideration or reward—UNTIL YOU'VE DONE SOMETHING WITH THEM.

DONE SOMETHING WITH THEM.

AT TWENTY, YOU EXPECT TO START RIGHT IN WHERE DAD LEFT OFF AT SIXTY—

But do you expect to take the beating Dad took? Are you willing to sacrifice your freedom, as he sacrificed his; to assume the responsibilities, endure the monotony, disappointment and humiliation, grow the wrinkles he endured and grew?

Anything but! The idea not only appalls but amuses you. Why should you, The Wise Egg of 1934 Who Knows All the Answers, have to go through that mill? You'd be a sap if you did!

And this attitude isn't merely based on youthful conceit and laziness. You're positive that it is the only brave and intelligent answer.

YOU HONESTLY BELIEVE THAT YOUR SWIFT LINE AND SMART GESTURES ENTITLE YOU TO STEP RIGHT INTO THE OLD BOY'S SHOES AND WALK OFF WITH ALL THE HONORS.

"ONLY SAPS WORK"—a whole generation's philosophy lies behind that slangy slogan. Not that you aren't willing to dig in plenty if and when the job suits your fancy. But go the grind which Dad went through? Nothing doing!

But the old world doesn't. Why?

BECAUSE YOU DON'T TAKE YOURSELVES, OR LIFE, SERIOUSLY.

Yes, you've "got a lot of what it takes," youngsters. And you were born in a machine age which makes the pickings seem mighty easy. But don't fool yourselves!

DESPITE OUR WEALTH OF MACHINES AND OPPORTUNITIES, IT TAKES AS LONG FOR A HUMAN BEING TO BE WORTH HIS SALT IN 1934 AS IT DID IN 1934 B. C.

WE HAVE SPEEDED UP EVERY OTHER PROCESS ON EARTH EXCEPT CHARACTER BUILDING, AND THAT'S ONE JOB THAT CAN'T BE SPEEDED!

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Womankind—And Unkind

Many a woman possesses the rare gift of second sight—but never seems to look twice when she chooses a husband.

* * *

The man whom the world calls a "master mind" may be only a spoiled, hard-headed, irrepressible, somewhat lovable "mooncalf" to his wife.

When a man is through with a love affair, he discards it as promptly and completely as he would an old razor blade; but a woman can keep as many old loves tucked away in her subconsciousness as she has old dresses packed away in the attic. She never knows when one of them may come in handy.

* * *

We don't know much about what should be done with public utilities, but every married woman is strong for the private ownership of husbands. Somehow, you can't take the same vital interest in keeping up the "improvements" on one of these community husbands, who is constantly changing hands.

In the love game, a woman's biggest assets are a cool head and an amiable disposition. Men may rave of "warm babies"—but most men like 'em sweet but slightly frosted.

* * *

A man wants to LIVE, first, then to love—and last of all, to be loved. But a woman wants to BE loved, first, last and all the time

* * *

The more often a woman has experimented with matrimony and failed at it, somehow, the easier it is for her to find another man eager to offer himself as a specimen for her next experiment.

* * *

Funny, but most of the things which contribute toward a girl's chances of getting a husband have nothing to do with the qualities which would make her a prize wife.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Undiminished

You brought me more than you could know
In those glad days back yonder,
And still your gift defies the power
Of spendthrift time to squander.

Not only did you lend the charm
Of carefree youth's swift laughter,
To that dear time; but echoes yet
Drift down these long years after.

As when a lovely song is done
And vanished is the singer
Bright memories of tune-filled hours
Still in the mind may linger.

So all your loveliness endures,
Unchanged and undiminished,
To bless my book of life until
The final page is finished.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Are you the sort that will cooperate while things are looking favorable but withdraw when things don't go as you personally desire?

Is it possible for you to be loyal to a person or enterprise when the shoe begins to hurt your foot?

Haven't you promised to work for the good of all.

Of course, you have—you want to be in the popular procession.

But you don't exactly conduct your business that way and now that things are rounding up and you discover it is going to pinch, you begin to backwater.

Or do you begin to berate the one who started such a system?

Such men don't have to be advertised—they advertise themselves.

Instead of halting and changing the principle, they halt the good opinion others have had of them and accent their actual adherence to a bad principle.

Square Deal for Indians Urged by Roosevelt

By James T. Williams, Jr.

IF President Roosevelt has his way, the New Deal will be extended to include the American Indian before this Congress adjourns. So strong a public sentiment has been manifested in favor of the Wheeler-Howard Indian rights bill that the leadership of both houses would be foolish to flinch before the opposition of a few special interests.

As amended in committee, the Indian rights bill provides for the Indians these major benefits:

It extends the existing period of trust upon Indian lands, with the elimination of taxation, for an indefinite period.

All true friends of the Indian have long enthusiastically indorsed these additional safeguards for Indian rights.

* * *

Only Selfish Interests Oppose

THE only opposition appears to come from certain special interests that have long exploited the Indian upon the apparent theory that he has no rights which a white man is bound to respect.

The Indian rights bill provides for the appropriation of two million dollars a year for the purchase of land especially for the use of landless Indians.

It provides also an appropriation of ten million dollars to be used as a revolving fund from which loans can be made to the Indians for promoting their economic development.

And even more important is another provision of the bill which requires that any Indians who meet the qualifications for positions in the Indian Bureau must be given preference in work over politicians and their favorites, who have so long exploited the Indian and trampled upon his rights.

Thus, between the educational opportunities which will be opened up by the Wheeler-Howard bill and the mandatory Indian preference, the Indians themselves can look forward to the encouraging responsibility of gradually taking over all the work of the Indian Bureau.

Indians will be permitted under this legislation to organize corporations to carry on business activities and develop their national resources. This will enable the tribes to organize for their common welfare and to gain experience by forestry work and ranch management on Indian reservations.

* * *

'Magna Charta' For Indians

IN an effort to pave the way for passage of this bill before adjournment, the administration has assented to the exclusions of those sections which have caused disagreement among various friends of the Indians.

Among the provisions dropped from the original bill because of the difficulty of getting them through Congress at this late day are those establishing a court of Indian affairs, a system of compulsory inheritance of forest and grazing lands by the tribe, and a system of certificates by which the Indians could voluntarily turn their lands in to the tribe for a proportionate share in the tribal receipts.

These reforms can come later. But even without these features, the Wheeler-Howard bill may well be called "a Magna Charta" for American native races.

One of the first and best appointments made by President Roosevelt after he entered the White House was that of John Collier to be Commissioner of Indian Affairs. Mr. Collier knows from long, first-hand study how forlorn and desperate is the condition of approximately 150,000 of the nation's Indian wards. They have been stripped of their last acre of land, deprived of hundreds of millions of their trust funds and denied modern educational advantages.

Grafting on the Indian will get a knockout blow the day Congress passes the Indian rights bill which President Roosevelt eagerly awaits the opportunity to add to the achievements of the New Deal.

Human Side of the News

Continued Pulsation of a Chicken's Heart for 23 Years Raises Profound Questions

By Edwin C. Hill

THE great Rockefeller Institute in New York holds a monster in captivity. Its prison is a glass jar. It is fed and tended and watched with minute care. It has just passed the twenty-third year of its monstrous life.

In the University of California at Berkeley, a noted biologist gazes through a powerful microscope at living creatures he found in the iron-hard heart of a meteorite—a falling star which came plunging to earth through millions of miles from some far corner of space.

Two seemingly unrelated incidents. Yet each may be a clue to the tremendous secrets which mankind has striven to penetrate for two thousand years.

What would be the two greatest news stories that would thrill the world as it had never been thrilled before? One would be some definite proof of life after death; the certainty that man is something more than the dust of which he is made. The other would be some definite proof that there is life upon other worlds than ours, human life, and that we are not rolling on alone through time and space.

* * *

Living Fragment Grows Enormously

THE monster in the glass jar in the Rockefeller Institute supplies more than a hint that man carries within the cells of his brain a vital and mysterious force . . . call it what you will . . . that is far apart and beyond all physical and biological laws.

Twenty-three years ago, one of the most distinguished surgeons and biologists in the whole world, brought the Rockefeller Institute monster into being, Dr. Alexis Carrel isolated a fragment of tissues from the heart of an embryonic chicken.

He placed the tiny fragment in a solution containing the juice of chicken plasma and chicken embroyo extract. The fragment lived and continued to live. Its heart pulsated with the steady beat of life. And it grew constantly, enormously, so that the flesh overran all else. And every 48 hours in recent years, the Rockefeller Institute people have had to divide and subdivide the mass. If they had allowed it to grow, as the life within it was forcing it to grow, it would in time have covered the entire earth. So far as any can tell, it is immortal.

From this experiment, Dr. Carrel has drawn the conclusion that the secret of eternal life is the keeping of every cell . . . and there are billions of these structural units in a human body . . . supplied with the nourishment that promotes growth. And so there exists the possibility that flesh . . . soulless flesh . . . can be made immortal on this earth . . . or kept alive for countless generations.

But for man, this cannot be. The flesh might be made immortal, but the brain could not be made so. Even if a serum of eternal life could be found and injected into the billions of cells, the disordered growth, such as has produced the chicken-heart monster in the Rockefeller Institute, would make a short end of the delicately adjusted brain. And the last state of man would be worse than the first. For Dr. Carrel there is no terror in the theory that the flesh may be immortal and is doomed to perish only by reason of the brain it houses.

There is evidence that there is something in the brain, beyond all the magic and tricks of science, that is too fine for long endurance in this world. Something beyond physical laws; a temporary prisoner of the flesh; something that departs from the brain and the flesh when the time comes for it to seek release. And Dr. Carrel has said:

"Death, as a price, is not excessive, because the mysterious energy which is created by the brain cells, or expresses itself through them, is, after all, the greatest marvel of the universe."

The coarse fibre and tissue of the chicken-heart monster might go on growing and growing until it was vaster than a continent, until it covered the whole earth and spread out into space, but it would have no meaning. The only thing that seems to have meaning is that mysterious force within the brain which the men of science cannot make smaller or larger, or in any way control, and which drives the material body only as long as some power quite beyond the knowledge or wisdom of man requires it to do.

* * *

Did Life Come From Other Worlds?

OUT in California a discovery has been made, which, if confirmed by indisputable tests, will have a startling significance. And that would be that the germs of material life wander through space, set in motion God only knows how, eternally seeking new worlds upon which to fall and to go on through evolution to thousands of forms of life, including human life itself.

If the discovery made by Prof. Charles B. Lipman, of the University of Califofrnia, is verified, science will have to conclude that when the earth was young and bare and lifeless, life came showering down to it from other worlds where life existed. The great Lord Kelvin believed that the first germs of life might have been brough to the earth by meteorites, fragments of some exploding planet.

An eminent French scientist explained it in this way:

"The earth is but a very small part of creation. Its vegetation is but a very small part of the vegetation of the universe. Showers of meteorites could bring sealed within them, and release when they burst, the necessary seeds of life. Once the earth was seeded all life would have developed from the primitive germs."

And so, if science accepts Prof. Lipman's discovery of actual life within the stony heart of a meteorite which came out of unknown space, it will have to accept the fact of living creatures on other planets, and if living creatures at all, the probability of something resembling or akin to human creatures cannot be rejected.

And that is why these two unrelated incidents in the news have such fascinating significance—Dr. Alexis Carrel's monstrous chicken heart in its glass jar, and the microscopical creatures which Prof. Lipman found in the heart of a cold starlet.
